A proud reserved sensitive girl

reluctant to give confidence or affection, with an imaginative mind, strong literary and dramatic leanings, and a longing for a bigger world and a brighter, more generous life. NIGHT FEEDING.

Writing on this subject in the Weekly Irish Times, the Poultry Correspondent says:—

Giving the hens a feed about ten o'clock is becoming very popular. Some say it increases the egg-production, whilst others assert that it makes no difference. The best way to decide is to try it. Those who have electric light might get it into the roosting house, but others can use a lamp. It is simply a means of giving the birds an extra feed after dark. The light is put on about ten or eleven o'clock, and troughs of grain are placed in convenient places on the roosting house floor near the perches. The birds soon learn to come down and have a feed. The light is left till they return to the perches and then put out. It is said to be very helpful to bring on old hens or backward pullets into laying condition.

YESTERDAY'S CASES IN THE COURTS.

SEARCH FOR ARMS.

SERGEANT'S APPEAL DISMISSED.

The hearing concluded of the appeal by the defendant in the case of James F. Morris, national teacher, of Newport, Co. Tipperary, against Civic Guard Sergeant J. Doyle, from the unanimous judgments of Mr. Justice Sullivan and Mr. Justice O'Byrne in the High Courts, dismissing the defendant's appeal from the decision of Judge Sealy in the Circuit Court in favour of the plaintiff.

The action had been brought to recover damages for an alleged assault upon the plaintiff by searching him for firearms when an attack had been made on the local police barracks in December, 1927. The Circuit Court Judge awarded £10 damages to the plaintiff, who had claimed £30 damages.

The grounds of the present appeal were that Judge Sealy had misdirected himself on both the law and the facts.

Mr. Vincent Rice, K.C., and Mr. Brereton Barry (instructed by Messrs. James O'Brien and Co.) appeared for the appellant, and Mr. J. O'Connor, K.C., and Mr. Walshe (instructed by Mr. Patrick McGrath) for the respondent.

Mr. Barry having concluded his argument in support of the appeal,

Mr. O'Connor, for the respondent, pointed out that the defendant, in order to justify himself in searching the plaintiff, must bring himself within the Firearms Act, but he had not done so.

Mr. Walshe followed on the same side.

Mr. Rice, replying on behalf of the appellant, referred to the evidence with respect to the plaintiff's conduct on the occasion, as showing that he was a man who would be likely to have arms in his possession, and stated that the Court would be justified in holding that the plaintiff's conduct was sufficient to induce the defendant to search him as he did under the circumstances. He submitted that the Circuit Judge had left out material evidence, the benefit of which should have been given to his client in this case, and that the appeal should be allowed.

The arguments having concluded,

The Court, by a majority (Mr. Justice Murnaghan dissenting), dismissed the appeal, with costs, holding that the appellant had failed to bring himself within the protection of the Firearms Act, 1925, Section 22, and Sub-section 4, in order to justify him in searching the plaintiff and respondent, Mr. Morris, under the circumstances.

Mr. Justice Murnaghan stated that he differed from the other members of the Court with respect to the construction of the sections of the Firearms Act mentioned, being of opinion that it was sufficient for the appellant to show, as he did, that he had a reasonable belief that the respondent had firearms in his possession at the time.

SOLICITOR'S PENSION.

CORK COUNTY COUNCIL'S APPEAL.

The County Council of Cork appealed from an order of Mr. Justice Sullivan, Mr. Justice Hanna and Mr. Justice O'Byrne, in the High Court in March last, granting Mr. P. J. O'Driscoll, solicitor, Bandon, a mandamus, calling upon them to assess the pension to which he was entitled as solicitor to the Bandon Rural District Council.

Mr. Fitzgerald, K.C., and Mr. Binchy, K.C. (instructed by Mr. A. H. Exham), appeared for the appellants; and Mr. Michael Comyn, K.C., and Mr. J. McCarton (instructed by Mr. J. Early) for the respondent.

Mr. Binchy had only partly opened the appeal when the Court rose, the further hearing being adjourned until to-day.

PAINTER ELECTROCUTED.

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE HANNA AND A JURY.)

Mrs. Mary Kinley, widow of Thomas Kinley, a painter, who had resided in Peter's place, Adelaide road, Dublin, sought damages from the Hibernian Bank, Ltd., on account of the death of her husband as a result of an accident in the Hibernian Bank, College Green, Dublin, on 14th October, 1928.

When the case was called,

Mr. Martin Maguire, K.C., with whom were Mr. C. Lavery, K.C., and Mr. Conor Maguire (instructed by Mr. J. F. Lalor), on behalf of the plaintiff, announced that a settlement had been arrived at, which provided for payment by the bank of £450 and costs of the action.

Mr. Justice Hanna said that the damages would have to be apportioned by the jury as between the widow and her daughter, Mary Joseph Kinley, a minor, aged fourteen.

Mr. Maguire explained that the accident was rather unusual. The plaintiff's husband was at his work as a painter, and was washing down a wall on a staircase in the bank premises when his hand came in contact with an electric bracket, and he received a shock which caused his death. A number of factors, counsel said, had contributed to bring about this unfortunate result; the wall was saturated with water and the fittings appeared to have been defective. The case was one which presented considerable difficulty from the plaintiff's point of view, but the bank had met the claim fairly by agreeing to pay the sum mentioned.

Mrs. Kinley was examined, and stated that her daughter was aged fourteen. She was anxious to purchase a house which she could let in lodgings with the money which had been agreed to by the bank.

The jury apportioned the amount by awarding £300 to Mrs. Kinley and £150 to her daughter.

An order was made by the judge accordingly.

Mr. Overend, K.C.; Mr. Fitzgerald, K.C.; Mr. Binchy, K.C., and Mr. Monks (instructed by Messrs. D. and T. Fitzgerald) were for the defendants.

'BUS IN COLLISION.

£650 DAMAGES FOR A LABOURER

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE SULLIVAN AND A JURY.)

An action was brought by James Lynch, labourer, of New row, Chapelizod, against the General Omnibus Company, Ltd., for damages for personal injuries which he received when a passenger in a 'bus belonging to the defendants on the 14th September, 1929. It appeared that the 'bus when going towards Chapelizod collided with a turf cart, and that as a result the plaintiff, who was on the platform of the 'bus, sustained a fracture of the left leg and other injuries.

The case having been opened by Mr. James Geoghegan, K.C., with whom was Mr. Martin Maguire, K.C., and Mr. A. Lynn (instructed by Mr. C. B. W. Boyle), for the plaintiff,

Mr. C. Lavery, K.C., with whom was Mr. John Maguire (instructed by Mr. Joseph Barrett), on behalf of the defendants, admitted liability, and said that the only question for the jury was one of damages.

It was announced later that a settlement had been arrived at, by which the defendants agreed to pay £650 damages, and also the taxed costs of the action.

ASSAULT ON DOCTOR.

BEATEN IN GARDEN AFTER LEGAL ACTION.

At Dundrum District Court yesterday Dr. Spencer Shiels, 31 Upper Mount street, Dublin, summoned Thomas Pender, Kingston Cottages, Sandyford, for assaulting him in his garden.

The complainant said that he was in his garden, when the defendant approached him in connection with a recent action for nonpayment of rent. The defendant was in a very truculent mood. After a time he caught the witness by the collar and knocked him down.

Dr. Shiels said that he was in fear of his life in consequence of the defendant's conduct.

District Justice Reddin convicted, and fined the defendant 40s., and ordered him to find bail, himself in £10, and two sureties of £10 each, for two years.

DUBLIN CIRCUIT (CRIMINAL) COURT

LAND COMMISSION FUNDS.

SURVEYOR CHARGED.

(BEFORE JUDGE SHANNON.)

John H. A. Fogarty, surveyor to the Irish Land Commission, pleaded not guilty to an indictment charging him with converting to his own use the sum of £74 10s. entrusted to him by the Land Commission to pay the wages of the foreman and gangers and purchase certain goods required on improvement schemes promoted by the Land Commission.

Mr. T. A. Finlay, K.C., and Mr. E. J. Kelly (instructed by the Chief State Solicitor) prosecuted, while Mr. E. Lupton, K.C. (instructed by Messrs. Gerald Byrne and Co.) defended.

CHEQUES FOR £5,000

Mr. Finlay, opening the case for the prosecution, said that prior to February 26th, 1929, the accused man was employed in the capacity of an unestablished surveyor by the Irish Land Commission. The work carried out by the Commission throughout the various counties was termed improvement schemes. For the purpose of carrying out these works the Commission employed surveyors. The inspector for the county acted as a subaccountant, and paid out certain sums to the unestablished surveyor for the payment of gangers and the purchase of materials.

The accused man was acting under Inspector Bowles in Leix and Offaly and Inspector McLoughlin in Kilkenny. From February, 1929, to May, 1930, he received cheques amounting to £5,090 from Inspector Bowles, to be spent on schemes in Leix and Offaly, and cheques amounting to £290 for work in Kilkenny. On February 29, 1929, he received £100 from the Commission and lodged it to his own account with the Munster and Leinster Bank, Baggot street, Dublin, and from that date he had lodged upwards of £5,090 to his own account. When he sent in his account to the Commission to be checked the money was found to be unaccounted for.

Inspector Bowles, of the Land Commisison, gave evidence supporting counsel's statement.

Cross-examined, he said that the defendant, in a conversation with him, said that, if he were not able to vouch for the money, by which he admitted he was short, to the Land Commission, he would pay it up. Fogarty was rather careless in his work.

Inspector McLoughlin and Mr. W. Nally, establishment officer, also gave evidence.

ACCOUNTANT'S EVIDENCE.

Mr. J. J. Douglas, accountant, Irish Land Commission, gave evidence, and, in reply to Mr. Lupton, said that the defendant helped as well as he could to get at the bottom of things.

The court adjourned until 12.30 o'clock to-day, when the hearing of the case will be resumed.

DUBLIN DISTRICT COURT.

WANTED BY BRIGHTON POLICE.

YOUNG MARRIED COUPLE CHARGED.

(BEFORE MR. LITTLE.)

A young married couple named Paul and Bridget Probert appeared on remand, charged with the larceny of £5 10s. in gold from a chest of drawers in a house in North Clarence street, Dublin, in which they stayed in September last.

Detective Hart gave evidence of the arrest of the male defendant in Navan, to which his wife belonged. He himself belonged to the South of England, and at present both of them were wanted by the police at Brighton. When the charge in the present case was preferred against them, the male defendant said: "I'll plead guilty." His wife said nothing. The witness added that he did not believe that the woman was present when her husband took the money.

Mr. Little imposed a sentence of fourteen days' imprisonment, with hard labour, on Probert, and discharged his wife.

WINDOW-SMASHING.

A VINDICTIVE STREET MUSICIAN.

When a street musician named William O'Shea, with an address in the Coombe, was charged with breaking a pane of stained glass, value £2, in the Continental Bar, Marlborough street, last Saturday night, evidence was given that after playing a cornet in the street outside he went into the public-house to collect money. The manager told him that he could collect in the shop, but that he could not go into the private section, whereupon he went outside and smashed the glass with his fist.

A sentence of one month's imprisonment, with hard labour, was imposed.

STORY OF AN ATTACK.

WHY JUSTICE DISMISSED A CHARGE.

Giving evidence in a case in which Christopher Grimes (31), an ex-soldier, living at Ward's Hill, was charged with assaulting him and injuring him so seriously that he had to be treated at the Meath Hospital, Laurence Farrell, a coal labourer, who appeared with his chin bandaged, said that he was going to Ward's Hill last Saturday evening when the defendant and two other men attacked him. He was knocked down, and Grimes kicked him when he was on the ground. He had to be treated at the Meath Hospital, and was unable to go to work.

Mr. Little—What was it all about?

The Witness—That is what I cannot explain.

Mr. Little—Well, I must know what caused it.

The Witness—I am afraid, sir, you will have to find that out for yourself. (Laughter.)

Several witnesses gave evidence, but there was confusion as to the cause of the trouble.

Mr. Little—There is not a word of truth in the lot of you. Get out of court every one of you. The charge is dismissed.

IN RUSSIA TO-DAY

ADDRESS TO DUBLIN ROTARY CLUB.

Mrs. Sheehy-Skeffington was the speaker at the weekly luncheon meeting of the Dublin Rotary Club yesterday, when she read a paper in which she described her experiences in Russia last August.

She began by saying that she would deal only with the "high lights of the picture." She then told how, after spending six days in Moscow, she and her friends trekked for nearly three weeks in a caravan train across the Union from North to South, and on to the very frontier of Persia, stopping en route at various places to visit factories, oilfields and refineries, railway works and electric plant. The trip, she said, covered 15,000 miles.

A DIFFERENT PICTURE.

Referring to the changes under the new régime, she pointed out that the Tsar's Winter and Summer Palaces were now museums or social buildings—palaces of labour—while the homes of the nobility had been converted into workers' clubs and rest homes, schools and colleges. Of the 850 churches in Moscow, many had been turned into museums—one an anti-religious one—but many of the various denominations were still functioning, although with few worshippers.

Space in Moscow was still strictly controlled, houses being rationed according to the wants of the workers. Hotels, transport of all kinds, shops, etc., were State-owned, and were run by directors, strictly accountable to the Soviet. Prices were controlled, and "profiteering" was punished. Food, clothing, tobacco and boots were rationed. Whenever anything was short the children and the women had first claim.

THE LIFE OF THE PEOPLE.

"It is wonderful to see the virgin steppes being broken up, and to see the child-like joy of the workers and the peasants in their machines cultivating the soil. Women everywhere take their part in all work, and are paid at the same rate as the men.

"Life is joyous, too. There is community singing, folk dancing, sports, swimming, games; but jazz is taboo. In all the parks the people disport themselves, and all Russia, as they say, is on wheels.

"There is no fashion-tyranny in Russia. While there I never saw a stiff white collar, a bowler hat or an umbrella. All these are looked on as bourgeois.

"In Russia there are no shop-window displays, no brass buttons or gold lace, no class distinctions of any kind. 'Tips' are not permitted, and there are notices in the hotels warning visitors:—'Do not insult the workers who serve you by offering them bribes.'

"The people look fit and full of vigour. They are grave and rather dignified, except when they sing or dance; they are friendly, full of questions, eager to know. They have, at times, an utter indifference to time-tables which is quite Irish."

In conclusion, the speaker mentioned that in the menu she had partaken of in restaurants were biscuits made in Dublin—Jacob's.

A vote of thanks was accorded to Mrs. Sheehy-Skeffington on the motion of Mr. Kevin Kenny, seconded by Mr. T. R. Sparks. The chair was occupied by Mr. G. J. T. Clampett, the President of the club.

BALROTHERY UNION.

INSPECTOR'S REPORT OF SICKNESS.

At the fortnightly meeting of the Balrothery Union Committee, yesterday, Mr. P. J. Curran presiding, a letter was received from the Department of Local Government enclosing copy of a report from the medical inspector, Dr. MacDonnell, to the effect that he was having considerable trouble with the colony established in Balrothery old workhouse.

The report stated:—"There are approximately fifty persons housed in this building from all other dispensary districts in the Union—there are none from Holmpatrick. There has been a considerable amount of sickness amongst the inhabitants, and, according to the medical officer, more than three-fourths of the visiting tickets come from the Union."

The Minister called attention to previous correspondence on the matter, and requested the Committee to give it consideration.

The Chairman said that he had been at meetings in the Union every fortnight since the hospital was closed, and had never heard of any sickness there.

"The only thing I know about it," he added, "is that there are plenty of christenings there."

No action was taken.

A letter was received from the Local Government Department assigning the duties of Clerk of the Union to Mr. Patrick J. Murphy, County Secretary.

SALVATION ARMY'S FUTURE.

COMMISSIONERS TO DISCUSS CHANGES.

General Higgins, head of the Salvation Army, who yesterday returned from a tour of South Africa, made an important statement last night on the future of the Army. When the Commissioners, who have come from all parts of the world, start their meetings on Monday next, they will, he said, discuss big constitutional changes in the Army, the curtailment of the personal powers of the General—who is himself in favour of this—and a general move from autocracy to constitutional government.

"I have asked the Commissioners to London to discuss with me important questions affecting the Army's work and its constitution. The Council will consist of forty-two Commissioners. It is no secret that it is thought there should be some modifications of the Army's constitution.

THREE MAIN PROPOSALS.

"As far as I am concerned, there are three main things to which I have pledged myself. They are: (1) That the property and capital assets in this country, instead of being held by the General for the time being as the sole trustee, shall be held by a proper trustee company; (2) that instead of the future General being appointed by the present General—by putting a name in an envelope—the future General shall be elected by an electoral body of the Salvation Army; and (3) that as the regulations of the Salvation Army provide for the retirement of all its officers at a certain stage, there shall be an age fixed for the retirement of the General."

MORE BRIBERY CHARGES IN NEW YORK.

From Reuter's Correspondent.
NEW YORK, Monday.

Mr. Martin J. Healy, a wealthy "Tammany" district leader and a former prominent New York City official, has been arraigned before the Supreme Court on a charge of grand larceny, after having his finger-prints taken and after having been photographed. This is the third time he has been indicted. He has already been charged with failing to file his proper income tax returns, and with selling an appointment to the magistrates' bench for 10,000 dollars (£2,000). He is now charged with accepting 2,000 dollars (£400) and a diamond bracelet worth 850 dollars for procuring the reappointment of a man as a City Marshal. The bracelet was presented to Mrs. Healy.

CONDITION OF DUBLIN MANSION HOUSE.

CITY ARCHITECT'S PROPOSALS FOR RENOVATION.

The special Committee set up by the Dublin Corporation to consider the question of renovating the Mansion House so as to make it a fit and proper residence for the Lord Mayor met yesterday morning in the Mansion House.

The City Manager and the City Architect were present, and accompanied the Lord Mayor and the Committee on a tour of inspection of the buildings.

The City Architect laid proposals before the Committee. He pointed out that the Mansion House was several hundred years old, and was in a rather bad condition. The cost of putting it in efficient repair was estimated at from £4,500 to £5,000. This renovation would put the Mansion House in good repair for another 25 years at least.

With the tradition behind the Mansion House, the Committee decided that it would be only right to repair and maintain it. The Committee also decided to remove the servants' quarters and kitchen from the badly-lit and badly-ventilated underground rooms to more habitable quarters.

It was further decided that modern conveniences, such as electric lighting and electric heating throughout, should be installed. The matter of re-decoration was also favourably considered.

The Committee will report to the Corporation.

GOVERNMENT AND THE CATERING TRADE.

LORD LURGAN CRITICISES THEIR ACTION.

Lord Lurgan, Chairman of the Carlton Hotel directors, at the annual meeting of shareholders in London yesterday, criticised the Government's proposal to apply the Trade Board Act to the catering trade without, so far as he could discover, any demand from the workers engaged in the business. Explaining that a trade board had the power to fix statutory minimum wages, and working hours for persons engaged in the industry to which the Act might be applied, Lord Lurgan declared it to be a serious and vexatious matter, and added that counsel had been briefed to appear on behalf of the Hotels and Restaurants' Association when the public inquiry was held into the matter.

One would have thought, he continued, that with the present burden of taxation, and the admittedly distressed condition of trade generally, with its consequent appalling state of unemployment, the Government would have recognised the inexpediency of applying the Act to this trade. The hotel and restaurant industry is, in my opinion, one of the most important and responsible industries a country can possess. We are the hosts of the nation, and in attracting visitors from abroad we increase the trade of the country and add considerably to the country's invisible exports. For the Government to hamper our industry is little less than suicide. However, added Lord Lurgan, we must hope that better counsels will prevail, and that the Government will see the force of our objections to the Order, and either withdraw it entirely or, failing that, exempt licensed restaurants from the requirements of the Act.

THE COAL TRADE AND ADVERTISING.

MR. GORDON SELFRIDGE'S ADVICE.

The need for publicity and advertising in the coal trade was stressed in Mr. H. Gordon Selfridge's address to members of the Coal Trade Luncheon Club, at the Hotel Metropole, London, yesterday.

The coal trade, he said, was no longer a monopoly, and they had seriously to recognise that oil, electricity, petrol and water-power were in competition against them. The coal trade had to do something to meet that competition, and he thought that they should call to their aid publicity and advertising, which were the handmaidens of industry, and had become necessary factors in progress.

Printers' ink, judiciously used, can be one of the biggest powers in the world, he added. It makes public opinion, it makes people make up their minds, it decides people on certain points which they had not before decided.

Publicity must be honest, and if they approached their problem with careful thought, and tackled it with energy, and got the best brains to work on it, he was sure that they would achieve success.

Mr. J. Stanleigh Turner, chairman of the club, said that coal had got to start advertising on a large scale.

DUBLIN TRAFFIC PROBLEMS.

SAFETY ZONES AT TRAMWAY STOPS.

THE EDUCATION OF THE "JAY-WALKER."

That pedestrians in Dublin should make themselves amenable to the traffic regulations put into force for their own safety has long been desired by the members of the traffic section of the Civic Guard, of which Inspector Hurley is in charge in the Metropolitan area. For several years the Inspector has striven to educate the public on this very important matter.

A year or two ago he tried to get pedestrians to keep to the left on footpaths, but gave up the task, at least for the present, with a despairing gesture. All the time, however, he has maintained the fight against the "jay-walker" and the indifferent pedestrian. It has been suggested that a provision should be included in the proposed new traffic regulations that will come before the Dail for consideration within the next couple of months in the shape of authority to the Civic Guard to charge careless pedestrians on the road in the same way as careless motorists are charged.

THE CROSSING NOTICES.

It is doubtful, however, if this will be done. The greatest incentive to "jay-walking" is the knowledge that the pedestrian has just as good a right to the carriage-way as has the motorist and other users. In the Dublin Metropolitan Division, however, more and more the people are beginning to realise that the pedestrian traffic systems devised by the police are for their benefit, and not attempts to interfere with their rigths

At College Green, where special pedestrian white line passage across the roadway from different points have been laid down, it is evident to the casual observer that the people for the most part are conforming to the request on the notice boards, "Please Cross Here."

THE O'CONNELL BRIDGE PROBLEM.

Now that that particular experiment has been a success, Inspector Hurley is drawing up plans for similar notices at all the important crossings in the city. The crossings at both sides of O'Connell Bridge present a peculiar problem, and no attempt at solving it can be undertaken until the new sets of tramlines close to the island on the bridge have been finished. This work has been held up pending the arrival of the special automatic points which have had to be requisitioned from the United States. These are expected immediately, and the new lines will be in operation before the end of November. This will give great relief to the traffic congestion, caused by the trams which at present take up nearly two-thirds of the carriage-way.

It is proposed also to introduce the white-line system of crossings for pedestrians at the junction at the Nelson Pillar and at the junction of South Great George's street and Dame street. It may be further extended as time goes on.

"SAFETY ZONES."

Perhaps the most noteworthy scheme that the police are preparing is the institution of "safety zones" on the carriage-ways at the principal tramway stopping places in the centre of the city. For instance, there is a tramway stop opposite the Irish Times office in Westmoreland street, and throughout the day, particularly at the "rush" hours, intending tramway passengers have to run the gauntlet of the traffic in an endeavour to catch their trams. This appertains also at the North and South side stops at the Nelson Pillar and in College Green and at one or two other points. It is particularly trying for elderly and timid people. By means of the proposed "safety zones" intending passengers will be able to stand in the roadway within the area of these zones, which will be prohibited areas as far as ordinary road traffic is concerned.

These zones will run for the length of a tramcar—about 30 feet—at each of these stops, and will be six feet deep—the distance at which motor cars have to keep when passing stationary trams. Tramway passengers will, in addition, be able to wait within these zones for any time for their tramcars. White lines will run out from the footpath to connect up with the zones.

This scheme will be tried as soon as possible.

KILL PARISH.

DISPERSAL SALE.

CAPT. BOYD-ROCHFORT'S HEREFORDS.

From Our Agricultural Correspondent.

An average of £35 was realised at the dispersal of pure-bred Hereford cattle which took place at Middleton Park, Castletown-G., Co. Westmeath, yesterday. This herd of whitefaces was established by Captain G. A. Boyd-Rochfort, V.C., through purchases of some of the best stock from Glynwood and Rosemount, and has enjoyed a high reputation.

A dispersal was decided on only because of Captain Boyd-Rochfort's decision to enlarge his stud farm without taking up more land. A tribute to the esteem in which the herd was held was afforded by the representative company which attended the sale. These included stock-breeders from Antrim, Leitrim, Kildare, Tipperary, Kilkenny, Roscommon, Offaly, Meath, Westmeath and Longford, and from start to finish trade was animated.

Some excellent prices were realised, the top price of the day, 60 gns., being paid by Captain Stanley, Coolamber Manor, Streete, for the compact, lengthy, low set one-and-a-half-year-old heifer Middleton Fancy. Like most of the young stock, she was sired by that excellent stock bull Allenstown Stoker, bred by Admiral Craig-Waller. The best of the two-and-a-half-year-old heifers was Middleton Charmer, an attractive beast, that brought 48 gns. from Mr. S. Quinn.

The best price for cows, 49 gns., was paid by Mr. Smith, of Delvin, for the symmetrical nine-year-old Middleton Star, by Polar Star. Another good-looking cow was the four-year-old Middleton Lass, which became the property of Mr. E. Bor, Kilcon House, Cuffe's Grange, Co. Kilkenny, at 41½ gns.

The calves were easily the best that have been seen at Middleton Park, and, as the sale list shows, they sold well.

Captain Boyd-Rochfort, Mrs. Boyd-Rochfort and other members of the family were present at the sale, which was conducted with expedition by Mr. Patrick Cleary, auctioneer, Mullingar. The day was unusually fine, and this, together with the excellent arrangements, proved a great help to business.

From the distribution of well-bred Herefords, which took place at this sale yesterday, it is evident that the merits of the breed are becoming more widely appreciated.

Appended is a list of the sales, animals with the prefix "Middleton" having been bred by Captain Boyd-Rochfort, V.C.

AN ENDURANCE SWIM.

Miss Mercedes Gleitze, who on Sunday afternoon began an endurance swim of forty-two hours at the Tara street Baths, Dublin, was still going strongly early this morning.

During the closing stages of the swim Miss Gleitze's greatest difficulty will be to avoid going to sleep. In order to help her to fight against drowsiness she has been provided with a gramaphone and a selection of records. Instead of using the breast stroke only, Miss Gleitze is varying her strokes in order to relieve the monotony.

Nearly fifteen hundred people have visited the baths.

To-morrow Miss Gleitze and her husband, Mr. P. Carey, are leaving for New Zealand, where she will undertake further swimming tests.

MISSING MAN FOUND DROWNED.

The body of Thomas Foland (56), an employé at the Inchicore tramway dépôt, who had been missing from his home, 55 Greenville terrace, South Circular road, Dublin, since the 20th October, was, yesterday, found in the Grand Canal near Parnell bridge. An inquest will be held in the City Morgue to-day.

Sentence of three months' hard labour was passed at the Marlborough street Police Court, London, yesterday, on Thomas Joseph Evans (31), described as a clerk, of Dublin, for snatching a bag in Oxford street, value 9s. 6d., from Miss Evelyn Toulmin Flood, of Coburg Mansions, W.C.1, on November 1st. It was stated that when Evans ran off with the bag the alarm was given. He was chased and caught some distance away with the bag in his possession. Evans, who has only been in England three weeks, said he was hard up. He admitted a sentence of fifteen years in the Irish Free State.

VOCATIONAL EDUCATION.

CHAIRMAN OF DUBLIN COUNTY COMMITTEE ELECTED.

The first meeting of the County Dublin Vocational Education Committee was held yesterday afternoon at the County Council office, Mountjoy square.

At the outset Mr. Sean Beaumont, Secretary, presided, and welcomed the new members on behalf of the staff and on his own behalf.

The Rev. J. Powell proposed that Mr. B. P. Bowen be elected Chairman of the Committee. Mr. Fox seconded.

The Rev. T. W. O'Ryan, P.P., supported the motion, and said that he had served under the chairmanship of Mr. Bowen for a number of years, and had found him most satisfactory.

Mr. J. J. Sheil, Chairman of the County Council, said that he thought the Chairman should be a member of the County Council.

Mr. Bowen was unanimously elected.

Mr. Bowen, having taken the chair, said that he did not think any member of the County Council need have any qualms as regards expenditure by that Committee. The vote for the first year would actually be down, because the separate rate for Irish was abolished under the Act.

Mrs. M. Cosgrave was unanimously elected Vice-Chairman.

The Munster and Leinster Bank, Dame street, was elected treasurer.

THE COLLEGE THEOLOGICAL SOCIETY.

CENTENARY YEAR OPENED.

CHRISTIANITY AND RELIGION.

AUDITOR'S ADDRESS DISCUSSED.

"The Decay of Religion" was the title of the address delivered by Mr. A. R. Ennis, Scholar (Mod.), B.A., Auditor, at the opening meeting last night of the 101st Session of Trinity College Theological Society. The Rev. Canon Newport J. D. White, D.D., President of the Society, occupied the chair, and there was a large attendance.

At the outset, the Auditor said that that night the College Theological Society entered upon the second century of its existence. Unfortunately, their former President, the Rev. Dr. McNeile, having retired from the Chair of Regius Professor, owing to ill-health, had ceased his official connection with the Society. They welcomed his successor, Dr. Newport J. D. White, who took an unfailing interest in all that concerned their welfare. During the past year the Society had grown from strength to strength.

AUDITOR'S ADDRESS.

In the course of his address, Mr. Ennis said that religion was essentially distinct from Christianity since it was concerned only with man's search after God. They dealt, therefore, with the decay of religion in so far as that helped them to understand the distinction; and, further, the decay of religion meant the triumph of Christianity. Let them deal first with the dogmas of religion. There was abundant evidence to show that the prevalent attitude to-day, as opposed to that of 100 years ago, was one of doubt, and they need not deplore that change. They all admitted, in theory, the right of every individual to doubt; but in practice this tendency, in so far as it doubted the dogmas of religion, was not popular, and, indeed, it was frequently unhealthy. Religion was by nature conservative, thus asserting its unlikeness to Christianity. Yet, even in practice, one might be conservative, while also admitting doubt, for otherwise to be conservative was to be static, which was fatal.

INTELLIGENT DOUBT.

There was intelligent doubt, and the kind of questions they asked would betray their sincerity or otherwise. Unfortunately, many of the younger generation to-day neglected this fact, and questions were asked, which were better left unasked; for they were not actually prompted by growing pains within—they were asked merely for the sake of asking.

But to condemn sophistical questioning was not to condemn what they might term the critical attitude. That attitude was the first step in the decay of religion. It was also the beginning of their understanding that true religion came from God, and was revealed in Jesus Christ. And in Him they learned that "it is this God-given unrest which brings us into critical opposition to life, that the most constructive and fruitful work conceivable is done." In defence of religion—and of Christianity—books had been written and things had been said which did more harm than good; so that they could scarcely blame those sincere reformers who maintained that all education ought to be secular. For his own part, he confessed that at times the disputes of theologians, orthodox and unorthodox, incited him to rebellion.

INFECTIOUS OPINIONS.

The neglect of doubt in the past had led to varied effects. In the first place, sincere and unbiassed scientists and philosophers regarded theologians in much the same light as the sportsman regarded the poacher, and the opinions of these were infectious, so that the theologian as such was not popular. In the second place, theologians themselves were inclined to think that they were the guardians of religion and that religion was exhausted by theology—which it usually was—and these opinions were also infectious; so that there was an increasing number of people turning from religion because of their impatience with theology. Of course, there was no real excuse for such impatience, but, as a fact, it remained, and the Christian who was neither a mere theologian nor one of the crowd who would crucify the theologian and his theology should seek to bring about a fuller understanding. The task was not an easy one.

FACTOR OF RELIGION.

This much, however, was certain: whatever might be the ultimate truth or value of religion, they could not deny its importance, and the large part it had played and was playing in the affairs of men. There was no need to dwell on the things, both good and bad, which had been done in the name of religion. They knew its importance here in Ireland, and they were not a peculiar nation in this respect. In all the world religion was a factor which should be reckoned with; and there was none who could say that he had never had some kind of religious experience—be it only of fear.

A GREAT CHANGE.

Recent philosophy and the latest advances in science were tending more and more to the religious interpretation of the universe. Yet, on the other hand, the growing forces of industrialism were making this less and less possible for the majority. And here, perhaps, they had the greatest change of all since the foundation of that Society. As a result of industrialism men were "unable to believe, no matter how perfectly their theological dilemmas are resolved." The need for subdivision of function made it impossible for any one man in a modern business enterprise to keep in touch with all details. Consequently, Socialism was becoming the only possible system, and the outcome was detachment, which was essential in the interests of efficiency. An advanced industry "is too subtly organised to be run by naively passionate men"; it puts a premium upon men whose characters are sufficiently matured to make them respect reality and to discount their own prejudices. This had compelled the modern business man to regard religion as an immature result "of our desire to impute to the universe, and to the God who rules it, purposes like our own." Religion was selfish interest, "a five per cent. investment in your fellow-man's salvation," the salvation being, presumably, "a speculative profit."

SOURCE OF ALL INSPIRATION.

The ordinary methods of objective criticism broke down before the vastness of the industrial situation. That situation could not be exhausted by political and economic abstractions—still less by theological abstractions. In other words, not theology, but the presence of a dedicated life, was their immediate reply to the problems of industrialism; and the theology which succeeds would articulate this life, which partook of and understood the sufferings of the world.

In conclusion, the Auditor said that through confusion, and in spite of or because of the undoubtful decay of much that was precious to "religion," they were led to the source of all their inspiration, namely, Jesus Christ. Their study of Him was the deepening of their faith in His uniqueness and universality, as being God's answer to their needs.

THE PRIMATE'S SUSPICION.

The Primate of All-Ireland (Dr. D'Arcy) proposed that the best thanks of the Society be tendered to the Auditor. He said that he did so for many reasons, but, above all, for this reason: that the Auditor showed that magnificent courage which could attack all big problems of the day for a half an hour in a manner that was no new departure from the history of the College Theological Society. (Applause.) The Auditor called his paper "The Decay of Religion," but he qualified that by saying that religion was one thing and Christianity was another. He (the Primate) was so innocent and unsophisticated in mind that he had a suspicion that Christianity was religion. (Applause.)

Religion had been attacked all through the centuries, but here it was, and, he thought, stronger than ever. It was a mistake to think that unbelief was an evil of their day. In the middle ages they had men of high standing who were out-and-out unbelievers. Unbelief was not new at all. Take the period of the renaissance; it was noted for its unbelief. Later, taking the 18th century, it was a much more unbelieving age than the age in which we were living. Then, in 1859, Darwin published his book on the origin of species.

TAX ON RELIGION.

To-day when he thought of the people who were protagonists of the attacks on Christianity, he did not find them anything like the negative power that there was in the attacks of Spencer, Darwin, Huxley, etc. So that he did not think it was correct to say that religion was being attacked more severely in this particular age as compared with other ages. In every age Christianity had to fight its battles, and, after all, the fighting of those battles was one of the things that kept it going, and kept it alive. Religion need not fear attacks that were made upon it age after age, because it satisfied the great human need. Did they think that the attack on religion in Russia would exterminate it? Not at all: it would probably purify it. Religion was one of the great elements of human life. (Applause.)

Seconding the proposal, the Rev. Canon G. A. Chamberlain, B.D., congratulated Mr. Ennis on his election to the Auditorial chair. Referring to the paper, he said that the most serious fact to his mind was that some of the highest and most earnest seekers after truth and social righteousness allowed themselves to stand apart from religion.

The resolution passed with acclamation.

SIR HENRY LUNN'S VIEWS.

Sir Henry Lunn, M.D., London, proposed that the College Theological Society is worthy of the support of Trinity College. He emphasised the fact that Mr. Ennis had, in his auditorial address, made the challenging statement that "religion is essentially distinct from Christianity, and that the decay of religion means the triumph of Christianity." That statement and the title of the Auditor's address, "The Decay of Religion," involved an assumption which could not be readily accepted without many qualifications, and had the title been "The Decline of Religion To-day" it would have been more easily defended; but even that proposition was open to serious criticism. They had passed away from the easy optimism of the earlier Tennyson when he said:—

" . . . . through the ages
One increasing purpose runs,
And the thoughts of men are widened
With the progress of the suns."

Even that optimistic statement had much to support it if they took long enough views. The Auditor welcomed "the prevalent attitude of to-day as opposed to that of a hundred years ago" as "one of doubt," and it was easy to affirm that religion had been slow to recognise that attitude of doubt as commendable. If by "doubt" "criticism" was meant, all would readily agree that the critical spirit had greatly increased in later years.

THE REAL PROBLEM.

The real problem that they had to consider in listening to that interesting and original address was whether, taking a long view, there was any real "decay of religion." The history of Christianity was the history of periods of prosperity and decline of vigour followed by a new revelation of God, a new outpouring of spiritual power and a true revival. Again and again in the history of the Christian religion decay had set in, and again and again, phoenix-like, Christianity had experienced a new Pentecost of power.

It was perfectly true that there might be a religion divorced from morality and from Christianity. At the same time, however much they might concede to those who criticised religion because of the ethical failures of some of its followers, they had to recognise that morality vanished as religion crumbled. The most striking illustration of that truth was to be found in Russia to-day. In all the cases referred to in the history of Christianity religion had again and again saved morality. The danger to-day was the secularisation of Christianity, too little and not too much religion. What was needed was a new revival of the personal religion.

Pastor André Bouvier (Zurich) seconded the resolution, which was passed.

A resolution tendering the best thanks of the Society to the Rev. N. J. D. White, D.D., President, and to the Vice-Presidents for their interest in the welfare of the Society was passed on the motion of Mr. Conn Ryan, B.A. (ex-Auditor), seconded by the Rev. E. F. B. Moore, Sch. (Mod.), B.A.

The following awards were made for the session 1929-1930:—

Gold Medal for Composition—J. R. Kirkpatrick, Sch. (Mod.), B.A.

Silver Medal for Composition—Rev. R. G. F. Jenkins, ex-Sch. (Sen. Mod.), B.A.

Second Silver Medal for Oratory—A. R. Ennis, Sch. (Mod.), B.A.

Special Certificate for Oratory—Rev. J. F. Ruddell, B.A.

President's Prize for Composition—J. J. Auchmuty (Sch.).

SERVICE IN THE COLLEGE CHAPEL.

In connection with the centenary year of the College Theological Society a Service was held in Trinity College Chapel yesterday afternoon. The attendance included the Primate of All Ireland (Dr. D'Arcy), the Bishop of Killaloe (Dr. Patten), the Rev. W. R. W. Roberts, D.D., Vice-Provost; the Rev. Canon Newport J. W. White, D.D., Regius Professor of Divinity; the Rev. R. M. Gwynn, and the Rev. William Anderson.

The hymns were: "Praise my soul, the King of Heaven," "O, God of Bethel, by Whose Hand," and "Now thank we all our God." The Rev. J. Furser Shortt, B.D., a former Auditor of the Society, presided at the organ.

The preacher was the Bishop of Killaloe, who was Auditor of the Society in 1891. In the course of his sermon, Dr. Patten said that a theological society was primarily concerned with theology, and theology was the doctrine of God. But the doctrine of God was, for the modern mind, related with every aspect of man's knowledge, and hence any theology worthy of the name in an age of widely diversified teaching must involve a general view of the world through God.

ONE GREAT BENEFIT.

He always felt that, apart from its atmosphere of healthy and comprehensive thought, the Theological Society conferred one great benefit upon the members—that men learned to say clearly what they wished to say. The preliminaries of new learning were often nerve-racking and disconcerting, but it was better to learn them than to experiment on a congregation in later days. The modernist could not be outlawed by any appeal to tradition. If his attempts at restatement had met with opposition, it was not because he had made the attempt, but because the attempt had often seemed to be ineffective and to have failed to preserve the true proportions of the Christian faith. But whatever his failures, the modernist and his followers had fought and won the battle of religious liberty as the Anglican Communion. If any of his interpretations of the faith proved subversive of the whole, they would, he believed, come to nought, for the spirit was guiding the Church into all truth.

BELFAST HOUSING INQUIRY.

SEQUEL AT CORPORATION MEETING.

At the meeting of the Belfast Corporation yesterday the eighth, and final, report of the Special Committee in connection with the housing scheme was moved by Alderman Sir William Turner.

The last paragraph stated:—"Your committee, therefore, have now discharged the Council's reference to them, and in closing the chapter think it desirable to recall to the Council's recollection the terms of their fifth and sixth interim reports, which set out the particulars of substantial sums of money which were recovered as the result of your committee's work."

In moving the adoption of the report, Sir William said that the committee had only consented to their existence being continued so long as the litigation in connection with the Council's housing operations demanded it.

Councillor T. Henderson asked that the total amount recovered and the cost of its recovery should be stated.

Alderman Sir William Turner, in reply to Councillor Kyle, referred him to the report of the inquiry. They were able to recover between £18,000 and £19,000 improperly received by contractors, and they might have had more but for the carelessness of certain officials. As to the question of costs raised by Councillor Henderson, he thought that should not be brought up, for when the city was besmirched it was their duty to sift matters to the end. After all had been paid there was a big balance to the credit of the housing account.

The report was passed.

AN IRISHMAN'S DIARY.

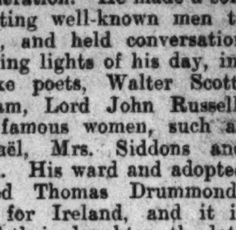

Columbus in Ireland : Belfast Manners : The Rotunda Gardens.
South Irish Horse Reunion : Mrs. Grundy : Conversation.
A Local Pied Piper : The Better Part.

The Home of Conversation.

A house which is up for sale in England at present has a rather interesting link with Ireland. It is situated near Dorking, in Surrey, and from 1797 to 1835 was the home of "Conversation" Sharp, as Richard Sharp, F.R.S., was called; for he must have been one of the greatest talkers of his generation. He made a sort of hobby of getting well-known men to visit his cottage, and held conversation with all the leading lights of his day, including the Lake poets, Walter Scott, Macaulay, Hallam, Lord John Russell, Brougham, and famous women, such as Madame de Staël, Mrs. Siddons and Maria Edgeworth. His ward and adopted daughter married Thomas Drummond, Under-Secretary for Ireland, and it is under the will of their daughter, the late Miss Emily Drummond, that the estate is now being sold.

South Irish Horse Reunion.

There will be a big muster of ex-members of the South Irish Horse at the annual dance and reunion of the regiment, which will be held at the Metropole on next Friday night. The S.I.H. dance has, indeed, become one of the outstanding social events of the year, at which Colonel Burns-Lindow, who commanded the regiment, is always a central figure. I met the genial Colonel during the British Legion tour of the battlefields last July, and he proudly showed to me the South Irish Horse memorial window in the English Church at Ypres, for which he was responsible.

Col. Burns-Lindow.

The proceeds of the regimental dance at the Metropole, by the way, will go towards the upkeep of the South Irish Horse Memorial Bed in the City of Dublin Hospital, which Colonel Burns-Lindow opened last St. Patrick's Day.

Columbus in Ireland.

The Christopher Columbus anniversary, which has just occurred, has, or should have, a special interest to Irish people; for there is a tradition that shortly before the great discoverer sailed on his memorable voyage to America he paid a visit to Galway and heard Mass in St. Nicholas's Church in that city. Whatever truth there may be in this legend, it is almost certain that there were one or more Irishmen among the crews of the Nina, the Pinta and the Santa Maria; and it is said that the bells of the Church of St. Nicholas were rung to celebrate the news of the discovery of the New World.

An Irish Pied Piper.

The rat-catcher is still a familiar figure in Ireland, but I am rather disinclined to believe that his methods are those described by a correspondent, who avers that he recently saw an old country house rid of a plague of rodents in the following way. The rat-catcher, he says, entered the kitchen, sat down at the table and called for writing materials. Then on a sheet of paper he printed in rude capitals the following:—

"YE RATS AND FINNS, TAKE YOUR LAME AND BLIND AND DEPART FROM THE HOUSE OF MR. —— TO THE WAREHOUSE OF MR. ——, MEAL AND FLOUR MERCHANT."

He then folded the paper, stuffed it down a rat hole, and, although carefully watched by several people, was not seen to do anything else. He explained that the rats would leave within twenty-four hours, but that the "spell" would only work if better feeding grounds were suggested.

Whatever this mysterious Pied Piper did, the rats departed within a few hours, nor were any carcases found. Neighbours, I am told, said that they saw an army of rats cross the road, but this is merely hearsay, and not part of my correspondent's own statement. Scoffer I may be, but I do agree that the rat-catcher's scheme was a sound one commercially; for he never lessened the number of what he might call his stock in trade. Moreover, I have no doubt that he paid a casual call to the warehouse a few days afterwards.

"George Eliot."

Although most of the admirers of that gifted woman novelist of the Victorian era would, perhaps, affirm that the best tribute that can be paid to her genius is to read her books, there will be much satisfaction at the proposal to found at her birthplace, Nuneaton, in Warwickshire, a George Eliot Fellowship, and also the intention to hold an anniversary celebration dinner every year on the date of her birth, November 22. Already many eminent literary people have expressed approval of the scheme, and it seems likely that the proposal will meet with success.

"George Eliot" was, of course, the pseudonym that for a time hid the identity of Miss Marion Evans. Her literary life was divided broadly into three parts, and it was the third which produced her most important and lasting books.

Her "Scenes from Clerical Life," published in 1858, fully deserved the praise it received from Dickens, who was the first to suspect the sex of the writer, and other critics. It was the success of that book which encouraged the author to write "Adam Bede," which on publication brought forth a chorus of praise, and placed her in the front rank of contemporary novelists. Then came "The Mill on the Floss," which is by many regarded as superior to "Adam Bede." By these and other novels "George Eliot" fully earned the tribute that it is now proposed to make to her memory.

Belfast Manners.

Discussing with a friend the reason for the fashion that stigmatises the people of Belfast as rude by nature, I learnt that a little experience of the inhabitants dismisses this judgment as superficial. The Belfast man and woman, too, I am told, are shy, and not a few people prefer the little awkwardnesses of the first Northern contacts to the glib, if polished, insincerities of the South. My friend, indeed, told me that he wasted half a day in the company of a Dublin merchant in an attempt to do business. Relationships were most cordial; in his own words, "he thought he was made by him." In the heel of the day, like a woman's postscript, came the admission that business was bad, and the merchant could not deal. On a similar occasion, in Belfast, he was ushered so abruptly from an office that he felt at first as though the quality of his wares were impugned, but by the time he had reached his hotel he realised that here was the abruptness that did not care to dally over an unpleasant thing, and a true politeness that recognised the value of his time. Moreover, he says that the Belfast man does not conceive that women are emancipated beyond the pale of minor courtesies, nor does Northern youth imagine that it must be served with a seat while age goes standing in a tramcar. Finally, the odd, the eccentric, and the sartorially remarkable are not quizzed.

Mrs. Grundy.

I believe that many people are under the impression that Mrs. Grundy was a creation of one of the Victorian novelists. The conception, however, goes further back than that, as I discovered from looking over a collection of old plays the other day. Mrs. Grundy was not even a character in a play, but she is continually mentioned in the comedy "Speed the Plough," by Thomas Morton (1764-1838), which had a long run at Covent Garden Theatre in 1798. Two characters in this play, Farmer Ashfield and his wife, indulge in long dialogues. The farmer's wife has been to market, where she finds that the butter churned by Mrs. Grundy, their next-door neighbour, fetched the highest price. She tells the farmer he must fatten his pigs and keep all his possessions in first-class order; otherwise what will Mrs. Grundy say? The farmer's daughter is about to be married, and her mother's dominating thought is: "Won't Mrs. Grundy be envious when she sees the wedding finery?" In short, Mrs. Grundy becomes a standard of reference in the mind and conversation of the farmer's wife, to the great annoyance of the farmer, whose reply to the question, "What will Mrs. Grundy say?" is invariably, "Dom Mrs. Grundy!" It is interesting to observe how the catch phrase caught on, until Mrs. Grundy, who was never intended as a censor morum, became the symbol of censorious officiousness long after Thomas Morton and his successful plays had been forgotten.

Old Dublin Fruit Sellers.

History repeats itself. Dublin has always had its street-traders, and now that the new Corporation is once more debating a thorny question concerning them, it is interesting to recall how the City Fathers tackled this problem in the days of Cromwell. The Common Council in 1659 discussed "the suppressing of the great number of idle women and maidens that sit in most streets of this city selling of apples, oranges, lemons, and others regrating eggs, hens . . . and also for the suppressing of the many idle boys that are in the said city and have no lawful calling by way of livelihood." Drastic steps were taken to "suppress" these folk. An order was made that "a large cage be set in the Cornmarket at the city charge," and into this the apple-sellers and others were herded, "to be kept there until they shall be examined and punished."

A Shakespearian Actor.

There will be innumerable congratulations to-day for Sir Frank R. Benson, the famous Shakespearian actor, on the attainment of three score and twelve; for many famous players have graduated in his repertoire company, and tens of thousands have learned to appreciate the true greatness of the Bard of Avon through his agency. Other actors have been awarded titles, but to Sir Frank alone has fallen the distinction of having knelt to receive the accolade on his actual scene of victory, so to speak, in the theatre. It was during the tercentenary performance of Shakespeare at Drury Lane in May, 1916, that the King conferred a knighthood on him after a masterly performance of "Hamlet."

Sir Frank Benson.

The Rotunda Gardens.

While in the vicinity of the Rotunda the other day I was moved to contrast the somewhat neglected appearance of its surroundings to-day with a description of the gardens in 1751, when they were opened by the Lord Mayor of Dublin, who was treated to a "genteel and liberal entertainment," provided by the founder of the Rotunda Hospital, Dr. Bartholomew Mosse. The "new gardens" were laid out as a fashionable resort, and the income derived from them went to the hospital. They possessed an artificial waterfall, lit by "artificial moonlight," and were provided with a coffee-room and pavilions. In those days, however, the great attraction was the Round Room, gaily decorated and lit by thousands of candles, where the élite of Dublin society was accustomed to gather. A chronicler of the period mentions the quaint figure of one Captain Debrisay, 70 years of age, who still wore the costume of the reign of Charles II., and passed unremarked among the other glittering personages. The ladies' head-dress of the time was so elaborate that no woman could enter a coach, but was obliged to travel in a sedan chair with a cupola. Including feathers and cap-wings, the whole structure from the forehead upwards reached to about three feet in height. About this time the Sunday promenades were transferred from St. Stephen's Green, and these, together with the masquerade balls held in the Rotunda, provided a steady income for the hospital, and soon made the northern side of the city the fashionable residential quarter.

The Better Part.

I have been told the following story of two cattle drovers at a country fair. One of them, a small man, named Flaherty, had been deeply insulted by the other, who was of powerful build, and the usual crowd of lookers-on urged him to vindicate his honour. "But look at the size of him," said the insulted one. "Never mind his size," said one of the prompters, "if you don't go for him, the people will all be saying to-morrow that you are a coward." "Well," replied Flaherty, "I don't know, but I'd sooner they'd be saying that than have them saying the day after to-morrow, 'How natural Flaherty looks!'"

IN THE NORTHERN CAPITAL.

The Marketing of Fruit : Discontent on Government Back Benches : Two Aspects of "Dumping" : Sunday Observance : Free Trade and Protection.

From Our Special Correspondent.
BELFAST, Monday.

There has been a good deal of discontent in the back benches on the Government side of the Northern House of Commons recently. This has been expressed in various ways, particularly in the consideration of the bill for the marketing of fruit, which, in view of the strong opposition, the Prime Minister thought it wiser to shelve until next year. There is also a strong feeling that Parliament should set an example to the country in the observance of economy, more especially as the Minister of Finance has hoisted a warning to local authorities to reduce their expenditure.

The well-known Unionist reformer and economist, Mr. Robert Crawford, M.P., suggested in the House of Commons a week or so ago that, in consequence of the general depressian, all parliamentary salaries should be reduced from that of the Premier down. At the meeting of the Ballymena Rural Council on Saturday last Mr. Crawford's proposals, both as regards the reduction of official salaries and his scheme for the utilisation of the unemployed in useful work, were commended. Mr. Robert Gregg, J.P., stated that all the Chambers of Commerce and organisations of business men saw quite plainly that they were drifting to national bankruptcy, and they were continually passing resolutions to try to cut down expenditure. Every member of the Council, he declared, had the conviction that Mr. Crawford was proceeding on the right lines and should have received the support to which he was entitled.

AGAINST THE GRAIN.

The controversy about the "dumping" of foreign grain into Northern Ireland has created much interest, and various suggestions have been put forward to counteract the menace to the home trade, some people even proposing that a boycott should be enforced. Such a stringent measure, as everyone knows, has never been particularly successful in Ireland, and it is calculated to cause unpleasantness, especially as the importation of overseas produce is the natural outcome of free trade, and has legal sanction. So long as the law remains unchanged—and the Northern Government has no power to alter it—those whom it injuriously affects have no remedy.

Everyone, however, does not condemn this "dumping" of foreign grain, and a new angle to the problem has been suggested by Mr. R. N. Boyd, J.P., who, speaking in Belfast during the week-end, said that Ulster farmers could improve their position by using such stuff to produce butter, eggs, bacon, beef and mutton, thus enabling them to compete against all foreigners in the British markets. They should take advantage of all the cheap produce they could get, he said, and turn it into food for the people of the Three Kingdoms. The cheaper they could get it, the better, was his contention, and the idea that they could keep out foreign grain, grown in vast quantities, he declared, would lead to nowhere. It will thus be seen that the old problem of free trade is still occupying many minds.

A CONTINENTAL OPPORTUNITY.

The fame of Ulster apples has travelled afar, and it is stated in well-informed circles that inquiries are being made by a continental country for large consignments of the fruit. If this turns out to be correct, with consequent purchases on a big scale, it should have an important bearing on the development of the industry.

British experts have reported favourably on the excellent quality of apples grown in the province, both as to first grade for cooking and for canning or bottling, and efforts have been made to establish canning and bottling factories with Government assistance, particularly in the Portadown area, but unhappily without success. If the prospects are favourable, there should be no lack of capital, particularly if the project has Government support.

Mr. Minford, who represents Antrim in the Northern Parliament, intends to ask the Ministry of Agriculture about the continental inquiries for Ulster apples, and if the Government will use every endeavour to secure this valuable order.

SUNDAY OBSERVANCE.

Vigorous protests are being made throughout the Six Counties regarding Sunday music in the parks, Sunday drinking, the opening of cinemas on Sundays, the coursing of live hares, and gambling. The columns of the newspapers bear eloquent testimony to the widespread nature of the campaign, and, according to reports and criticisms, the province is failing sadly in the maintenance of its ancient traditions for all that is best in the life of the community.

At Armagh yesterday the Rev. A. W. McNeill, M.A., said that, while he refused to believe that they lived in degenerate times, yet when the history of their period was written it would be found to have its shameful episodes and betrayals of trust. He commented upon the coursing of hares, and called upon the congregation he was addressing to join in a protest against a practice which he described as unhuman as it was un-Christian. Reference was also made to a protest which had been made privately by local Protestant ministers against the opening of two Armagh picture houses on Sunday evenings, but no reply had been received from the owners.

In Belfast yesterday the Rev. T. M. Johnstone, the convener of the General Assembly's Committee on Temperance, painted a lurid picture of the endeavours of a certain section of the community "to turn Ulster into a kind of continental quagmire." The speaker suggested that the industrial position of the Six Counties to-day had come as a punishment on her people for their sins.

"FIDDLING WHILE ROME BURNS."

Speaking in Belfast on Saturday night, at a meeting of the Ulster Unionist Labour Association, Mr. W. E. D. Allen, who represents West Belfast in the Imperial Parliament, said that people who only thought in terms of free trade and protection as a solution for the industrial problem, were merely fiddling while Rome burned.

Mr. Allen, who has made a special study of the subject, and has occasionally disturbed local Unionist circles by his arguments, said that the Conservative theory of a system of tariffs was good as far as it went, and in a free trade area like Great Britain and Northern Ireland could have an immediate beneficial effect in stimulating employment; but no one could pretend that such a solution attacked the real fundamentals of the world's economic problem.

The speaker criticised the Liberal proposals, and said that the idea of employing men on redundant public works, for which there was no definite economic need, was as old as the pyramids, and was more wasteful and more liable to accelerate present difficulties than even the direct payment of unemployment relief. The policy of the Socialists, he declared, differed very little from that of the Liberals. Wages reduction, he believed, would be socially uneconomic and unfair, and a better method of dealing with the matter would be a reform of the monetary and credit system. There should also be a better system of distribution. He believed they could find a way out, and that the nations of the British Commonwealth, by their own economic action, could show the way to the peoples of Europe and America.

A TRAFFIC EXPERIMENT.

A new method of road traffic applicable to narrow streets and thoroughfares is to be introduced in Belfast this week. Described as the unilateral system, it has been recommended by the British Ministry of Transport, and was suggested to the Belfast Corporation by the Automobile Association, which has undertaken to put up the necessary signs for guidance. The experiment is to be tested in three Belfast streets—Waring street, Rosemary street and Berry street—all narrow, busy places in the centre of the city, and if the results are beneficial, the system will be extended to other localities.

At present cars which are letting down passengers, or stopping for a short period, do so on either side of the narrow streets, with consequent confusion, as the passage along the centre is not wide enough to take two cars abreast. The rule will now be that cars can park only on one side of the street, and notices will be erected giving instructions: "When the dates are odd, please pull up on this side," and "when the dates are even, please pull up on this side," so that each side of the street will be used for that purpose on alternate days. Special arrangements will enable vehicles with heavy loads to discharge on any side. It is to be hoped that by these means traffic will be more orderly and expeditious, while, of course, liability to accidents will be lessened.

OLYMPIA THEATRE.

A DUBLIN PROGRAMME.

A show of much merit is this week being presented at the Olympia Theatre by Tom Powell. "Dublin Diversions" is truly a home conglomeration of excellent singing, dancing and humorous sketches of Dublin life, in which latter features Harry Lino and his opposite, Jack McGettrick, play a large part. Of the various sketches in the programme "The Haunted House," in which Harry Lino, Jack McGettrick, Jimmy Harvey and Gertie Kavanagh appear, is exceedingly funny. "Midget Golf and how to play it," and a war scene in the trenches are admirably calculated to create laughter. Miss Kavanagh is a fascinating artiste in song and dance. Her duet with Jimmy Harvey, "If I had a girl like you," is very pleasing. Irvine Lynch and James P. Burke render several songs, and Mai McCartney, a juvenile Irish dancer who has won many valuable trophies, gives a fine exhibition of step-dancing.

MUSICAL RECITALS AT BALLSBRIDGE.

DUBLIN PHILHARMONIC ORCHESTRA.

The orchestra of the Dublin Philharmonic Society gave two performances yesterday under the auspices of the Royal Dublin Society. The concerts given by the orchestra at Ballsbridge last year were a great success, and so it was not surprising to see large attendances of Royal Dublin Society members at both concerts yesterday. The music chosen for yesterday's programme included nothing that had not been included in the concerts given by the Philharmonic Society except Goldmark's Sakuntala overture, which, however, the orchestra played in a recent performance at the Dublin Broadcasting Station. All of the music was welcome, even to those among the audiences who had heard some of it but lately, and the fact of previous performance insured the efficiency of the orchestra.

The inclusion of a solo work in each programme was a good arrangement. In the afternoon Mr. Fred Stone repeated his recent success in the solo part of Schumann's Concerto in A minor for pianoforte and orchestra, and at night Miss Nancy Lord played the "Introduction and Rondo Capriccioso" for violin with orchestral accompaniment, a well-known and attractive concert piece by Saint-Caens. The symphony at the afternoon concert was Mozart's E flat (No. 39), and the one played at night was Beethoven's Seventh. Weber's "Der Freischutz" overture was played in the afternoon and Goldmark's Sakuntala at night, and there was a selection of Wagner music in each programme.

Commandant Sauerzweig, of the Free State Army School of Music, who has been in charge of the orchestra during Colonel Brasé's absence, conducted it through both programmes yesterday and secured an excellent response to his very clear intentions. With his practical knowledge of every instrument of the orchestra he knows exactly what to expect and demand of the players; he appreciates, too, what amount of guidance the players want from him.

The Royal Dublin Society has prepared a particularly attractive programme of chamber music recitals for this season. I see that we are to have next week a visit from Moiseivitch, whose previous recitals at Ballsbridge were, in my opinion, quite the most delightful pianoforte recitals ever given under the Society's auspices. This opinion is I know held also by many old musical members of the Society, and the re-engagement of the distinguished artist is welcomed. The comfortable new seats in the Members' Hall are a great improvement. They were all that was needed to make the hall ideal for chamber music, having regard to the size of the audiences to be accommodated.

OBBLIGATO.

THE CARL ROSA OPERA COMPANY.

"THE FLYING DUTCHMAN."

Daland (a Norwegian Sea Captain)	Harry Metcalfe
Senta (his Daughter)	Pauline Maunder
Erik (a Huntsman)	Ivor John
Mary (Senta's Nurse)	Irene Dobbyn
Steersman of Daland's Ship	Robert Mawdsley
The Dutchman	Frederic Collier

Conductor—Arthur Hammond.

At the Gaiety Theatre, Dublin, last night the Carl Rosa Opera Company opened its second week with the presentation of "The Flying Dutchman."

Mrs. James McNeill was present in the Viceregal Box with a party, which included Mrs. Ernest Blythe, Monsieur Alphand (the French Minister) and Mdme. Alphand, Lord and Lady Longford, Mdme. Berrin, and Captain Wall, A.D.C.

Mr. Arthur Hammond conducted the opera, and from the opening bars of the overture showed what a penetrating understanding he has of Wagnerian opera. Indeed, one felt grateful that he had at his command an orchestra to bring out those little movements which here and there flit through the score, heralds, as it were, of the Wagner of the later period of "Tannhauser" and the "Ring of the Nibelung." It was fascinating to listen to the skill with which the orchestra brought out the atmosphere of the storm and later the ghostly notes of the curse.

In the first act the entry of the Dutchman was effectively worked up, and the story of the luckless seaman was well declaimed. Mr. Hammond went lightly over the dull period of the act, and ended on the stirring duet between the Dutchman and the Norwegian captain.

In Act II. the chorus of women was done very naturally, and provided a happy introduction to Senta's startling confession of love for the Flying Dutchman. Mr. Hammond showed throughout a fine sense of the dramatic, but nothing during the night surpassed the electrifying manner in which he announced the arrival of the Dutchman in Senta's room. The orchestral movement which followed the dramatic silence was most expressively given.

The third act, with its agitated duet between Senta and her previous lover, and the impassioned oration of the Dutchman, who believes that his hope of salvation has gone, were given with fine effect, and there was a stirring dramatic climax in Senta's headlong plunge into the sea.

The work was a fine all-round performance. Mr. Frederic Collier was a striking figure as the accursed Dutchman. He was in splendid voice, and his singing was always rich and pleasant, with every note and word clear and telling. Miss Pauline Maunder carried the difficult part of Senta surprisingly well, while Mr. Harry Metcalfe added another successful performance in the character of Daland.

The production owed much to the effective staging, the lighting in the storm scene and the setting of the second act being particularly well carried out.

To-night:—"Madam Butterfly."

MUNSTER FINE ART CLUB.

EXHIBITION OPENED AT CORK.

From Our Correspondent
CORK, Monday.

An art exhibition was opened to-day in the School of Art, Cork. It is the tenth exhibition under the auspices of the Munster Fine Art Cub.

The Lord Mayor of Cork (Councillor F. J. Daly), who presided, said that he looked upon the exhibition as an oasis in a desert of commerce. They were fortunate to have in Cork men and women with artistic ideals and an artistic outlook, with a love for the beautiful. It was a great source of satisfaction to know that they were carrying on that good work to make life in their city much more pleasant for them all.

FORMAL OPENING.

The exhibition was formally opened by Mr. Howard Harrington, LL.D., who said that they were at an important hour in the long life of their country.

"One would have no interest in the future of our country if we were merely to be a number in a long row. It is a privilege to see this mother country entering on a new dignity; to see our people sharing the fruits of industry. It is of interest to see the men chosen to control the economic and civic affairs gathered here to show their interest in this manifestation of civic life. It is the duty of the capital to face, to encourage, and to support all that adds to the beauty of life. We are at a time when, charged with the responsibility and the direction of our own affairs, we will be put to the test.

It is inspiring to the highest degree to see this hall lined with the creative productions of the imaginations of young Irishmen and young Irishwomen, who are students and contributors to this exhibition."

HEADMASTER AND ANXIETY.

Mr. Hugh Charde, the headmaster of the school, said that their work was a struggle to raise the standard of art and set it in its proper place in a civilised and cultured country. In Holland and Belgium there were schools for the different provinces, and in Ireland he did not see why they should not have Dublin, Belfast and Cork schools.

Mr. Charde referred to matters which, he said, were giving some anxiety to those connected with the exhibition. "The people who are responsible for keeping this exhibition going," he said, "will pass away in the natural order of things. Is there a method by which we can ensure the continuity of this exhibition? The prestige of Cork requires it. We have come to the stage now where we must decide. We are most anxious that this exhibition, which has developed so rapidly, should continue. It is a source of pleasure to the citizens of Cork, and a source of real anxiety to the artists of Ireland."

THE MEOPHAM AIR ACCIDENT.

INTERIM REPORT OF INQUIRY.

NO DEFECT IN THE STRUCTURE.

The British Air Ministry issued last night an interim report of the Aeronautical Research Committee on the accident to the Junkers aeroplane which crashed at Meopham on July 21st last while on its way to Croydon from Le Touquet. Six people lost their lives in the accident—the four passengers, the Marquis of Dufferin and Ava, Viscountess Ednam, Sir Edward Ward, and Mrs. Loeffler, and the two pilots, Lieutenant-Colonel G. H. Henderson and Mr. C. D. Shearing.

The inquiry was referred to the Aeronautical Research Committee on 25th August, and the Sub-Committee for Accident Investigations began work on 3rd September.

GALE AND RAINSTORM.

The report states:—"The aeroplane, flying from Berck to Croydon, crashed at Meopham, Kent, at about 14.35 hours on July 21st, 1930. There was a strong westerly wind, gusty, with storms of rain. In the neighbourhood of Priestwood it had been seen to fly into a cloud, and very shortly thereafter the personnel, pieces of tail plane, a wing, the engine, the fuselage, and various items fell from the cloud and were distributed along a belt one and a half miles long, east to west.

"In general, the procedure of the Sub-Committee is directed to the discovery of the technical causes of accidents with a view to their prevention in the future, and for the above purpose in the present instance it became necessary to examine all the details of the accident.

"The procedure of the Sub-Committee is similar to that which has been successfully followed in many investigations of a like nature. The evidence considered relates to the reports of eye-witnesses, to distribution of the parts, to meteorological conditions, and to the histories of the pilots. On this evidence theories are advanced as to the probable first cause of the accident. The more plausible theories are subjected to criticism and tested, where necessary, both by detailed calculations and by experiments which may be lengthy.

NO DEFECT IN STRUCTURE.

"It frequently happens in an investigation of this kind that some one specific cause, such as defect in material or an abnormal meteorological condition, is so clearly sufficient to account for the accident that it becomes unnecessary to investigate fully alternative explanations. In such circumstances the inquiry can be brought to an early conclusion.

"In the Meopham accident no such obvious cause has come to light, and the inquiry has perforce to proceed by the exclusion, one by one, of all reasonably possible causes. Only when this has been done is it proper to attribute the accident to some cause which cannot from its nature be indicated by direct evidence.

"For the Meopham accident the available data have been collected and examined, and details as to the breakage of the structure are clear.

"The sub-committee are now in a position to state that careful examination of all main fractures has revealed no defect in structure or assembly. Further, there are no signs of faulty or inferior material in the fractures.

"The sub-committee are, therefore, looking for other possibilities.

"FLUTTER" POSSIBILITY.

"As an example of the type of investigation still in progress, the sub-committee have to determine whether 'flutter' can have been the cause of the accident. The experience of the sub-committee in the past shows that breakages in the air arise from time to time from flutter of the tail or of the wing of the machine.

"No evidence has been brought to the sub-committee of flutter of existing Junkers aircraft of the F 13 type, of which there are a large number in use. Nevertheless, the possibility of flutter, among other causes, cannot be dismissed until the conclusion of experiments now in hand.

"The sub-committee are aware that a definite conclusion as to the cause of the accident should be made available at the earliest possible date, but they think it undesirable to express an opinion which must be provisional."

The membership of the Accidents Investigation Sub-Committee is as follows:—Lieutenant-Colonel M. O'Gorman, C.B. (Chairman); Professor L. Bairstow, F.R.S.; Major J. S. Buchanan, Mr. G. B. Cockburn, Sir R. T. Glazebrook, F.R.S.; Professor B. M. Jones, M.A., A.F.C.; Sir J. E. Petavel, F.R.S.; Professor A. J. Sutton Pippard, D.S.C.; Mr. H. E. Wimperis and Mr. J. L. Nayler (secretary). Squadron-Leader H. W. McKenna was in attendance throughout the inquiry.

PHOTOGRAPHS TAKEN BY ANDREE.

DEVELOPED AFTER 38 YEARS IN ARCTIC.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

STOCKHOLM, Monday.

Professor Hertzberg, who is responsible for the development of the films found on the spot where the Polar explorer, Andrée, and his companions made their last camp, announces that, after prolonged and laborious effort, he has succeeded in obtaining recognisable results from a certain portion of the films.

Four of the spools found were enclosed in leather containers. Eleven other spools discovered evidently had not been exposed at all. Eight of the unused spools were enclosed in iron containers, and had been entirely destroyed owing to rust.

The four spools which were utilised each contained 864 centimetres of film, allowing for forty-eight exposures. The films were found soaked with water right through to the wooden roller, which had to be dried very thoroughly. The outer parts of the spools were found to be in a hopeless condition, but of the inner portions more than twenty pictures have so far been disclosed with sufficient clarity to enable the silhouette and contours of the subject to be seen and for the experts to form an opinion of what the pictures represent.

Although speaking with all reserve, Professor Hertzberg declared that he hoped that, after a further week's or fortnight's work, it would be possible to issue a number of pictures which would bear reproduction and printing. The best picture so far disclosed represents the landing on the ice, and the silhouette of the balloon can be picked out.

Professor Hertzberg wished it to be borne in mind that all the spools bore a maker's inscription, stating that they should be developed before February, 1898, at the latest.

MONEY-LENDER FOUND MURDERED.

Samuel Henry Smith, a money-lender, was last night found dead in his house in Parkfield Drive, Anlaby road, Hull, with severe wounds on the head, believed to have been inflicted on Saturday night.

There were seven wounds on Smith's head, suggesting that his assailant had attacked him with considerable ferocity. The assumption is that the assailant called at the house on Saturday, but nothing was heard of any quarrel, and there is as yet no clue as to the identity of the caller.

Smith lived alone and was a widower.

On All Saints Day the British Churches in France organised a combined visit to the cemeteries where British soldiers, who lost their lives in the War, are buried. This photograph shows a procession, led by Colonel Abbott, C.O. British Legion in France (right), and Colonel Bourne, British Air Attaché in Paris (left), on its way to Neuilly Cemetery.

UNUSUAL 'BUS ACCIDENT.

YOUTH FALLS THROUGH EMERGENCY DOOR.

CORONER'S COMMENTS ON OVERCROWDING.

Dr. J. P. Brennan, Coroner for South County Dublin, with a jury, held an inquest in Monkstown Hospital last evening on P. J. O'Carroll (17), messenger boy, who died following injuries received when he fell from a 'bus on the Rock road.

Inspector Gilbride represented the Guards. Mr. R. M. Saunders, solicitor, appeared for the next-of-kin; Mr. T. D. McLaughlin, solicitor, for Mr. R. Kennedy, Stillorgan Park, owner of the 'bus; Mr. G. Byrne, solicitor, for Mr. Butler Kearney, driver of the first motor car following the 'bus, and Dr. Good, solicitor, for Mr. D. Archer, Ranelagh, driver of a second motor car.

GAVE WOMAN HIS SEAT.

Robert Young, 36 George's avenue, Blackrock, said that on the previous evening he was travelling in a "K" 'bus with O'Carroll between Booterstown avenue and Merrion. At Booterstown two women got into the 'bus, and they were standing for some time. O'Carroll got up off his seat and gave it to one of the women. O'Carroll was then standing at the emergency door and about one foot away from it when he fell out through the back of the emergency door.

To Mr. McLaughlin witness said that O'Carroll fell out of the 'bus immediately after he got up off his seat. He was not holding on to anything.

Inspector Gilbride said that statements had been obtained from the driver and conductor of the 'bus; from Mr. Kearney, the driver of the first motor car following it, and from Mr. Archer, the driver of the second car.

Mr. Kearney did not give evidence.

MOTOR CAR DRIVER'S EVIDENCE.

Mr. D. T. Archer, Ashbrooke House, Sallymount avenue, Ranelagh, said that in front of him was another motor car and the 'bus was in front of that. He got the impression that there was something on the road, and before he could do anything he felt a shock to his car, and he pulled up immediately. He did not see the man fall out of the 'bus, as the other motor car was between his car and the 'bus.

Robert Parks, driver of the "K" 'bus, said that the handle of the emergency door was in a perpendicular position, and it would be quite easy for a person to catch hold of it. If a person caught hold of it and pressed it it would release the catch and the door would open, but pressure must be applied.

To Mr. Saunders, witness said he saw the conductor examining the emergency door that morning.

THE CONDUCTOR.

Hugh McCann, Sweetmans avenue, Blackrock, conductor of the 'bus, said he saw O'Carroll lean against the emergency door. He did not know whether he put any pressure against it. Witness had tested the door that day by pushing it, and it would not open. Witness had also tested the door since the accident, and it was all right.

Sergeant E. Ferris, Blackrock, said that he examined the 'bus and tried the emergency door. He pressed the handle, and by doing so he could unlock the door, but force must be used from the inside before the door would swing open.

Sergeant Neary, Booterstown, said that he examined the two motor cars that day, but they bore no marks of having came into contact with any object.

Dr. E. C. Hicks, Monkstown Hospital, said that O'Carroll's death was due to shock and hemorrhage, following fracture of the base of the skull, which could have been caused by falling off a 'bus or by a motor car going over him.

CORONER'S COMMENTS.

The Coroner said that what was worthy of notice by the jury was the fact that the 'bus was overcrowded. If the seating capacity had been utilised only for the capacity of the 'bus, the boy would not have had to get up from his seat to do the act of a gentleman, that he was, and in doing that act he had fallen out of the 'bus.

The jury returned a verdict of accidental death in accordance with the medical evidence, and expressed the opinion that the accident would not have occurred if there had not been an excess of passengers over and above the prescribed seating capacity. They recommended the relatives to the kind consideration of the owner of the 'bus.

EGYPTIAN SCHOOL RIOTS.

MASTERS WARNED BY THE GOVERNMENT.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

CAIRO, Monday.

The Minister of Education to-day convoked before him the headmasters of the higher and secondary schools, and warned them that they would be held responsible for any happenings at their schools, adding that the Government would not be lenient towards those that did not do their duty.

Attempts to persuade students in two schools to come out on strike to-day failed, and the general situation remains calm.

[Note.—Students attempted to set fire to the Boulac Technical High School at Cairo on Sunday, and came into conflict with the police, who fired on the rioters, wounding five students. Riots also have occurred at schools in other districts.]

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

IMPORTED BUTTER.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—With regard to a tariff on butter, Mr. Hogan, the Minister for Agriculture, has been asked to prohibit the import of butter altogther into this country until the 31st March, 1931, as it is the opinion of those in the trade that there will be a sufficient quantity available of current make and stocks held to supply all the requirements of this country for that period. Unless this prohibition is put into operation at once, and if any action is deferred until a tariff can be passed by the Dail, which would probably take several months, there is no use in thinking about it.

Mr. Hogan's co-operative creameries—or a good many of them, at any rate—hold considerable stocks of "creamery" butter, which they put by for their winter trade when their make is smallest. If they have to sell that butter at a very low price, in competition with imported colonial, the co-operative creameries will lose very heavily on their stocks, as well as all others who hold butter for their winter requirements in this country. Any losses inflicted on the co-operative creameries mean, of course, losses inflicted on the farmers supplying those creameries with milk, and, as butter is at a very low price at present and supplies plentiful, we think that there are good grounds for prohibiting its import for the next five or six months.

It is the object of the Government, we understand, that unnecessary goods shall not be imported into this country, especially goods of an agricultural nature which can easily be done without. There is no necessity to import a pound of foreign or colonial butter into this country. We used to be large importers of colonial and occasionally Danish butter, but for the last two years we have not imported an ounce, and we have pleased our customers better without it. We do not think the Irish consumer of butter should be exploited, but of this we have no fear, as the competition among the creameries and others will keep down the price in this country.—Yours, etc.,

H. J. ROCHE, Secretary.

THE GREAT SOUTHERN RAILWAYS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—A few years ago, when the lorries were commencing to run, the railways refused to reduce rates to meet traders and the trade went to the roads. About ten days ago I was waited on by an official of the railway company to see if I would order my goods by rail if the rates were reduced. I said that I had got the "road habit," and found it saved me money. Now I find that the railway company have advanced the freight on beet from Ferns to Carlow by about 3s. a ton. That would mean a loss to me of a little over £12 on four acres of beet. A little more would drive beet either on to the roads or out of cultivation.

Last season a special beet train left the neighbourhood every week for several weeks, giving useful employment to the railway company. Last spring many tons of turnips were left to rot because the railway company would not give a rate that left the farmer anything for his trouble, although they were asked to do so. More money was lost, as the trains had to run even if only partially filled. As a very old customer of the railway company, I would appeal to them to be wise in time.—Yours, etc.,

JOSEPH J. HAUGHTON.

H.M.S. REVENGE.

SAILORS IN POLICE COURT.

Two young seamen, who, it is alleged, stated they were deserters from H.M.S. Revenge, and that they had journeyed as stowaways in a tramp steamer from the Mediterranean to Grangemouth, surrendered themselves in a police station in Edinburgh on Sunday. They appeared in private before the magistrate at Edinburgh Court, yesterday, and were detained, pending instructions from the Admiralty.

One of the men is about twenty-four years of age and the other about nineteen. They are stated to have escaped from the tramp steamer unobserved, on its arrival at Grangemouth, and to have presented themselves at the police station, asking for shelter. They were both scantily clothed in borrowed garments.

It will be recalled that at the beginning of October rumours were current of trouble on board the Revenge, which was then near Nice. These rumours were denied by the Admiralty authorities. The official communiqué stated that two men who had not returned from shore leave had been posted as deserters.

HURRICANE WRECKS HANGAR.

TWO MEN KILLED AND SEVEN BADLY INJURED.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

MADRID, Monday.

Two workmen were killed and seven badly injured at the Cautro Vientos Aerodrome in a hurricane which visited the Madrid district to-day. The roof of the hangar on which they were working was carried away by the wind.

Several other men were less seriously injured in the crash.

LIMERICK DOCK EXTENSION.

At the LIMERICK Harbour Board meeting yesterday, Mr. F. E. Cleeve presiding, a letter was read from Messrs. Goodbody, Ltd., stating that, as they were about to extend their present premises at the Limerick works, and erect a modern grain silo of considerable capacity, which was necessary for the contemplated extension of their plant in Limerick, they required a site 40 feet by 75 feet adjoining their present grain store. As a considerable sum of money would have to be expended on the plans, they should be granted a lease of the site for 200 years. Mr. James E. Goodbody said that the firm was very anxious to extend its business as far as possible in Limerick, and, if there was any disturbance, would pay reasonable compensation. Alderman McInerney considered that so serious a matter should not be rushed. He proposed a small committee. Mr. Goodbody agreed, and a committee was appointed to report to the Board at a special meeting, if necessary.

THE SHARKS AND THE WHALES.

MR. CHURCHILL AND A "GRAVE SITUATION."

Mr. Winston Churchill, addressing his constituents at a meeting at Waltham Abbey, in the Epping Division, last night, said the present political situation was grave.

"Unless the Conservative Party can lift its ideas to the national level and rise like a massive rock out of a sea of confusion nothing but disaster lies ahead.

"The disaster, which I conceive may well be imminent, is that the general election, which may come at any time, should result in no great change of parties, but should leave us for a further and much longer spell of deadlock and uncertainty with another Parliament as futile, as hopeless, as born-tired, as spenthrift, as this one.

"Three big whales, named Baldwin, Lloyd George and Macdonald, are busy fighting each other in a somewhat exhausted condition. At the same time each whale is himself being attacked by two sharks. The names of the two sharks attacking the Baldwin whale are Rothermere and Beaverbrook; the names of the two sharks attacking the Lloyd George are Runciman and Maclean; the names of the two sharks attacking the Macdonald whale are Mosley and Maxton."

Criticising the reference in the King's Speech to unemployment insurance, Mr. Churchill said—"I say this Royal Commission is meant to be a blanket and a cloak to delay the exposure and to protect the abuses for at least a year or more. I have hitherto been in favour of eminent business men and industrialists lending their services when asked to by this Socialist Government. But I now say that any responsible or respectable person who takes his seat on this blanketing and dilatory committee is lending himself to a fraud and imposture upon the public."

TWO MILLION POUNDS GIFT.

NUMEROUS APPLICATIONS RECEIVED.

The administration of the £2,000,000 Pilgrim Trust will take place this month. The Press Association was informed yesterday by an official of the Trust that a report that the Trust would be administered next week was premature.

"The trustees have decided definitely to meet during November, and the administration of the Trust will begin before the end of the month."

The Pilgrim Trust is a gift of £2,000,000 made to Great Britain by Mr. Edward S. Harkness, the American railway magnate. He has allotted the money to be invested or spent at discretion by five British trustees for the benefit of this country. The only condition is that the money shall be used for "charitable" purposes.

The Trust consists of Mr. Stanley Baldwin, Lord Macmillan, Mr. John Buchan, M.P.; Sir James Irvine, and Sir Josiah Stamp.

The gift was made as a mark of Mr. Harkness's regard for this country. He had previously made many generous gifts to Great Britain. In October, 1927, it was announced that the previously anonymous donor of £100,000 to the University of St. Andrews was Mr. Harkness. In November of the same year he added £20,000 to the subscription of a like amount made towards the new Shakespeare Memorial Theatre at Stratford-on-Avon. He also has made big benefactions to Oxford University and to the universities of his own country.

Mr. Tom Jones, Secretary of the Trust, has been besieged by applications since the opening, on October 1st, of the offices of the Trust in York Buildings, Adelphi.

"The claims run into many thousands," said an official to a reporter yesterday. "They have come from all parts of the country, and from all classes of people."

MOTOR DRIVERS' EYESIGHT.

A BRITISH TEST.

FROM THE PRESS ASSOCIATION LOBBY CORRESPONDENT.

One of the questions which applicants for motor driving licences in Great Britain under the new Road Traffic Act will be required to answer on the application form is—"Are you able to read at a distance of 25 yards in good daylight—with glasses, if worn—a motor car number plate containing six letters and figures?"

This represents an important change in the official requirements regarding eyesight. Some time ago it was announced that applicants would be expected to read a number plate at a distance of 30 to 35 yards. Since then Mr. Herbert Morrison, the Minister of Transport, has consulted further with the British Medical Association, and on their advice he has modified the minimum requirements so as to make the question on the application form read as above.

Another absolute bar to obtaining a driver's licence is epilepsy or liability to sudden attacks of disabling giddiness or fainting.

A person who receives a driver's licence will be required to sign it before it becomes valid.

"THE WRITING IS ON THE WALL."

SIR A. CHAMBERLAIN AND THE MUNICIPAL POLLS.

Sir Austen Chamberlain has written the following letter to Mr. Canning, Chairman of the West Birmingham Division, Unionist Association, expressing his gratification at the results of the municipal polls:—

"MY DEAR CANNING,—My heartiest congratulations to the two councillors, to you and to all who helped to secure the wonderful polls in St. Paul's and All Saints.

"Nor must I forget the brilliantly satisfactory results elsewhere in the city, which are made the more significant by the fact that the same movement of opinion has shown itself throughout the country.

"The writing is on the wall. The days of the Socialist Government are numbered, and we march straightforward to victory.—Yours sincerely,

(Signed) "AUSTEN CHAMBERLAIN."

NO SUNDAY BANDS.

DECISION OF BELFAST CORPORATION.

CITY HALL SCENES.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

BELFAST, Monday.

Remarkable scenes were witnessed at the City Hall, Belfast, at noon to-day, prior to the meeting of the City Corporation. A deputation, numbering almost four hundred, representing the Protestant Churches and religious organisations, attended to protest against a proposal of the Tramway Committee to have Sunday band performances at Bellevue during the coming summer.

While waiting for the commencement of the meeting and their reception the members of the deputation sang hymns in the corridor.

After hearing the deputation and members of the Council, the Corporation rejected the Sunday band proposal by thirty-nine votes to fourteen. The vote was taken on an amendment to delete all reference to the engagement of bands at Bellevue.

At the outset Councillor M'Mahon (Nationalist) opposed the application that the deputation be heard. "It would be a sheer waste of time," he declared, and added, "I think it is disgraceful that these people should come here to try to overawe the members of the Corporation. They failed to influence the Tramway Committee, and they should not influence the Council."

The motion to hear the deputation, however, was carried by a large majority.

THE DEPUTATION.

Mr. J. Herbert Ireland, Secretary of the Y.M.C.A., who headed the deputation, said that it represented the Presbyterian Church, the Church of Ireland, the Methodist Church, the Baptist Church, the Congregational Church, Belfast City Mission, the Elders' Union of the Presbyterian Church, a large number of teachers of Sunday schools and Bible classes, and leaders and workers in young people's organisations. The deputation also represented a vast body of ratepayers of varied political views—Labour and Unionist. It would be wise, accordingly, for members of the City Council before casting their votes to ask themselves if they had a mandate to vote for an innovation which tended further to secularise the Sabbath. The Corporation had no such mandate from the large community represented by the deputation. They were convinced that the granting of the proposal would be a backward step, and would open the door to further encroachments on the sanctity of the Sabbath Day. If this was permitted at Bellevue they would likely have the Parks Committee asking for similar privileges, and that, in turn, would encourage a certain section of the cinema and entertainment proprietors to ask for the right to open their cinemas and entertainment houses on Sunday.

PREVIOUS EXPERIENCE.

The Rev. William Corrigan (Methodist Church) said that previous experience of Sunday band performances had been disastrous. The working classes in Belfast did not respond to the Sunday band performances to the extent hoped for. The class that did respond was the class who were wanted for higher considerations—Sunday school teachers and senior scholars.

Councillor McClure, Chairman of the Tramway Committee, moved the adoption of the minutes containing the Sunday band proposal. He denied that the Tramways Committee's motive was to make money out of the proposal. They had lost £831 on the last season they had the local bands at Bellevue on weekdays.

Councillor R. J. Harcourt, vice chairman of the committee, seconded, and said that in giving his vote for Sunday music at Bellevue he was guided by his conscience. He believed good music would be a factor for good.

THE AMENDMENT.

Councillor Thomas Henderson, M.P., who declared that he had been always opposed to Sunday music, moved an amendment providing for the deletion from the minutes of all reference to the engagement of bands at Bellevue. He had no mandate from the electors, and would not like the members to think that he had been influenced in any way by the deputation.

Councillor Lambe, seconding the amendment, said that he was very fond of music, and it was a question of where the line should be drawn. The deputation had largely expressed his views.

Alderman Pierce, supporting the amendment, said that the primary motive behind the resolution of the Tramways Committee was to make money.

Councillor Kyle expressed regret that so much heat and controversy should have been introduced into the subject. They had regimental bands on Sundays at Bellevue about 1920 and 1921, and he did not remember that there was any development since to make them change their minds on the subject. It was also urged by the Unionist Party that they should legislate on parallel lines with Great Britain. If they followed England's lead in the matter of Sunday music they would withdraw their opposition; for in the home of the King himself at Buckingham Palace the band played on Sundays.

The amendment was carried by thirty-nine votes to fourteen.

FOUR KILLED IN MOTOR COACH ACCIDENT.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

SAINT GALMIER, LOIRE, Monday.

Four people were killed and nineteen injured in an accident to a motor coach plying between Saint Galmier station and the village. The vehicle skidded and fell down an embankment into a field sixteen feet below.

MAJOR ASTOR IN MOTOR ACCIDENT.

Major J. J. Astor, M.P. for the Dover Division, was involved in a motor accident when on his way to address a meeting in a rural part of his constituency last evening. His motor car, in avoiding some cyclists at a dangerous bend, struck a wall and turned over, coming to rest with its wheels in the air. Major Astor escaped unhurt, but Mr. William Daracott, Chairman of the Dover Conservative Association, who was travelling with him, had to be taken to the Deal and Walmer War Memorial Hospital suffering from shock and bruises.

BRITISH AIRMAN KILLED IN BELGIUM.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

BRUSSELS, Monday.

A British airman, named Chapman, crashed at Courtrai to-day, and was killed. He had arrived there this afternoon to deliver to the Wevelghem Flying School a new 'plane. While flying at an altitude of some 1,200 feet something went wrong, and the machine nose-dived to the earth.

FINANCIAL.

London Stock Markets were firm in tendency, with British Funds again a buoyant section. Industrials scored some improvements.—(Page 12.)

In Lombard street short loan rates were stiffer. Discounts weakened. The Bank sold £5,142 in bar gold and exported £16,000 in sovereigns.—(Page 12.)

Dublin Market was steady, with Free State Funds a strong spot. Guinness further appreciated.—(Page 12.)

The New Turkey.

Turkey, like the good, hard-working scrummager who is said through his very merit to remain unnoticed by casual observers on the touch-line, has been neglected by all. No doubt, this immunity from diverse attentions has been of great service to her, but the surprising presence of M. Venizelos in Angora at last has recalled her existence to the public mind; and we have become aware that she is negotiating a difficult phase of her adolescence with exemplary calm and skill. The Turkish Republic is only ten years old de facto; de jure it is in its eighth year. In this short period, however, it has performed prodigies. The Greeks were hurled from Anatolia in the first year of its life; the State has been secularised; Kurdish revolts have been suppressed, and now the old enemy has become a friend. M. Venizelos's visit is significant of more than a mere capacity on the part of Greeks and Turks to forget a recent war. Hitherto a certain hostility to the Greek elements of the population has persisted in old-fashioned circles where the sword of Khalid is esteemed to be more meritorious than the scales of justice. The Turco-Greek rapprochement will destroy the last vestiges of excuse for this sort of attitude in either country; for it must be remembered that many Turks in Western Thrace are Greek subjects to-day. Since Turkey and Greece are not likely to clash in foreign fields, the end of a domestic irritation bodes well for the future of their friendship.

At home, however, Turkey is suffering to some extent from the natural consequences of a decade's uninterrupted action. Thus, while her constitution has all the essentials of a democratic and republican State, she is governed by a few outstanding personalities. At the head of affairs stands the President, Mustapha Kemal, whose influence rests secure on the fact that he has saved his country twice—once under the old régime, when he frustrated the Suvla Bay landing as a general of division, and later when he led the only army of the infant republic to victory at Afium-Karahissar and "bluffed" the Powers at Chanak. Next in importance comes the Prime Minister, Ismet Pasha, who has gravitated from the position of Mustapha Kemal's right-hand man to that of leader of the Popular Party in a country which is just beginning to develop a sense of party politics. This development is due to Fethy Bey, the only discordant element in the new Turkey's hitherto estimable, but somewhat atrophying, unanimity on all external and internal affairs. He has created the Liberal Republican Party virtually out of nothing, to criticise the Government. So long as good temper is preserved the arrival of the Liberal Republicans at Angora ought to have a healthy effect, since for three years the Grand National Assembly has not known an opposition party. Unfortunately, a certain amount of personal intrigue seems to lurk in the background and to revolve round the aspirations of the President and Ismet Pasha.

The most urgent problem at the moment is that of finance. Wherever else Ismet's Government has succeeded, it has failed to establish Turkey's trade and credit on a satisfactory basis. When we consider the condition into which the Anatolian provinces were allowed to lapse under the later Sultans this failure will not surprise us, but we cannot expect the unfortunate Turks, who are its victims, to be equally philosophical. Fethy Bey has the sympathy of the masses, which in some towns has been inflamed to factious excitement by irresponsible newspapers and by a suspicion that the elections were "cooked." This unfortunate atmosphere has been aggravated by the specious promises made by the Liberals, which are rash enough almost to warrant any subterfuge that would prevent their control of the Assembly. In the meanwhile, Ismet, watchful, cunning and no less patriotic, sees in the occasional tumults a possible justification for "Fascist" reprisals. From all these alarums and excursions the Ghazi sits theoretically remote, but there is something Tallyrand-like in his pose. On the one hand, he is President of the Popular Party; on the other hand, Fethy Bey could not have existed politically without his benison. It appears—as the Special Correspondent of The Times suggests—that Turkey's immediate future depends on the personal relations between Mustapha Kemal and Ismet. There is reason to hope that the moment of strain will pass without a rift; for all concerned are good Turks.

The English Stage.

Thirty years, at least, have passed since the lack of a national theatre began to trouble the British conscience. Within those thirty years the cognoscenti have propounded schemes, issued appeals and devised programmes; but the situation, for want of funds, remains precisely as it has been always. Recently a special committee, appointed to consider the question, submitted an elaborate scheme to the Government. The scheme involves the erection in London of a huge theatre containing two auditoria—a large hall for spectacular and popular plays and a smaller hall for plays unlikely to appeal to the general public. There is much sound sense in this proposal, since it is obvious that a theatre designed solely for the better class of plays stands a poor chance of financial success; and by the suggested arrangement the box-office receipts from the popular productions will help to pay for the staging of superior work in the smaller auditorium. There remains, however, the inevitable obstacle. So bold a project demands a credit of some £1,000,000, and the fate of Sir Thomas Beecham's scheme for a national opera shows that little can be expected from private subscriptions. To remedy the need it is proposed that a portion of the profits made by the British Broadcasting Corporation, which amount to nearly £400,000 a year, shall be allotted, in the first place, as a credit for the foundation of a national theatre, and, in the second place, as a yearly endowment until the theatre can pay its own way. The obvious objection has been raised—that the revenue obtained from holders of wireless licences over all Britain ought not to be devoted to the delectation of Londoners alone. Yet the ways of administration show daily parallels for such action, and, in any event, it is reasonable that revenue from artistic sources shall be devoted to artistic purposes. A wider problem calls for attention. Is the proposed theatre likely to secure an honoured place among British institutions, or will it merely enter into subsidised competition with the playhouses already in existence? If it cannot raise the present level of the English stage, it will be nothing save a costly failure. Even the productions of its "popular" auditorium must be of a higher order than those which hold the stage in the commercial theatres; for there are degrees of artistry even in the banal. Yet we do not imply that it must be a "high-brow" theatre, since the work which is labelled "high-brow" is seldom the best work. The proper function of the new theatre, if it ever comes into existence, will be to produce good work by British dramatists—that is to say, work which never falls below a certain high level of value, and depends for its success on dramatic excellence rather than on stage-trickery and indecency. A house conducted with this object ought to have a noticeable effect for good on the public taste, since it would allow opportunities, now denied by the exigencies of the box-office, to promising dramatists; and it could do much to pull the English drama out of its present slough.

Street - Traders.

Four years ago the City Commissioners abolished a nuisance which had become formidable in one of Dublin's busiest quarters. They expelled the street-traders from Camden street, South Great George's street and Exchequer street, and so restored the free use of these thoroughfares to the local ratepayers and to the general public. This reform not only removed an eyesore, but relieved many shopkeepers of a serious menace to their well-taxed trading facilities. With the return of the City Council the menace took life again; for a member proposed yesterday that street-traders should be readmitted to the three streets. Fortunately, the proposal was defeated—though only by the narrow margin of three votes in a house of twenty-nine members. At the same time the Council, by general agreement, appointed a committee which will try to find suitable and innoxious accommodation for the banished street-traders. We endorse this decision and we hope that the committee's labours will be successful. Since poverty is widespread in Dublin, every effort of humble citizens to earn an honest living ought to be encouraged. It must not be encouraged, however, at the cost of the city's reputation and amenities. Shopkeepers—payers of heavy rents and rates—must not be penalised, the mass of citizens must not suffer the squalor and confusion of important localities, in order that street-traders may flourish. The proposal to undo the Commissioners' good work, and once more to let in the jungle, was sheer folly; and the fact that nearly one-half of the City Council supported it is disquieting. It suggests that a large element of the Council is wholly divorced from the saner and firmer civic opinion which has come into existence during recent years. To-day the citizens demand a progressive, impartial and economical administration. If the new Corporation refuses to provide it, the new Corporation must go.

Sir William Watson.

The appeal which we published yesterday, signed by many names that are eminent in English letters and art, is a sore criticism of British society. Sir William Watson is of the authentic family of the poets. His output during the last forty years has been the jealous result of a whole-hearted dedication. He has no kinsman among the slap-dash Georgians, but he has loved and enriched that great tradition of Virgil, Milton and Tennyson which will outlive a thousand petty fashions of verse. Sir William Watson's career has embodied his own lines—

To keep in sight perfection, and adore
The vision, is the artist's best delight.

Alas! that delight has been his only reward. Now "this oldest of our living poets lies ill and in poverty." The man who drew the noble contrast between Marlowe and Shakespeare, whose prophetic muse, many years before the Great War, described—

The Europe of the present as she lies,
Powerless with terror of her own vast power

—this fine poet, in his seventy-third year, is racked with anxiety for his own and his Irish wife's declining days. In a sense he would have fared far better if he had been a writer of popular "jazz" songs; he preferred perfection and has suffered for his choice. We hope that the fund which we announced yesterday will be swelled by many Irish subscribers. Sir William Watson loved Ireland, and pleaded passionately for the freedom which she enjoys to-day.

INDIA'S POLITICAL AWAKENING.

MAHARAJAH OF BIKANER'S TWO POINTS.

That India was awakening politically and moving towards full nationhood was given as a reason for recent events.

The Maharajah of Bikaner, at a luncheon given by the British Indian Union in London to the delegates from India to the Imperial Conference, yesterday discussed Indian affairs.

The political awakening of India is neither limited nor unnatural, he said. It is the inevitable result of 150 years' association with Great Britain.

He would be surprised, he added, if at the Round Table Conference the States did not lay emphasis on two essential conditions:—

1—That India retains the British connection as an equal partner in the British Commonwealth of Nations.

2—That an equitable agreement is reached between all the parties concerned to govern the relations of the two Indias, ensuring for the States their due position in the future constitution, as co-equal partners with British India, guaranteeing their treaties and internal sovereignty, and safeguarding their interests, including those of their subjects, on terms just and honourable alike to the States and British India.

In spite of all that has happened, and is happening, he declared, India does wish to remain within the Commonwealth.

TARDIEU MINISTRY MENACED.

RADICALS SEEK RETURN TO POWER.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
PARIS, Monday.

The French Parliament reassembles to-morrow, with the Radicals and Socialists in full war-paint out for M. Tardieu's scalp. The Radicals are tired of being in opposition, and thirst to return to power. They can count on Socialist support, but to obtain a majority in the Chamber they need reinforcement from the Centre, which has hitherto supported the Government.

Active lobbying is going on to induce the more lukewarm of M. Tardieu's partisans to desert. It is generally believed, however, that M. Tardieu will obtain, approximately, the usual majority of forty to fifty in the test division which will wind up the first debate on the session in the Chamber on foreign affairs, or on the Air Service.

LONDON LETTER

THE CONSERVATIVE ELECTORATE.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
MONDAY NIGHT.

The Conservative gains in the municipal elections have encouraged the party greatly, and it is hoped that as a result there will be a steady advance towards that unity which must be the pre-eminent objective of the party leaders. Mr. Baldwin's appeal for greater loyalty has not been without its effect, and, though it is probable that attacks on his leadership will continue from outside, it is thought that his parliamentary following will refuse to take part in them. In this connection the Conservative municipal gains will play a part, since they reveal the significant fact that there is a change of opinion in the country among those who have no settled convictions; and this circumstance is likely to end the inertia on the part of the Conservative voter and to bring the Conservatives back to power at the next general election. In the circumstances it is not altogether surprising that the Conservatives were inclined to be somewhat jubilant to-day.

The Unemployment Debate.

I understand that the Government is not perturbed about the issue of to-morrow night's unemployment debate, since it expects a satisfactory, if somewhat small, majority. If the Government were defeated, an election inevitably would follow, because an adverse vote on the Address is equivalent to a formal vote of censure. As a matter of fact, the constitutional parties are not anxious to see the Government defeated at the moment; for the Imperial Conference and the Round Table Conference must be taken into consideration, and these are matters in which the Opposition does not wish to intervene. The Liberals held a private meeting this evening to discuss their attitude to-morrow, and it is understood that the party will abstain from the division, while the Conservatives will not poll a full vote. The extreme Labour members decided this afternoon that they must support the Government; and, in the circumstances, it seems that the Government is likely to have a majority of something like thirty to forty votes.

A Thanksgiving Service.

The re-opening ceremony at St. George's Chapel, Windsor, to-morrow, though it will take the form of a Thanksgiving Service for the reconstruction of the famous home of the Knights of the Garter, will not be a Garter Service in any way. The King and Queen will occupy their stalls in the chapel, but they will not wear Garter robes, and the customary procession of a Chapter of the Knights from the Castle to the Chapel will not take place. The military Knights of Windsor, all of whom have their homes in the precincts of the Castle, will wear the interesting and rarely-seen uniform when they take their places in the Chapel. The King and Queen will drive down to Windsor, and will return to London immediately after the ceremony.

Free State Stock.

The recent display of strength in Irish Free State Stock, which has been racing neck and neck with the British 5 per Cent. War Loan as a gilt-edge favourite, is "one of the most important of several manifestations lately of growing confidence in the future of Ireland," as the Evening Standard remarks to-day. The sweeping victory of Mr. Cosgrave's adherents in the Dublin municipal elections, coupled with the report that an influential German syndicate is prepared to take over the Shannon electricity scheme as soon as the Government wishes, has done much to improve sentiment in the past few weeks. Another important fact is that the Irish National Debt at present is negligible, and that income tax is only 3s. in the pound, 2s. of which, according to the constitutionalists, is due to the compensation claims from victims of extremists.

Disarmament.

It became apparent some weeks ago that the work of the Preparatory Committee of the Disarmament Conference would be hindered, if not wrecked, by the failure of France and Italy to agree upon the naval question, and doubt is expressed whether Mr. Hugh Gibson, the head of the United States delegation, will be able to succeed where other efforts have failed. Mr. Gibson is the American Ambassador in Brussels, and from that centre he is striving to bring the Governments of Paris and Rome together. No definite details about the steps which he has taken have been revealed, but it is known that he has opened the way for direct negotiations between the two Governments, though, so far, there is no indication that either is receding from the position taken up when Italy refused to accept anything less than complete equality with France.

The Spanish Exchange.

The Spanish Government, in conjunction with the Bank of Spain, seems to be taking the question of the decline in the exchange value of the peseta seriously in hand, and gold is being shipped to this country from Spain in connection with the policy of stabilisation. Measures have been taken to centralise in the Bank of Spain forward exchange operations and credits affected in foreign countries, and, as a result of increased confidence, the peseta, which, a fortnight ago, had depreciated to nearly 51 to the pound, has recovered to 43.75. The rate of stabilisation, it is suggested, may be 40 to the pound. The stabilisation of the currency will be a great blessing to Spain, and will have value for the countries already on the gold standard.

Sir Henry Segrave's Memorial.

The memorial trophy in honour of Sir Henry Segrave, who was drowned in the speed boat, Miss England, last June in Lake Windermere, will be designed by Mr. Gilbert Bayes. It will be of solid gold, and will cost about two thousand pounds. The money has been subscribed by sporting men and women in all parts of the world. The trophy will be held every year by the Briton who, in the judgment of the awarding committee, accomplishes the most gallant and finest demonstration of the possibilities of travel by land, water or air. The committee in charge of the scheme is headed by Earl Howe.

Road Accidents.

According to statistics prepared by Lieutenant-Colonel J. A. Pickard, Secretary of the National Safety First Association, about one-half of the victims of fatal road accidents last year were pedestrians; one-quarter were motor cyclists and their passengers; one-eighth were pedal cyclists, and one-eighth motorists. Every day in Great Britain eighteen people on an average are killed on the roads, and nearly five hundred are injured. Every year one person is killed for every four hundred motor vehicles licensed, and one person is injured for every eighteen vehicles. Children are becoming more skilful than adults in the avoidance of motor cars, and statistics show that far fewer women than men are killed in road accidents.

NEW CHIEF JUSTICE OF TRINIDAD.

It is officially announced that the King has appointed Charles Frederic Belcher, O.B.E. (Chief Justice of Cyprus) to be Chief Justice of Trinidad.

Six members of the same family were taken to the Clitheroe (Lancs.) Hospital on Sunday after eating tinned food. The father was discharged yesterday, but his wife and two children and mother and sister are still detained.

R.I.C. PENSIONS APPEAL.

JUDGMENT RESERVED IN HOUSE OF LORDS.

12,000 AFFECTED.

THE QUESTION OF PAY AND ALLOWANCES.

JUDGMENT was reserved in the House of Lords yesterday in the appeal of William Albert Egan and others v. the Attorney-General, which raised the question whether, in awarding compensation and pension in respect of service in the Royal Irish Constabulary, the Treasury ought to have taken into account allowances to which the officers and constables were entitled at the time of the disbandment of the Royal Irish Constabulary.

The case was a test case, which was said to affect about 12,000 ex-R.I.C. men and dependents.

The case was heard before Lords Buckmaster, Dunedin, Blanebugh, Warrington and Tomlin, and at the conclusion of Mr. A. A. Dickie's statement for the appellants, Lord Buckmaster asked the Solicitor-General to address himself only on the point of the children.

EACH CLASS REPRESENTED.

A representative of each class was concerned in the appeal, William Albert Egan having been a District Inspector, Class I.; Charles Justice, a sergeant; Peter McCarthy, a constable, and Helena Shea and her children, widow and children of Percy Shea, who was a constable.

The allowances claimed were in respect of locomotion, lodging, uniform, subsistence, special crime, disturbed area and other allowances.

The Treasury contended that the Allowances Order, 1920, made in pursuance of the Act of 1920, provided that none of the allowances should be taken into account for the purpose of gratuity or pension.

Mr. Justice Eve decided in favour of the Treasury, and his judgment was affirmed by the Court of Appeal.

Mr. A. A. Dickie, K.C., and Mr. Hector Hughes appeared for the appellants, the Crown being represented by the Attorney-General (Sir William Jowitt, K.C.), the Solicitor-General (Sir Stafford Cripps, K.C.), Mr. C. S. Crossman and Mr. Wilfrid Lewis.

WHAT "SALARY" INCLUDED.

Mr. Dickie, K.C., in his speech for the appellants, after giving a history of the Royal Irish Constabulary and the Act and Orders applicable to pay and pension, argued that on a true construction of the Act of 1922 disbanding the Royal Irish Constabulary, the word "salary" included every kind of remuneration at the time of disbandment. Even if the word "salary" could not be so construed as set out in that Act, regard must be had to the definition clause of the Government of Ireland Acts, 1914 and 1920, which were in pari materia with the Act of 1922.

The Crown said that, as certain regulations under the Act of 1919 specified a number of allowances which were not pensionable, pensions could not be calculated on such allowances. The Act of 1922, by rules in Part I. of the Schedule, provided that the annual allowance should be calculated in like manner as the pension which the officer or constable would have been entitled to receive if he had retired for length of service under the existing enactments applicable to him and had qualified in respect of his length of service for a pension.

MANNER OF CALCULATION.

The words "shall be calculated in like manner," he contended, referred only to the manner of calculation, and not to the basis. These words could only be construed as meaning the measure on which the calculation was to be made, and the words "in like manner as the pension" only referred to the mode or the scale on which it was to be calculated, without any regard to the figure on which the matter was to be arrived at.

Lord Tomlin—Your point is that for the purpose of calculating the annual allowance you have to have regard to those items which, on the true construction of the previous Acts, would have been treated as calculable items, and not to have regard to the items which you say were wrongly treated as excluded?

Counsel said that was his point, and a second point was that "salary" was the word mentioned in the Act of 1922.

Lord Buckmaster—This is as I understand the matter. The Constabularly are entitled to pay and to certain definite allowances, and they are also entitled to pension. There is full power to regulate what that pension is to be, and that pension is regulated by saying that you shall exclude from its calculation everything except the actual pay. I can well understand you saying that the order is itself ultra vires, but I cannot understand you saying that the order has not eliminated these allowances for the purpose of pension.

CERTAIN THINGS KNOCKED OUT.

Counsel—They do not say anywhere that you are to be pensioned on your actual pay.

Lord Buckmaster—No, but they knock out certain definite things. They then say: "We will give you instead of pay a whole lot of allowances you never had before, but these allowances shall not be pensionable except in so far as any of these were in existence before this order, and these are still to remain pensionable." You have to remember that none of the allowances specified in the schedule are to be pensionable. If there are allowances outside the schedule they are not to be affected.

Counsel—The rent allowance is an old allowance.

Lord Buckmaster—I understand you to treat this order as wrong because it is ultra vires. I cannot understand you pointing to the character of these allowances when they are all in Section 16.

Counsel said the words had to be read in reference to the proviso relating to "the conditions heretofore applicable."

Lord Dunedin—You are adding these words, "except some of them that replace the ones that were in the Act before."

Counsel said that that was the only true construction that could be put upon the proviso of the order.

Lord Buckmaster—It would be a ridiculous thing when you had a Statute which applied to actual salary that future allowances or bonuses should be added to it.

WORTH £100 A YEAR.

Counsel said these were not new additions, and one was worth £100 a year.

Lord Buckmaster—Only by virtue of this order, which you challenge.

Counsel said that on the contention of the Crown there would have been nothing to prevent them giving a shilling a week of pay and making the rest into allowances, and then saying the shilling a week only should be pensionable.

Lord Buckmaster—The conditions for the pensions are all to be specified in the rules?

Counsel—Yes.

Lord Buckmaster—So the rules are the things you have got to look to?

Counsel—Yes.

Continuing, counsel said that his point was that, if a person got a pension, they should not so rule the matter that it might be taken away.

Lord Buckmaster said that Rule 2 referred to the method of calculation of the pension, but the conditions that were attached to the pension when granted were an independent thing, and unless it was introduced by some reference or other there could be no pension. The argument put against counsel was that the word "calculated" had a wider meaning than that assigned to it, and that "salary" must include every emolument received.

Counsel said that salary in its legal signification meant all that was received under the apportionment. The question was whether Sub-section 2 could cut it down by putting in the word "calculated."

JUDGMENT RESERVED.

Lord Buckmaster said that even if counsel's assumption was right, there were still the existing enactments, in which the things it was desired to include were excluded.

Sir Stafford Cripps, K.C., the Solicitor-General, rising to state the case for the Crown, was asked by Lord Buckmaster to address himself only on the point of the children.

This the Solicitor-General did briefly, after which Mr. Dickie replied.

Their lordships then announced that they would reserve judgment.

UNITED STATES ELECTIONS.

BATTLE OF "WETS" AND "DRYS."

CIGARETTES A FACTOR IN OREGON.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

WASHINGTON, Monday.

To-morrow is election day in the United States, and a deluge of political oratory and torrid philippics by "wets" and "drys" came to an end to-night.

Elections will be held in forty-seven of the forty-eight States. Maine elected a Governor, Senator and four members of the House of Representatives, all Republicans, in September. In each of the remaining States representatives will be chosen, the total number to be elected being 431. Thirty-one States will elect Governors and other State officers, and in thirty-three States elections will be held for thirty-four Senators.

National interest has been aroused by the political contests in certain States. For example, the effort of the Governor of New York State, Mr. Franklin Roosevelt, to obtain re-election over Mr. C. H. Tuttle, is regarded as having a direct bearing on the Presidential campaign in 1932; for, if Mr. Roosevelt is re-elected, it is likely that he will be the outstanding choice for Democratic nomination at the next election.

"WETS" WILL NOT WIN.

Apart from the important question of the political complexion of Congress, to-morrow's election is of prime importance as a test of "wet" and "dry" sentiment, which is easily the outstanding issue. It is generally expected that the net result will be considerable gains to the "wets," though most commentators believe that the "wets" will not have a chance of gaining a majority in either House of Congress this year.

Prohibition cuts across all party lines, in some cases helping the Republicans and in others the Democrats. In some districts, where two "drys" or two "wets" have been nominated, it is not a direct issue, but, nevertheless, comes into the question, as some voters will vote for the "dryer" and others for the "wetter" candidate. In Rhode Island, for instance, where two "wets" are running for the Senate, one has been an anti-Prohibitionist all his life, while the other became "wet" shortly before the campaign started. The former, therefore, has a distinct advantage.

DEGREES OF "WETNESS."

In Illinois Mr. J. Lewis is a "true blue wet," while Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick declares that she will follow the result of to-morrow's vote. As a result, most of the "wets" are supporting Mr. Lewis, while Mrs. McCormick has lost the support of many "drys" and gained that of a few "wets."

One of the best-known candidates is the American Ambassador to Mexico, Mr. Dwight Morrow, who is standing as a "wet" Republican candidate for the Senate for New Jersey, and it is conceded on all sides that he will have a "walk-over."

In Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Illinois the voters will be asked to express their views on the prohibition question, and in Oregon there will be a referendum on cigarettes and prohibition.

At present the House of Representatives consists of 269 Republicans, 165 Democrats and one Farmer-Labour member, and the Senate of 49 Republicans, 46 Democrats and one Farmer-Labour member. To get control of the House the Democrats must, therefore, have a net gain of 53 seats. This is regarded as a possibility, but not a probability.

PRINCE GEORGE INVITED TO SOUTH AFRICA.

GENERAL HERTZOG PROMISES A GREAT WELCOME.

"Although I have not been lucky enough to visit South Africa, I have heard so much about it that I feel I already know the country well," said Prince George, proposing the health of South African delegates to the Imperial Conference at a dinner given by the South African Luncheon Club, at the Savoy Hotel last night in honour of General Hertzog and other South African delegates.

"It is not surprising that all I have heard has been in terms of the highest praise.

"I only hope, therefore, that some time soon I shall be able to find an opportunity to go out there and see for myself what the country is like, and enjoy its many attractions. I have been lucky enough this evening to sit next to General Hertzog, the Union's Prime Minister, about whom I had heard much, but whom I have never had the pleasure of meeting before to-night."

Drinking the health of the South African delegates, the Prince said:—"We all wish them God-speed on their journey home, and hope that the result of their labours in this country will bring mutual benefits to South Africa and all other parts of the Commonwealth."

The Chairman, Mr. Te Water, High Commissioner for South Africa, giving the toast of Prince George, said that the people of South Africa had given the Prince of Wales such a spontaneous welcome when he visited the country, and an equally hospitable reception would await Prince George if he journeyed to their shores.

GENERAL HERTZOG.

General Hertzog, responding to the toast of the South African delegates, said:—"The great thing in all this coming together in Imperial Conferences is that we come into that close contact where we can speak to one another, not merely as men of business or as politicians, but as human beings. It is only in these gatherings that we learn to know one another, and though I sometimes would like to get back to the Veldt, it is in them that civilisation and the real progress of humanity was born.

"Prince George would have a great welcome in South Africa. A few years ago English-speaking South Africans would not have believed that I or any other Nationalist would be so bold as to invite a member of the Royal Family to visit South Africa. But those days have passed, because we have learned to know one another, and we are prepared to do the right thing for one another.

"A few more years and South Africa will show she has really gone ahead. There was a time, not long ago, when they swore that Hertzog, instead of being in Parliament, should be hanged on the next tree. That has passed away to such an extent that I am not sure that South Africa cannot be a lesson to other Dominions in the spirit of tolerance and appreciation of different cultures."

Mr. L. S. Amery, proposing the toast of "The Chairman," in the unavoidable absence of Mr. J. H. Thomas, said he had received the following note from Mr. Thomas:—"My dear old boy, do get me out of (I can't read the words) hole. I just dare not come to the South African dinner. It is not of myself I am thinking. You know me well enough to know that I would take a free dinner anywhere. It is not the Imperial Conference that is worrying me.

"They have stood so many after-dinner speeches of mine that they might stand one more without busting up. It is of my colleagues that I am thinking. Last time I went to South Africa they got into a mess, and I could not get back in time to get them out.

"Will you say what I think about the water, and I will look after Ramsay and Philip.—(Signed) Jimmie."

MR. GRAHAM AND A TARIFF TRUCE.

FROM OUR PARLIAMENTARY CORRESPONDENT

WESTMINSTER, Monday.

When the House of Commons to-day resumed the debate on the Address in reply to the Speech from the Throne, Mr. Neville Chamberlain, on behalf of the Conservative Party, moved the following amendment:—

"But this House humbly regrets the failure of Your Majesty's Government to propose any measures adequate to deal with the crisis in the industrial, agricultural and commercial situation, or to check the continued growth of unemployment."

Mr. Chamberlain said that he did not press against Ministers the charge of broken promises. In due course they would have to meet their disillusioned and disappointed supporters, and he could well imagine that the results of the municipal elections would not encourage them to bring the day of reckoning any nearer. (Opposition cheers.) The charge he had to bring against the Government was that they alone in the House seemed to have no sense of the gravity of the crisis, and no plans for dealing with the present emergency. They seemed to have abandoned all effort and to be waiting helplessly for something to turn up. (Opposition cheers.) They were like a frightened puppy glued to its kennel, with its tail between its legs, snarling and snapping. (Laughter and cheers.) The one thing certain was that it would never come out.

IMMEDIATE PROTECTION.

He referred to various proposals that had been pressed on the Government during the debate, and proceeded—We have a plan, which I may describe in a sentence, as the immediate protection, in one form or another, by one method or another, of the home market, and the ultimate attainment of economic unity throughout the Empire. (Opposition cheers and Ministerial laughter.) Although we may differ on many points of detail, I venture to think that that is a programme which will find support from all quarters of the House.

I suggest that the key to the situation is to be found in the home market. Protection of the home market has become essential to this country, not only for the purpose of providing more work for our own people, but also to relieve us from the perilous necessity of maintaining our export trade at a level which every day becomes more insecure.

As to the method by which protection is to be secured, I feel convinced myself that tariffs offer the simplest method, the easiest, and the least disturbing to trade. I recognise that there are articles and conditions to which the tariff is not the most applicable method. Our contention is that every article ought to be examined on its merits, with the conditions attaching to it, and that we should apply to it the form of protection which is found most likely to achieve the object we have in view.

Protection of the home market, he maintained, meant more to the worker than to anyone else. He was prepared to consider favourably any safeguards which could be devised to prevent either exploitation of the public or inefficiency arising from the use of a tariff. He wanted to see profits made—(derisive Ministerial cheers)—by the reduction of costs, and not by increase of price.

EMPIRE TRADE.

On the subject of Empire trade, Mr. Chamberlain said:—"I do not imagine, or want other people to imagine, that we can arrive at imperial economic unity by a gesture or at a single congress. I do not believe that any steps we can take towards it will bring immediate prosperity to the people of this country. On the other hand, I am perfectly convinced that if it can be brought about it will rank in its influence on the world, and the benefits it will confer on the peoples of this country and of the Empire is one of the most momentous events of history, past or future. (Opposition cheers.)

The talk of "our country first" represents, I suppose, accurately the state of public opinion in all the countries of the Empire at present. But until we can learn to put Empire first, with complete confidence that we can so best help ourselves, we are looking in the wrong direction.

It may be a long road we have to travel before we reach the final goal, but at least we can make a beginning, and we shall deserve well of those who come after us if we lay well and truly the foundations upon which they can build. (Opposition cheers.)

In conclusion, he submitted that a Government afflicted with such paralysis of the brain and will as afflicted the present Ministry was a danger to the country. He had asked the House to accept the amendment in all its implications. (Opposition cheers.)

MR. GRAHAM'S REPLY.

PLEA FOR TARIFF TRUCE.

Mr. Graham, President of the Board of Trade, said that he would be the last to deny the gravity of the situation. One of the primary contributing causes of the increase of unemployment was the downward plunge of commodity prices. There were more unemployed in other countries than in our own, and it had been calculated that there were 21,000,000 people in Europe directly, or indirectly, in receipt of public assistance, and that, under conditions which were largely protectionist. As to the prospects of an upward movement, some authorities had placed the beginning of the recovery at the end of the present year, and others in the spring of next year. The report to be issued by the League of Nations on the world gold situation might throw some light on the subject, but all that he could say at the moment was that the outlook was more hopeful than it had been for a long time.

In a time of profound industrial depression, when we appeared to be in a position of economic isolation, there was a tendency to say that tariffs were the only cure. If he really thought that a tariff would help unemployment he did not think that he would hesitate to use it. But might not the result be a further tariff movement by other nations at our expense? A tariff truce was a far sounder plan than the game of tariffs and retaliation. Did Mr. Chamberlain advocate a taxation of imported foodstuffs? He had said nothing in his speech on that subject. It was his firm conviction that, apart from any tariff changes, there was a large field that could be cultivated within the British Commonwealth, on lines which he would call voluntary preference.

There were other matters which deserved to be carefully considered, and, no doubt, would be considered at the Imperial Conference, and without anticipating a single conclusion he did say that the Government had not entered into that Conference with-

WITNESSED R 101 DISASTER.

FRENCHMAN GIVES EVIDENCE.

AIRSHIP FLYING ON AN ANGLE.

Dramatic descriptions of the R 101 disaster—including evidence by a Frenchman, said to be the only man who saw the airship crash to earth—were given when the public inquiry was resumed in London yesterday.

Six French witnesses who had come to England on Sunday gave evidence, and at times the model suspended in the Court was tilted to demonstrate the angle described.

M. Alfred Rabouille, who said that on the night of the disaster he was trying to get some rabbits, stated that when he first saw the airship it was 250 to 300 metres away. It was not going steadily.

ONE LOUD EXPLOSION.

"I saw the lights of the airship go out twice. There was one loud explosion and two others, and a terrific glare from the flames. I was blown down with the force of the explosion. The airship was flying very low."

Gesticulating vigorously, he continued: "It went up in the air, and there was an end of it."

"Fini, fini," he exclaimed. "It dived once, and once only."

Before diving the airship was flying slightly on an angle (Rabouille illustrated by the model the airship's steepest angle, it being 28 degrees). It nose-dived from a height of from 150 to 200 metres. The ship did not rebound, but touched the ground and flattened. It dived suddenly.

Asked if the airship remained solid until she struck the ground, or seemed to break before striking the ground, he said that he was sure it broke on touching the ground.

ANGLE OF FINAL DIVE.

Another French witness, who saw the airship a few moments before the crash, put the angle of the final dive at nearly 40 degrees.

Sir John Simon (President of the Court), commenting on French witnesses' statements that the lights went out and came on again, said that the lights might have disappeared from their view as the airship turned.

Counsel read statements by other French people, one, from a girl who saw the disaster from a bedroom window, stating: "It looked like large fireworks going off."

Sir John Simon said that they should require some evidence about the gas valves and gas bags.

The inquiry adjourned until to-day.

BLOW TO BOULOGNE FISHING FLEET.

WITHOUT MONEY OWING TO BANK CRASH.

FIRM THAT WEATHERED THE REVOLUTION.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

BOULOGNE, Monday.

Not a single fishing smack has left the Port of Boulogne to-day; for the owners cannot pay the crews, since most of their money is locked up in the Adam Bank, which has closed its doors.

In the streets little groups of fishermen, merchants and housewives have been discussing the misfortune in hushed tones; for people of all classes had put their savings into the bank, which is one of the oldest and most respected in the Pas de Calais.

Policemen have been patrolling the Rue Victor Hugo throughout the day to prevent crowds from gathering in front of the long, low building, which looks completely deserted, except when the door opens from time to time to admit an official.

This evening its anxious clients were somewhat cheered by a communiqué which was issued by the directors expressing confidence that a satisfactory liquidation settlement would be made.

THE OLD ADAM.

The present developments have been all the greater shock to the public because the Adam Bank has been in business for 146 years, having been founded in 1784, five years before the French Revolution. For no less than 135 years, up to 1919, a member of the Adam family has been president of its board of directors. The present president is Baron Senevas, who lives in Paris, where the administrative headquarters of the bank are now situated.

Yesterday a special meeting was held in the rooms of the Prime Minister in Paris, which was attended by the Minister of Finance, the Governor of the Bank of France and representatives of five other banks.

The difficulties of the Adam Bank were discussed, and it was decided to advance sufficient funds to the liquidators of the bank to enable them to realise some of its assets and make a first payment to its depositors and other creditors.

out a policy. What the Government desired to see carried into effect was reorganisation of industries, which would enable them to compete in the markets of the world, and reorganisation would be defeated by the tariff wall which Mr. Chamberlain and his friends were contemplating. The gulf which had to be bridged was the gulf between production that would produce if it had the chance, and consuming power that would consume if it had a chance. It was in the solution of that problem that the economic salvation of the people lay. (Cheers.)

LIBERAL CRITICISM.

NO WARES TO SHOW.

Sir Herbert Samuel said that although the Liberals were anxious to co-operate with the Government in devising schemes to meet unemployment, their task was made difficult owing to the lack of zeal; lack of activity, and lack of drive on the part of Ministers. The Government could not be accused of not advertising enough, but the fault was that they had no wares to show. (Laughter.) The problem to be faced was how to lower the cost of production without lowering the standard of life, and the first essential was economy in many directions.

Mr. Jack Jones—Where will you begin?

Sir Herbert Samuel—Mr. Lloyd George will, to-morrow, put before the House specific proposals. He concluded by observing that the Liberals had no intention of supporting the Conservative amendment.

Mr. Holford Knight suggested the raising of a huge loan to finance industrial development schemes.

Mr. Mond said that the proposals in the King's speech were like presenting an acid drop to a hungry elephant.

Captain Eden, referring to Sir Herbert Samuel's Mid-Victorian economics, said that the right hon. gentleman and Mr. Snowden should be sitting side by side in an atmosphere of crinolines and mutton-chop whiskers. (Laughter.)

Major Atlee, Chancellor of the Duchy, replying for the Government, said that it was impossible not to recognise that what we were suffering from was a lack of adaptation to new conditions. Tariffs, doles and Government interference were not of the slightest use unless they were accompanied by conditions as to reorganisation which would place industry on a sounder footing. A good deal of our troubles was due to a defeatist spirit. What was needed was confidence.

The debate was adjourned.

LATE NEWS.

BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT WITH "THE TIMES."

THE LIBERAL PLANS.

ECONOMY, EFFICIENCY AND—EXPENDITURE.

The Times observes in a leading article to-day:—The new edition of the Liberal unemployment policy which is published this morning has been specifically prepared for Government consumption. It is, therefore, more modest in tone and in title than the first edition prepared for the electorate. "How to conquer unemployment" has become "how to tackle unemployment," and the confident promise that conquest would cost the taxpayer and the ratepayer nothing has been replaced by the equally confident and questionable assertion that the money can be found without doing any harm.

The policy, however, remains essentially the same, although the creation of 100,000 small family farms is added to the list of expensive projects, and by way of balance economy is recommended in other directions with a view to bringing down the costs of production.

The cure for our ills, in short, is to be a combination of economy, efficiency, and expenditure. A blow from another Geddes axe is to fall upon the expenditure of the Government itself. Industry is to be more closely co-related with banking, and, for the rest, is told—if only it makes itself efficient—that it will scorn, as do the authors of the policy, all ideas of the value of a protected market.

The public are asked to realise that if £250,000,000 is borrowed and spent by the State over a period of two years, the nation will possess an investment rather than incur a liability.

PROBABLY MISLEADING.

Finally, the statement that the Government accepts the policy in principle, subject to certain differences as to speed of progress, gives the impression that only minor obstacles are to be removed before a majority in the House of Commons is solidly behind the proposals. It is probable that this estimate of the popularity of the Liberal programme is misleading.

Liberal members in the House of Commons are certainly under no illusion as to the imminence of an enduring concordat with the Socialist Government, and the authors of the proposals will surely agree that it makes all the difference whether they are carried out in two years or in ten.

To say that there are differences as to the "speed of progress" means, therefore, that there are profound differences in principle, and there is no reason to suppose that Mr. Snowden will abandon his reluctance to borrow for any purpose—except, indeed, the payment of the dole.

The policy, indeed, even with its interesting new additions, does not differ in essentials from the old version, adds The Times. The devotion of several pages to the praise of economy is unable to atone for the essential contradiction between economy and expenditure, and how meagre is the field allotted by the Liberals to economy. The Geddes axe executed extravagance within the limits of the policy pursued with variations by all Governments since the War. The Liberals deliberately reject a change of policy.

A NEW NAME.

Even their definite recommendation of a "drastic reversal" of the unemployment insurance scheme must leave it uncertain, in view of what has lately happened, how far they will face up even to the consequences of a reform of the dole system. To suggest, therefore, that a new Geddes axe could find work comparable to that effected by the old within the same limits is to open up misleading hopes. Nor is the case against increasing public expenditure met by calling relief works development, or by calling expenditure investment. Development is extravagance in the absence of any provision to enable the nation to use its expanded capabilities.

The Liberals reject such provision in the form of protection. Their whole case is founded on the assumption that British industry is relatively inefficient. Nobody will deny that increased efficiency is universally desirable and, in some cases, long overdue.

But is it fair to disregard the effect of dumping in its new and voluminous forms or to forget the tendency of the trend of public policy to destroy industrial confidence? The substitution of the credit of the State for the credit of industry is worse than useless—and nowhere more useless than in agriculture—if industry sees no hope of better markets and has every prospect of heavier burdens.

If industry is given a fair chance, it will not need special credits because it will be able to attract normal investments and the "relative inefficiency" bred of relative hopelessness will be swept away. But if industry is not given a chance, then the adoption of the Liberal policy will merely leave the nation worse off at the end than it was at the beginning, unencouraged by any new opportunities and oppressed by many new burdens.

TWO U.S. VICE-CONSULS DROWNED.

GALLANT EFFORTS TO SAVE A WOMAN.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

HAVANA, Monday.

When Mrs. William Jackson, wife of the United States Vice-Consul in Havana, was blown over the top of a high cliff yesterday into the shark-infested waters of Matanzas Bay by a sudden gust of wind, her husband jumped in to save her. Both were soon in difficulties, and Mr. J. T. Wainwright, United States Vice-Consul in Matanzas, who was a member of the party, promptly dived in to the rescue. The sea was too rough, however, and all three were drowned.

Another member of the party, Mr. Sidney Guest, a second United States Vice-Consul in Havana, barely escaped drowning also when he tried in turn to save his companions.

The body of Mrs. Jackson was recovered from the water this morning.

CITY COVERED WITH OIL FILM.

RIVER ON FIRE NEAR OKLAHOMA.

FROM "THE TIMES" CORRESPONDENT.

NEW YORK, Monday.

The oil gusher, Stout No. 1, after running wild for three days, spraying half of Oklahoma City with oil and filling the air with natural gas, was brought under control late on Sunday. With the capping of the gusher with a two-ton nipple die the menace of a devastating fire in the city has been greatly reduced, but it will be many days before it is altogether gone, for everything within a radius of two miles of the gusher—houses, lawns, streets and fields—is covered with a black and shining film through which a fire would run with the speed of a gale.

More dangerous still from their possibilities of starting a conflagration, are dozens of uncharted pockets of gas scattered here and there over the city.

Five miles to the south-east of Oklahoma City flames fifty feet or sixty feet high are still rising from the surface of the North Canadian River, but the movement of the current keeps the oil film from approaching any nearer to the town limits. The fire on the river will be allowed to burn itself out, as it constitutes no danger to life or property.

STREET TRADING IN DUBLIN.

MARKET PLACES SUGGESTED.

CORPORATION DISCUSSION.

The question of street trading in Dublin was discussed at the meeting of the Dublin Corporation in the City Hall last night.

The Lord Mayor, Senator Alfred Byrne, was in the chair.

The minutes of the last meeting having been signed,

Mr. James Larkin, senior, asked the Lord Mayor if the City Manager had issued any report to the Press concerning the last meeting of the General Purposes Committee.

The City Manager replied in the negative.

Mr. Larkin went on to say that the proceedings of that Committee were in camera, and there could have been no publication to the Press of any matters that took place in that Committee meeting, unless by agreement between all the members. There had been no such agreement, and yet a garbled report—half-truth and half-lie—had appeared in the papers on the following morning. He asked if there was any explanation from the chair.

The Lord Mayor replied that there was not.

The Corporation then went on to discuss ordinary business. The first matter was the election of two suitable persons to represent the Corporation on the Board of St. Ultan's Infant Hospital, and Senator Mrs. Clarke and Alderman Benson were chosen.

STREET TRADING.

The notice of motion tabled by Mr. Thomas Kelly for the amendment of the Street Trading Bye-laws made on November 27th, 1926, by excluding from the schedule the following streets—Camden street, South Great George's street and Exchequer street—was then moved by Mr. Kelly.

Mr. Kelly made a speech, in which he went into the history of the street trading trouble in Dublin. He pointed out that street trading had been carried on in this city for hundreds of years, and he remembered it for at least fifty years himself. Under the old Corporation for twenty years, the street traders had been undisturbed, but the City Commissioners, at the behest of a number of shopkeepers, had introduced bye-laws taking their livelihood from these poor people. The street traders had a legal right. He asked that they should be given a fair deal.

Mr. Coyle called "time" when Mr. Kelly had spoken for the fifteen minutes allowed by standing orders.

Alderman O'Neill appealed that Mr. Kelly be allowed to finish his speech, as it was on an important matter.

Sir Thomas Robinson objected.

A short discussion followed, and finally Mr. Kelly was allowed a further ten minutes.

200 DEALERS.

Mr. Robert Briscoe, T.D., seconding the motion, said that there were 200 street traders in the heart of the city around the area of South Great George's street, Camden street, Exchequer street, etc. No attempt had been made to give a fair deal to the street traders in the matters of compensation and alternative accommodation. In South Great George's street his experience, when he acted as a negotiator between the street traders and the shopkeepers, had been that half of the shopkeepers wanted the street traders to remain, while the other half wanted to get rid of them.

He contended that until suitable alternative accommodation or ample compensation had been provided, they should be reinstated in their old places.

Alderman Hubbard Clark proposed that the Corporation proceed with the next business. Mr. Costelloe seconded. This motion, however, on being put to the meeting, was lost.

Alderman Keogh said that he would support the resolution if the street traders were given decent alternative accommodation.

Mr. G. McGloughlin said that he desired to better the condition of these poor people, but he could not agree to the resolution as set out.

Mr. Gately suggested that the rights of the street traders should be tested at law.

MARKET PLACES SUGGESTED.

Mr. Coyle agreed that street traders should get proper provision, and suggested that large market places in the North and South sides of the city should be provided, giving full facilities.

Sir Thomas Robinson was completely in sympathy with the move to find proper alternative accommodation, and said he would support any move to provide such. He considered it unreasonable, however, to interfere with the shopkeepers who had acquired rights and who also had to earn their bread. He proposed as an amendment that a small committee be set up to go into the question of providing alternative and suitable accommodation.

Mrs. Maud Walsh seconded, and said that she had great sympathy with this unfortunate section of the people, who were endeavouring in a very uphill fight to make enough to keep bodies and souls together and to keep their families in food. They had to remember, however, that the people in those areas paid high rates and taxes and provided a good deal of employment, and so had their rights.

Mr. Ryan and Alderman Benson supported the amendment.

SHOPKEEPERS' VIEWS.

Mr. S. T. O'Kelly, T.D., read a letter from a big business firm in South Great George's street, declaring that the removal of the street traders had adversely affected their trade, and that this had been the experience of other shopkeepers also. He would vote for Mr. Kelly's motion.

Mr. P. Belton said that he felt the case would be adequately met by the amendment.

Mr. James Larkin, senior, held that they should rectify a grave injustice immediately. He would support the motion.

Mr. T. Kelly said that these street traders were honest, industrious, hard-working people, who paid rates indirectly.

On a division the amendment was carried by 16 votes to 13.

The amendment became a substantive motion, and Mr. J. Larkin, senior, proposed an amendment to the motion that, pending legislation to adjust the claims of the street traders, the City Manager should be instructed to exclude Camden street from the schedule and that the street traders should be re-admitted there.

Mr. D. Healy seconded.

The amendment was lost, on a division, by 12 votes for to 16 votes against.

The substantive motion was then declared carried.

Mr. T. Kelly asked that the Corporation make a recommendation that the police be instructed to refrain from action against the street traders.

The Lord Mayor declared that his suggestion was too late.

The committee was set up as follows:—Messrs. T. Kelly, L. O'Farrell, W. O'Connor, L. O'Neill, Mrs. Maud Walsh, Sir Thomas Robinson and the Lord Mayor.

A motion, tabled by Mr. W. O'Connor, requesting the Government to put a duty on imported manufactured woodwork and joinery, was declared by the Lord Mayor to be out of order.

WORK MAKING.

Mr. Martin O'Sullivan then moved that, having regard to the distress consequent upon unemployment which at present obtained, and with a view to alleviating hardship on the approach of the festive season, the Council recommend the City Manager to proceed immediately with any works or schemes, sanction for which had been given prior to the 14th inst., and to bring forward as an emergency measure any work or schemes falling within the estimates which would normally be executed at a later period.

Alderman O'Neill seconded, and the motion was carried unanimously.

The City Manager said that he would do everything possible. He could not advance the ordinary work, but in various ways he could institute works which would give added employment.

Mr. J. Larkin, senior, raised the question of the dismissal of a number of men from Pembroke, and the City Manager said that he would look into it. The City Manager pointed out that the co-ordination of the staffs of Rathmines, Pembroke and Dublin would necessarily mean some reduction.

A letter was received from Mr. Louis O'Brien thanking the Council for nominating him as a representative on the governing body of the Royal Irish Academy.

Mr. J. Larkin, senior, said that Mr. O'Brien had been unseated.

Alderman Clark said that the charter of the Academy prevented an outside teacher or professor of music from sitting on the Board of Governors.

Mr. S. T. O'Kelly said that the Corporation representatives on the Board of Management of Jervis street Hospital had been told that they had no right to vote.

These matters were referred to the Law Agent for a report and will be discussed at the next meeting of the Corporation.

WRECKED SCHOONER MYSTERY.

LIFEBUOY WITH PAPERS ATTACHED.

FEARS FOR SAFETY OF FIVE MEN.

The gale which raged over many parts of the British Isles on Sunday continued over North Wales yesterday, accompanied by heavy rain. Heavy seas are running on the Welsh coast. The rivers Dee, Severn, Wye, and Clwyd are over their banks, and many dwellinghouses have been flooded out.

In response to a wireless call during Sunday night from a large German steamer stating that a small vessel was in distress, with a small steamer standing by, ten miles north of Round Island, the Scilly Islands lifeboat put out in a terrific sea. The boat got to a point thirteen miles off St. Martin's, past the Sevenstones Lightship, but could see no trace of any vessel.

LYING UPTURNED.

A small two-masted schooner was seen yesterday to be lying upturned on one of the treacherous sandabanks near the Flat Holm in the Bristol Channel. There was no sign of life aboard, and owing to the rough weather no vessel was able to approach the bank.

Mr. John Hannigan, the volunteer-in-charge at the Penarth look-out, told a reporter last night: "When I first noticed the vessel she must have been under water for at least eight hours. It is thought that she must have run on the sands at half-tide on Saturday night or Sunday morning.

"Of course, it is possible that the schooner was wrecked somewhere else and drifted on to the sands, but up to the present the whole matter is a mystery.

"It is impossible to see from here whether the ship is a sailing vessel or one equipped with an auxiliary engine. She is, however, a steel vessel.

"A tug is going out, and we shall probably know to-morrow what her name is, also where she comes from."

A FRENCH BARQUE?

The vessel is believed to be the French barquentine Commandant Marchand, 163 tons, of Havre. A number of vessels went out on yesterday afternoon's tide and cruised around the bank, but found nothing to help them to identify the submerged vessel.

A Cardiff tug later picked up among a pile of driftwood in Barry Roads a lifebuoy, to which were attached papers belonging to the French vessel, Commandant Marchand. The agents of the vessel, Messrs. E. Marceshe, said that the ship was on the way to South Wales. She is believed to have carried a crew of five.

It is presumed that the small vessel was driven on the sandbank, and the crew of five were washed overboard by the terrific waves. The fact that the ship's papers were attached to the lifebuoy suggests that a grim drama had been enacted in the storm and that the captain and his men must have been conscious that they were beyond help and met their doom together. Although the closest watch has been kept there had not been any sign of a body being washed ashore.

LINER STANDS BY.

The Holland-America liner Volendam, which arrived at Plymouth yesterday, reported having stood by an unknown steamer about a hundred miles west of Plymouth on Sunday night. There was a fierce gale raging, with mountainous seas, and the little vessel, by means of flash lamps, appealed to the liner to stand by. After two hours' stoppage the Volendam proceeded on her voyage, another vessel having undertaken to render assistance to the distressed vessel.

NEW MINISTRY IN BRAZIL.

ADDITIONAL PORTFOLIOS CREATED.

From Reuter's Correspondent.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Monday.

Dr. Getulio Vargas was appointed Provisional President of Brazil to-day, one month after the outbreak of the revolution.

Dr. Julio Prestes, the President-Elect, who was to have assumed office for the regular four-year term on the retirement of Dr. Washington Luis de Souza on November 15th, is stated to be still a refugee in the British Consulate at Sao Paulo.

Dr. Vargas has definitely appointed the Cabinet, and has created two new portfolios—those of Labour and Public Education.

A COMMONWEALTH TRIBUNAL.

MEANS OF VOLUNTARY ARBITRATION.

THE IMPERIAL CONFERENCE.

PROGRESS BEING MADE.

By Our Special Representative.
LONDON, Monday.

"The eleventh meeting of the Committee on Certain Aspects of Inter-Imperial Relations was held this morning in the House of Lords, under the chairmanship of the Lord Chancellor.

"The Committee examined the provisions proposed to be inserted in the legislation to be introduced in the Parliament of the United Kingdom to give effect to the recommendations contained in the report of the Conference on the operation of Dominion legislation.

"The Committee adjourned until Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock."

"The heads of delegations met at 10 Downing street this morning at 10.30 o'clock. Their final consideration of questions concerned with constitutional aspects of inter-Imperial relations was commenced and considerable progress was made. The meeting adjourned until 3.30 this afternoon."

After many days, despite the vagueness of the above communiqués the Imperial Conference at last is reaching the stage at which decisions may be taken. I say "may" advisedly, because there really is no guarantee that decisions of any kind will be reached. All that we are permitted to know is that the heads of delegations probably will come to certain conclusions which may or may not be ratified by the Plenary Conference.

In this connection it may be of interest to draw a distinction between the heads of delegations and the Plenary Conference. Every member of the "heads" is a kind of Pooh Bah; for he sits on both bodies. The Plenary Conference differs from the heads of delegations only in so far as it includes persons such as the High Commissioners of the Dominions and various other important Panjandrums, but for all practical purposes the two bodies are identical. Their difference is that between Tweedledum and Tweedledee.

A TRIBUNAL.

The first decision that has been taken by the heads—still, of course, to be confirmed by the Conference—is that an Empire Tribunal shall be established. It will not be known as an "Empire," but as a Commonwealth Tribunal. It will not be permanent. Indeed, it will be an extremely amorphous kind of tribunal, which may, or may not, be utilised by the members of the Commonwealth as they choose.

Its terms of reference will be confined to justiciable disputes between Governments of the Commonwealth, and it will consist of five members. Each party to the dispute will appoint one member, who need not be a judge—for instance, the Free State can appoint Mr. de Valera or the Moderator of the General Assembly, if it so desires. Each party also will appoint somebody who either has held, or holds, high judicial office, and these four persons between them will appoint a chairman, who must be a citizen of the British Commonwealth of Nations.

Assessors may be appointed by all five members, and the court can sit anywhere it likes, but it seems that, if any Dominion chooses to refuse to take advantage of this machinery, it will be at complete liberty to do so. Nothing will be obligatory except this—that, if two members of the Commonwealth decide to seek the arbitration of the tribunal, they will bind themselves ipso facto to abide by its decision. In short, the Commonwealth Tribunal merely will provide a means of voluntary arbitration.

THE FREE STATE VIEW.

From the Free State's point of view this proposed Court is of peculiar interest. What will happen if there should be a quarrel between the Free State and another member of the Commonwealth? For example, what will happen if the existing dispute concerning the territorial waters of Lough Foyle should come to a head? The British Government, representing Northern Ireland, naturally would propose resort to the new Commonwealth tribunal; but what about the Free State? By its unconditional signature of the Optional Clause at Geneva the Dublin Government already has bound itself to carry any and every dispute of this kind to The Hague.

All the other Dominions, as well as the United Kingdom, have reserved to themselves the right to retain domestic disputes between Commonwealth members for privat settlement. The Free State alone has pledged itself to take everything to The Hague.

However, the new tribunal will be better than nothing. It will give those members of the Commonwealth who recognise the absurdity of referring family quarrels to foreign arbitration a chance to resort to alternative machinery, but the fact that it is an entirely voluntary Court, that it has no permanence, and that one member of the Commonwealth already is committed to a different tribunal, rather takes the gilt off the gingerbread.

MEANS OF COMMUNICATION.

Another point on which some measure of general agreement has been reached relates to the means of communication and consultation between Governments of the Empire in respect of foreign affairs. The Conference of 1926 laid down three general principles—(1) That any Commonwealth Government negotiating treaties with foreign Powers should inform any other Commonwealth Government of what was happening, if its interest were likely to be involved; (2) that any other Dominion Governments which were interested in the negotiations should make their point of view known as quickly as possible, and (3) that no Commonwealth Government could commit any of its fellows without its specific consent.

I understand that the present Conference is likely to extend that idea of communication and consultation between members of the Commonwealth.

In the first place, it is felt that co-operation ought not to be confined to the actual negotiation of treaties or agreements between a Commonwealth Government and a foreign Power. All sorts of other communications are in almost continuous progress between members of the Commonwealth and other nations. For instance, the members of the Empire also are members of the League of Nations in their own right, and the Free State happens to have a seat on the Council at Geneva.

INTERCHANGE OF OPINIONS.

The imperial delegates contend that it would be most useful if, after every meeting at Geneva, the several Governments of the Commonwealth would tell one another what they think of things generally, and that in every case in which they are engaged in conversations with outside Powers they should tell one another what is happening. This is a most important point, inasmuch as it ensures that every Dominion shall know what every other Dominion is doing, and that the Government of the United Kingdom also shall have the fullest possible knowledge of its sister Governments' activities outside the Commonwealth. In the second place, the delegates have come to the conclusion that official information, with its inevitable red tape and delays, is not enough. Some form of personal contact between the Dominions and the United Kingdom, on the one hand, and between the Dominions themselves, on the other, is highly desirable.

Already some of the Dominions have realised this fact. The Australians have a liaison officer in London, and the Government of the United Kingdom has a similar functionary in Ottawa and is about to send one to Cape Town.

The report of the Imperial Conference probably will recommend the extension of these precedents to all the Dominions. It holds strongly that this system ought to be developed, but, of course, it recognises that every Government must devise its own machinery. The ideal would be that every member of the Commonwealth should be represented in the capital of every other member by a direct representative. Naturally the question of cost cannot be ignored, but I think that I am fairly safe in saying that the report of the Conference will recommend this proposal of diplomatic reciprocity as a working principle to be interpreted by individual Dominions as they think fit.

HIGH COMMISSIONERS.

This raises the question of the status of High Commissioners. Obviously if Mr. Smiddy is to become a kind of political officer in London, he must be granted diplomatic rank, and the representative of the British Government in Dublin could not be ranked below the status of a foreign Consul-General. That, however, is another day's work.

The essential thing is that the Conference recognises the value of increased co-operation between the member States of the Empire in political as well as in economic affairs. How effect will be given to this recognition remains to be seen.

FOREIGN GOVERNMENTS.

Yet a third matter has been decided, although, as in the case of the others, no final decision has been reached. This is the question of channels of communication between the Commonwealth and foreign Governments. Since 1926 the Dominions have exercised their right of appointing direct diplomatic representatives to foreign Powers. Where such representatives exist there is, of course, no question of the means of communication. The Dominions merely act directly. None of the Dominions, however, has anything like a complete service of Ambassadors and Ministers. The Free State, for example, has Ministers only in Washington, Paris, Berlin and the Vatican City, with another in prospect in Rome. In the case of all other capitals it is forced to employ the machinery of the British diplomatic service. This machinery, admittedly, is rather cumbersome. At present if Dublin wishes to communicate, say, with Madrid, it must get into touch in the first place with the Dominions Office in London. The Dominions Office then gets into touch with the Foreign Office, which finally communicates with the British Ambassador in Madrid, and the return journey is identical.

The imperial delegates are unanimous in their view that in matters of urgency less involved methods should be employed. The existing system wastes a lot of time, and there are cases in which the time factor is all-important. They have agreed, therefore—or, perhaps, I should say that they probably will agree—to make an important change. Henceforward any Dominion Government will have the right to communicate directly with the British Ambassador or Minister in any foreign capital in which it has no representative of its own. If the Free State has trouble with, say, Guatemala, it will be able to wire to the British Minister in that country's capital, and he will take the matter up without delay. There will be a stipulation that the British Minister, if possible, ought to wait until he hears from the Foreign Office, for the Dominion Government will duplicate its wire to Whitehall, but in practice the Free State or any other Dominion will be able to use the services of the British Diplomatic Service directly and without one penny additional cost to the Dominion taxpayer.

It is agreed also that Dominion Governments will be empowered to deal directly with British representatives in foreign capitals in matters of technical and commercial importance which do not fall under the category of "urgent" affairs. The whole idea is merely to hasten communications between Dominions and foreign Powers. No question of principle is involved, and there is no extension of Dominion powers vis à vis Great Britain. It is entirely a matter of convenience.

SOMETHING LIKE FINALITY.

We have reached something like finality, therefore, on three matters—the Empire tribunal, communication and consultation between members of the Commonwealth, and channels of communication between the Dominions and foreign Powers. Nothing more will be heard of them until they appear in the final report of the Conference.

I understand that virtual agreement also has been reached concerning the document known as the "O.D.L." report—that is to say, the recommendations of last year's Conference on the operation of Dominion legislation and merchant shipping. The heads of delegations have decided that the recommendations of this Conference are good, and will suggest that they ought to be acted upon as soon as possible.

Furthermore, reports have been concluded regarding cotton-growing in the Empire and imperial steamship services, but neither of these documents is likely to cause anybody to lose a night's sleep. Their practical recommendations are negligible.

THE PRIVY COUNCIL.

Various matters remain. For example, there is the Privy Council. I gather that this has proved to be too much for the Sankey Committee, which, after twenty minutes' examination of the subject, has come to the wise conclusion that the less said about it the better, and has decided to pass the buck back to the heads of delegations. This latter body almost certainly will issue a report on Privy Council appeals. All that I can say about it at present is that it will not leave matters where they were left after 1926. Also, I may mention that the new Commonwealth Tribunal in no way is intended to act as a substitute for the judical committee. The two bodies are entirely separate.

Then there is the whole range of economic questions that have been referred, first to the General Economic Committee, and then to the Committee on Economic Co-operation. Here is where the shoe pinches. What about the quotas? What about increased preferences? What about tariffs? The oracle is dumb.

At the moment the Conference is stressing constitutional matters, in the apparent hope that we may forget about the Graham Committee, but everybody recognises that the Graham Committee's report is far more important than anything that the Sankey Committee may, or may not, recommend. When it does appear, we shall be in a position to judge to what extent the Imperial Conference of 1930 can be deemed to have been a success.

SUNDAY MURDERS IN NEW YORK.

TWO "RACKETEERS" FOUND DEAD.

From Reuter's Correspondent.
NEW YORK, Monday.

Two of New York's host of minor "racketeers" were "put on the spot" yesterday. One, Felix Presti, a former boxer, was found with his throat cut and a rope tied round his neck at a lonely spot outside New York. His tongue had also been slit by his murderers, evidently in revenge for his having "squealed" to the authorities. He is alleged to have made a living by levying tribute from street gamblers.

The other lawbreaker to meet his end at the hands of rivals was John Catillo, who was in the lottery "business." His neighbours in the district of Coney Island, New York's famous amusement park, had noticed that he returned home by a different route every night, evidently being afraid that he was marked down for death by his enemies. He was right; for last night his body was picked up with a bullet in the head.

[Note.—"Racketeers" are gang leaders who levy tribute on tradesmen and others for "protection" from other gangs.]

COASTAL BOROUGH COUNCIL.

CHAIRMAN'S WARNING TO MEMBERS.

Mr. J. M. Devitt, Chairman, presided last night at the monthly meeting of the Dun Laoghaire Borough Council. Mr. P. J. Hernon, Manager and Town Clerk, was in attendance.

On consideration of proposed standing orders, Mr. McCabe said that he thought, if the Council had power to do so, that a Vice-Chairman should be appointed.

The Chairman said that the standing orders made no provision for a Vice-Chairman.

WEARING OF ROBES.

Mr. E. Smyth moved the deletion of the standing order providing that robes be worn on certain occasions.

Mr. W. Rollins said that they could be better occupied than discussing such matters.

The Chairman said that when the bill which brought the borough into being was first introduced in the Dail it provided that the borough should have all the privileges and rights which appertained to any other borough in the Free State. During its passage through the Dail certain matters were struck out, quite inexplicably to him. The Mayor and Alderman, originally provided, were struck out and a Chairman substituted. If robes were introduced they could not be introduced at the expense of the ratepayers. The Councillors would have to provide them themselves.

THEIR RIGHTS AND PRIVILEGES.

He would like to point out that that Dun Laoghaire Corporation district was third in population to Dublin and Cork, in the Free State, and was fourth to these two cities and Limerick as a municipal unit. It was a very important one, and was entitled to rights and privileges of a first-class city, and ranked before Waterford, Clonmel, Sligo, Kilkenny and Wexford. That Borough had a good many enemies, who, on every occasion, appeared to use every opportunity to bring about its destruction; and, in his opinion, unless its friends rallied round it, the Borough's life would be very short.

NO INVITATION.

Continuing, Mr. Devitt said that it had been the subject of a certain amount of comment in the district that the elected representatives of the Borough had not been invited to take part in the reception of the Prime Minister of South Africa, although a municipal welcome had been arranged for after the distinguished visitor had been brought through the Dun Laoghaire area. If that fact exemplified the state of the official mind towards the new Borough he held that the time had arrived when a stand should be made by the members of that Corporation to secure that their borough was treated with proper consideration.

Mr. Smyth's amendment was passed without a division.

CHAIRMAN'S WARNING.

Mr. McCabe moved an amendment to the Standing Order dealing with the suspension of a member. The Standing Orders provided that the transgressor should be suspended during the remainder of the sittings. His amendment was to the effect that the transgressor should be suspended for a month.

Mr. Bently seconded.

The Chairman considered that the amendment was much too drastic, and said that if it were passed he would never apply it.

Mr. Rollins and Mr. McCabe became engaged in exchanges, and the Chairman threatened to suspend the meeting if they did not stop. He said he was not there to deal with affairs outside the borough, and if that conduct was persisted in, he would close the book and suspend the meting.

Mr. McCabe's amendment was defeated by seven votes to three.

Mr. O'Donnell moved a further amendment that the offending member be suspended for a fortnight. This was defeated by seven votes to four.

The Standing Orders and by-laws were adopted.

EDUCATION COMMITTEE.

Mr. Bently proposed, and Councillor Smith seconded, that the Vocational Education Committee of fourteen be composed of six members of the Council and eight non-members. An amendment that the Committee be composed of seven members of the Council and seven non-members was carried by fourteen votes to three.

The following members were elected on the Committee:—Messrs. Devitt (Chairman), Ashton, McCabe, D'Arcy, Bently, Smith and Morrissey. Non-members—The Rev. S. Potter, C.C.; the Rev. Father Devine, C.C.; the Rev. M. Ronan, C.C.; the Rev. Mr. Rutherford; Messrs. C. E. Jacob, S. Byrne (Blackrock), and Mr. Mallins.

It was decided that £500 be allocated for heating apparatus for the Town Hall, Mr. Rollins dissenting.

It was decided that the Manager be instructed to apply for a loan of £4,000 for the widening of Dunleary Hill.

LENA GOLDFIELDS AWARD.

REPRESENTATIONS TO SOVIET RUSSIA.

Mr. Arthur Henderson (Foreign Secretary), in the House of Commons yesterday, informed Mr. Amery that after the conclusion of the recent arbitration proceedings between the Lena Goldfields Company and the Soviet Government, the Lena Company requested the support of His Majesty's Government in this case. His Majesty's Ambassador at Moscow, he added, has, therefore, on my instructions, made appropriate representations to the Soviet Government.

PROPAGANDA.

Asked by Sir William Davison what action was to be taken as to the continuance of diplomatic relations with the Soviet Russian Government, in view of their repudiation of the pledge with reference to propaganda, and covering the Third International, Mr. Henderson said that no action of the nature suggested by the Right Hon. member was contemplated at present.

EXPORTS CREDITS.

Mr. Gillett, Secretary of the Overseas Trade Department, informed Mr. Hacking that there had been no failures on the part of the Russian Soviet Government to pay for exports from this country, when such payments became due, and where payments were guaranteed to the British exporter under the Exports Credits Guarantee Scheme. There was been certain losses in connection with other countries.

"WAR CERTAIN WITHIN A DECADE."

GENERAL CROZIER WARNS NEW YORK AUDIENCE.

From Exchange Correspondent.
NEW YORK, Monday.

Speaking at Carnegie Hall last night, Brigadier-General Frank P. Crozier declared that war was certain within a decade, unless a campaign were undertaken to educate youth towards peace.

"The diplomats of the world," he said, "are filling the air with international radio messages full of back-patting, but meanwhile competitive armament programmes are going forward."

THE NEW GERMAN AMBASSADOR.

ARRIVAL IN LONDON.

Baron von Neurath, the new German Ambassador, and Baroness Neurath, arrived in London last night. The baron succeeds Dr. Sthamer.

The platform at Liverpool Street Station was crowded with members of the Diplomatic Corps and the German Embassy staff. The new Ambassador was greeted by Mr. J. B. Monck, of the Foreign Office, representing Mr. Arthur Henderson, the Foreign Secretary.

Baron von Neurath, a tall, well-built man, told a reporter that he had had a very rough crossing.

MURDERED WOMEN MISSIONARIES.

FOREIGN SECRETARY'S STATEMENT.

TRIBUTE TO CONSUL AT FOOCHOW.

Sir Assheton Pownall (Conservative, Lewisham East), in the House of Commons yesterday, asked the Foreign Secretary if he had any information as to the steps taken against those who were responsible for the recent murders of two British women missionaries in China.

Mr. Arthur Henderson replied that early in June His Majesty's Consul at Foochow, Mr. H. A. Martin, came to the conclusion that the British subjects in his district, practically all of whom were missionaries, should be evacuated, owing to the prospect of fighting between the forces of the Government and those of a bandit chief, who, at that time, controlled the interior of the province of Fu-kien. The task was extremely difficult. On July 24th twenty-three British subjects had arrived at Foochow, but two missionaries—Miss Nettleton and Miss Harrison—were captured by bandits as they were proceeding down the river.

Strong representations were at once made by His Majesty's Minister and Consul to the National Government, and the other authorities,, who might be able to assist. At considerable risk Mr. Martin paid a second visit to the interior, in order to keep in as close touch as possible with the captives, and was absent from his post for two months in company with the representative of the Church Missionary Society. Unfortunately, all his efforts were unvailing, and the missionaries were barbarously murdered.

He was satisfied that everything humanly possible was done to avoid this shocking tragedy, which His Majesty's Government, in common with members from all quarters of the House, deeply deplored. He might add that, on receipt of the news His Majesty's Minister at Peking formally demanded that punitive measures should be taken against the culprits, and Dr. Wong, the Foreign Minister, said that the barbarous incident would be severely handlel.

QUESTION OF WITHDRAWAL.

Sir Assheton Pownall—Has the right hon. gentleman considered the advisability of communicating with the principal Missionary Societies, and asking them, in view of the disturbed state of much of China, to withdraw some of their men, and, at any rate, their women missionaries?

Mr. Henderson—I happen to know that Missionary Societies do not like to withdraw their missionaries, male or female, even from disturbed areas. But we are in touch with them. I have not put forward a request for these withdrawals because I think that is a matter for the societies themselves to determine.

Sir Kingsley Wood—Is there any likelihood of the murderers being apprehended?

Mr. Henderson—The National Government are doing their best to bring the guilty to justice.

Mr. Baldwin—Will the right hon. gentleman consider the question of conveying the appreciation of members on all sides to Mr. Martin? (Hear, hear.)

Mr. Henderson—I shall certainly do so.

THE UNIVERSE.

ASTRONOMER AND SCIENTIST DISAGREE.

Sir James H. Jeans, the astronomer, was the guest at the fortnightly dinner of the Authors' Club at Westminster last night. His topic was "Ourselves and the Universe."

"The man who can see a message of despair in the vastness of the universe," said Sir James, "must be a born pessimist. The astronomer has raised a vision of hope for the human race.

"He shows that the past is as nothing compared with the future. What we have achieved is nothing compared with what we can achieve.

"The universe has existed for between two and three thousand million years, and it is reasonable to expect that there is a life before it of something like two thousand million years. The sun is radiating away four million tons of weight every second, but it will take fifteen million million years for the sun to be exhausted."

"I do not agree," said Sir Oliver Lodge, "with some of the views of Sir James. I take another, though I have not the foundation for mine that he has for his.

"He says that matter is disappearing into radiation, and that there will be an end when all matter has turned into radiation, and space will be a degree or two hotter than now.

"I do not think there is an end. I think the material universe will be found to have some manner of winding up again. That is a speculation on my part—that the act of creation is a continuous process going on, that matter is still being produced somewhere, and that the material universe is a growing concern, which has neither beginning nor end."

100,000 FAMILY FARMS.

LIBERAL UNEMPLOYMENT SCHEMES.

PROPOSED LOAN OF £250,000,000.

Proposals for a ten per cent. cut in national expenditure, the creation by the State of one hundred thousand family farms, the transference of the Telephone Service to State authority outside the Civil Service, and a National Development Loan of £250,000,000 to finance a variety of schemes, are features of Liberal unemployment plans, which have been laid before the Government by Mr. Lloyd George, the Marquess of Lothian, and Mr. Seebohm Rowntree.

Details are published in a booklet entitled "How to Tackle Unemployment."

It is pointed out that, if the nation is to maintain its standards of living and to reduce unemployment to normal proportions, when cyclical depression passes away, it is essential that our costs of production should be drastically reduced. It is suggested that probably the best way of doing this would be for the Government to summon a conference, representative of employers, trade unions, banks, and distributive trades, and point out to them the seriousness of our industrial position.

It is proposed that a new Geddes Axe Committee be appointed to give effect to a ten per cent. reduction in Government expenditure within six months.

UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE.

The booklet also recommends that the unemployment insurance scheme should be drastically revised so as to restore its insurance basis and to remove the present abuses. Other proposals are the appointment of a committee to consider how far the present incidence of taxation can be altered so as to relieve the burden on enterprise, re-equipment and development, and the encouragement of closer relations between industry and banking in the way of industrial banks, etc.

FAMILY FARMS.

It is recommended that the State should be empowered to acquire land for the creation of a hundred thousand family farms, tenants for which should be recruited from agricultural workers, allotment holders, and from training farms.

Vigorous pursuit of the policy of reconstruction and re-equipment is recommended in connection with roads, regional planning and housing, telephones and electricity. The Telephone Department, while remaining under the control of the Postmaster-General, should be placed in a position of relative independence, similar to that of the Central Electricity Board.

SIR THOMAS LIPTON IN NEW YORK.

CHALLENGE FOR AMERICA'S CUP IN 1932.

From Reuter's Correspondent.
NEW YORK, Monday.

Sir Thomas Lipton, who arrived in America to-day on a business trip, was welcomed by a special committee representing the Mayor, Mr. Walker. No sooner had he stepped off the Leviathan than he announced that he expected to challenge again in 1932 for the elusive America's Cup.

In the meantime, Sir Thomas will be presented with "The Americans' Cup," by admirers throughout the States, who consider him worthy of the title of "The world's best loser," and the popular Mayor, Mr. Walker, will make the presentation while Sir Thomas Lipton is here.

Sir Thomas said to-day that he would build a boat to equal the American defender, and felt very hopeful about the next attempt. Mr. Charles Nicholson, he said, would probably be commissioned to design Shamrock VI., but there would be another skipper instead of Captain Ned Heard. Sir Thomas added that he had not yet decided to race the Shamrock V. against the American yachts which were expected to invade British waters next summer. He was very cheerful, and seemed to be in the best of health.

GAS POISONING.

THREE CASES IN BELFAST.

William J. McMeekin (44), of Taylor street, Belfast, was found dead last night in the house of a friend at Rosslyn street, Mount Pottinger. He had gone to the house, and found it vacant. His body was found under conditions which suggested gas poisoning.

Shortly after 9 o'clock yesterday two old women, Mrs. Esther Curran (87) and her sister, Miss Elizabeth Coates (73), were found in a gas-filled kitchen at 11 Parkend street, Limestone road, Belfast. Mrs. Curran was dead, and Miss Coates lies in the Royal Victoria Hospital in a serious condition. The women lived alone. It is believed that the accidental turning of a tap on a stove liberated the gas.

SUPERANNUATION BENEFIT.

INTERESTING NORTHERN APPEAL.

In the Appeal Court of Northern Ireland yesterday, before Lord Justice Andrews and Lord Justice Best, interesting points were raised in the case in which Thomas Sproat, general secretary of the Amalgamated Society of Lithographic Printers and Auxiliaries thereto of Great Britain and Ireland, appealed from an order made by Mr Justice Wilson, which declared that David McCord, Mount Royal, Bloomfield, Belfast, manager, is entitled to superannuation benefit under the rules of the society.

Mr. Murphy, K.C., and Mr. Porter (instructed by Messrs. Crawford and Lockhart) appeared for the appellant; and Mr. Ellison (instructed by Mr. John Johnson) for the respondent.

Mr. Murphy said that while the Judge answered all the questions submitted to him, in reality there was only one general question, and that was whether the plaintiff, David McCord, was entitled under the rules of the society to superannuation benefit. He was now 65 years of age. He joined the society in 1883. He was employed from 1898 to 1923 as foreman of the lithographic department of Messrs. Little and McLean, stationers and printers, in Church lane, Belfast. In 1923 he was promoted to the position of general manager of the firm. He claimed now that, having become general manager to the firm, he was, under the rules of the society, qualified for superannuation benefit because he had ceased to actually work at the trade of lithographic printing.

NO AUTHORITIES.

Proceeding, counsel said that a case of that kind was never contemplated by the people who framed the rules. He did not know to whose ingenuity the claim was due. As far as he (counsel) knew, there was no authorities upon the subject. It seemed somewhat startling to lay down that because a man had risen to the head of his trade or profession he had ceased to be an employé.

Mr. M. G. Ellison submitted that the society was for the benefit of men engaged in the handicraft of printing work by their hands.

Lord Justice Andrews—Why did your client go on paying as if he was a member of the society?

Mr. Ellison said that his client had elected to stay in the society.

Lord Justice Andrews—Do you admit that it is implied in Rule 2 that the man had ceased to work at the trade?

Mr. Eilison—Yes. He submitted that the respondent was not following any employment connected with the trade now, and he was entitled to his superannuation.

Judgment was reserved.

BULL CALVES RETAINED FOR LICENSING.

The standard required for the licensing of bulls for breeding purposes has been steadily raised since the introduction of the Live Stock Breeding Act five years ago, and the results are apparent in the improvement of the young cattle now shown for sale throughout the Free State. Care has been taken in raising the standard to move slowly from inspection to inspection so as to cause the least possible inconvenience to stock-holders, and this policy will be continued.

The Free State Department of Agriculture, however, wish strongly to impress on farmers and breeders that a good standard will be looked for at the general inspections to be held next spring. Bull owners should, therefore, in their own interests exercise judgment in the selection of bull calves intended for breeding purposes and ensure that, during the winter months especially, the animals are well housed and fed. It is found that bulls, which, with a little attention and care, might well have been up to licensing standard, fall below that standard, because they had been neglected and presented for inspection in poor condition.

No inferior male calf should be retained in the hope that a licence may be granted.

DANGEROUS ROADS.

At the meeting of the WESTMEATH County Council, Mr. T. Maguire presiding, a letter was read from the Town Clerk of Mullingar, enclosing a letter from Mr. John Semple, Irishtown, complaining of the dangerous condition of the roads, stating that his horse fell twice under a load of coal, owing to the slippery surface caused by tarring. Mr. P. W. Shaw, T.D., said that the Council should give very serious consideration to this matter of the road surfaces. In many cases people were afraid to drive live stock over the roads. He knew of a case where a valuable heifer broke her thigh, and there were reports of many other accidents to stock, as well as horses and traps. In England they were going to reserve a place on the roads on which live stock generally could be taken with safety. Mr. G. Allen said that if the roads were not tarred the money spent on steam-rolling might as well be thrown away. It was eventually decided, on the motion of Mr. P. W. Shaw, T.D., to refer the matter to the County Surveyor, to see if anything could be done to make the roads less dangerous for horse and cattle traffic.

GOSSIP FROM THE COURSE

CORNAFULLA AGAIN.

THE LIVERPOOL CUP.

NOVEMBER HANDICAP WEIGHTS.

FROM OUR TRAVELLING CORRESPONDENT.

LONDON, Monday Night.

The only race of any great importance this week is the Liverpool Cup, to be run for on Friday. In this, Plantago is top weight, and I am sure he would have a chance if he were started. He is being sent to the stud at a fee of 98 guineas, and he should make an attractive proposition as a sire, for he has been a good horse on the turf. He is by Phalaris and has a great staying pedigree on the side of his dam, Scarlet Martagon by Torpoint out of Lily of the Valley. This is the family from which came that great staying filly of a few years ago, Tatra, and also the family from which came Valais, the most successful sire of recent years in Australia.

Alcester hardly ran up to expectations in the Cambridgeshire, but might be better round the Liverpool turns. Six Wheeler ran well in the Cambridgeshire, but he also has an engagement in the Grosvenor Cup, which he won last year. On the Cambridgeshire running nothing has a better chance in the Liverpool race than Noble Star, who finished on the heels of the placed horses last week, and has only 7st. 5lb. to carry.

SARGASSO'S FORM.

Lord Derby's sole representative in the race is Sargasso, and the four-year-old has only 7st. 4lb. In the Ayrshire Handicap he had 8st. 11lb, and he started a screaming hot favourite, but he struck a boggy patch of ground on the far side of the course early in the race and left himself with a lot of leeway to make up. When he did manage to tread his way through in the straight it was too late, and he was beaten out of a place.

The weights for the Manchester November Handicap are interesting, and it can be noted that Ut Majeur, the winner of the Cesarewitch, is rated 16lb. better than The Pen, the winner of the Cambridgeshire. It is very unlikely that the latter will be started, and I should not expect her to get the course.

It is unlikely also that Ut Majeur will be started. He has an engagement this week in the Liverpool St. Leger, where he can meet Parenthesis, who has to give him 3lb.

AT WOLVERHAMPTON.

At Wolverhampton to-day a warm favourite was made of Michaelmas Day for the Wolverhampton Handicap Hurdle, with Pompion next in request, and from start to finish this pair had the issue between them. Pompion was the leader until they came to the straight, when Michaelmas Day went on, and drawing out clear between the last two hurdles, proved an easy winner.

Those who have seen Mail Fist making the running on the flat would be surprised to see him in the rear for the best part of the journey with hurdles to jump. He never appeared likely to get in touch with the leaders.

W. Higgs has not greatly concerned himself with jumpers during his career as a trainer, but his Japanese Twin promises to do well. Ridden by R. Fawcett, who has done well since resuming riding after his serious accident at Folkestone, Japanese Twin won the Juvenile Hurdle in the easiest possible manner.

Santa Guistina had made the running until entering the straight, when the favourite, Southam, moved up, and was in front two hurdles from home. Approaching the last flight Japanese Twin came along on a tight rein to take the lead, and in effortless style held off the challenge of Gogo on the flat. Southam, who was tiring, was only just able to hold off Knave of Kildare to occupy third position.

STOTT'S DOUBLE.

Stott completed a double when riding Martyr to victory in the Dudley Steeplechase, but the path was made clear for Mrs. J. Watson's horse by a series of falls. After jumping the last fence Martyr came near to crossing Sunbronze, and an objection was anticipated in the Ring, but none was lodged.

A well-backed runner for the Shrewsbury Handicap Steeplechase, Sans Blague, fell at the fence after the water the second time round. Stott quickly remounted and went on, but Sans Blague was subsequently pulled up. This left the two favourites, Redan and Smoke Cloud, to draw away clear, and to reach the last fence with a commanding lead. Redan increased his advantage on the flat to give K. Pigott a comfortable winning ride.

Mr. A. Lowry's Cornafulla had little trouble to repeat his victory of last year in the Shifnal Selling Steeplechase. He had proved himself in form when winning at Manchester last Friday, but, even so, was second in the betting to Socrates. The latter, who was always second, nearly came down at the water, but this probably made no difference to the result; for, jumping freely, Cornafulla made all the running to win easing up. He was sold to Mr. G. Pease for 410 guineas.

SELECTIONS.

To-morrow the most valuable event is the Staffordshire Handicap Steeplechase, which has been placed last on the card. In this the Irish-trained ATTALA seems to be given a chance, and, in his absence, I would turn to THE MOY. BACHELOR'S VOW may win another race for Mr. Lowry if he contests the Dudley Hurdle, and BATTLESHAFT may be good enough to win the Walsall Hurdle.

GALTEE MORE.

SPORTING GOSSIP

V. Gilpin May Train for Duke of Richmond.

The Press Association's Newmarket Correspondent understands that Mr. Victor Gilpin, who has trained at the Clarehaven stables at Newmarket since the death of his father, Mr. Peter Purcell Gilpin, is contemplating a move to the establishment at Michel Grove, near Patching, Sussex, where Mr. Davies Scourfield used to train. When the move is made it is said that Mr. Gilpin, in addition to his present notable list of patrons, will probably train for the Duke of Richmond and Gordon and the Duke of Norfolk, whose horses were until recently trained by Charles Chapman at Lavant.

Irish Horses for Aintree.

The following horses have left Ireland to fulfil their engagements at the Liverpool Meeting: Bachelor's Defence and Summary (Palatine Selling Plate); Bayard (Rous Memorial Nursery Stakes); Rascal Monk (Downe Nursery); Markington (Ford Welter Handicap and Ormerod Plate); Coronoher (Grand Sefton 'Chase and Valentine 'Chase); and East Galway (Becher 'Chase and Grand Sefton 'Chase).

Midlothian Put to Jumping.

Midlothian, four years, has left J. Jarvis's team at Newmarket for G. Duller's place at Letcombe Regis, where he will be put to jumping.

Out of Training.

Racedale, who was unluckily beaten in the Cambridgeshire, has been turned out of training for the winter months.

Retainer for W. Turtle.

Lord Howard de Walden has secured first claim on the services of W. Turtle for next season. Turtle, who can go to scale at 7st. 7lb., served his apprenticeship with Stanley Wootton at Epsom. He has recently returned to England from Germany, where he has had a successful season.

WOLVERHAMPTON: PROBABLE STARTERS AND BETTING.

YEARLY'S GOOD CHANCE.

PERSIAN PRINCE FANCIED

National Hunt racing at Dunstall Park, Wolverhampton, claims a clear programme this afternoon. Possibly the most attractive of the six events will be the Walsall Handicap Hurdle Race, and the result should be fought out by Cedars and the representatives of the brothers Anthony. Yearly, from Owen Anthony's establishment, finished second to The Wolf at Nottingham last week, with Michaelmas Day behind him, and the performance was advertised here yesterday by the success of Michaelmas Day. Sir Crispen, who represents Ivor Anthony, is reported forward in condition, and is a useful "timber-topper" with a good turn of speed. Cedars won at Colwall Park last Thursday, for which he is penalised 7lb. He should run well, as also should Battleshaft, a recent winner at Market Rasen. The safest selection, however, should be Yearly, who will be ridden by G. Pellerin.

An interesting competitor for the Thorneycroft Hurdle will be Boomlet, whose last appearance was when he won the Welsh Grand National at Cardiff last season. Pergamus also is due to run here, but although he should show up well I have more liking for Persian Prince, who showed at Colwall last Thursday that he is now at the top of his form by winning the Bosbury Hurdle from Rodmill, King Carroll and others. He should again beat King Carroll, and, indeed, I think that Persian Prince, with a run, represents a really good bet. In his absence King Carroll should win.

The Novices' Steeplechase has a more open appearance. Burning Bush, from Woodland's stable, won over hurdles at the recent Sandown Park meeting, and I am informed that there are possibilities also about Tannhauser, but I cannot fancy him on the form he showed at Monmouth last month. The Newmarket candidate, Balrennett Hill, has been well schooled over fences, but if Dunshaughlin is sent on to carry the penalty he incurred by winning at Manchester last Saturday there should be no need to look any further for the winner. If he does not run choice falls on Douanier.

HUNTING.

THE MEATH HOUNDS.

OPENING MEET AT NAVAN.

FROM A CORRESPONDENT.

It occurred to me yesterday morning, and the same thought must have struck others, that the opening meet of the Meath Hounds at Navan was not attended so largely as usual. By that I mean that mounted followers were not as many as formerly was the case, and, of course, I knew the reason why. It was the slippery nature of the main roads of to-day. These latter are ideal for wheel traffic, but the man or woman on a horse is inclined more and more to fight shy of them, and who will blame a rider for missing them as much as is possible?

A little incident which occurred after hounds had moved off and were proceeding along the banks of the Boyne to draw Ardsallagh brought this fact out, one of the field pointing out to me the very evident marks on the polished road surface of a horse's struggle to keep his feet. "Somebody must have come down there" was his remark, and very likely some horseman had done so. It is this ever present risk which makes riders chary about town meets, even if, as is the case with the Meaths, the followers of the hunt do like to pay honours to the principal town in the county from which the pack derives its name.

Do not think for a moment that it was a small meet; for this it was not. There were motor cars galore and dozens of mounted hunt followers. In fact, there was little room to spare in the heart of Navan when Will Fitzsimons and the whips, D. Dunne and D. Durney, made their appearance with 20½ couples of the dog pack, the latter looking in the pink of condition. The weather was perfect, a strong sun setting off properly a gay and busy scene.

It being a local market day, there were any amount of sightseers present, and the goodwill of the town and the countryside to the hunt was very manifest.

Who was there? Well, it is a large question to reply to. There were the Joint Masters, Captain R. H. Fowler and Captain Hornsby, of course. Then there was the honorary secretary of the hunt, Mr. G. A. Law, of Ardbraccan House, Navan. A glance of the eye over the throng was just able to gather in some of the others, and here is an approimate list, with an apology for its shortcomings:—Mr. Sterling, the American Minister; Sir Nugent Everard, Admiral and Mrs. Craig Waller, Major Medge, Captain C. F. Watkins and Mrs. and Miss Watkins, Captain the Hon. Hubert and Mrs. Preston, Duc de Stackpoole, Lady Conyngham, Mr. and Mrs. Dalgetty, Lord and Lady HolmPatrick, Colonel and Mrs. Holland, Mr. John Leonard, Hon. Mrs. and Miss Plunkett, Mrs. David Plunkett, Captain F. M. and Mrs. Boylan, Mrs. Lentaigne, Mrs. Baggallay, Rev. Dr. and Miss Harvey, Mr. A. P. and Mrs. Wilkinson, Major Sharpe, Mr. A. P. Matthews, T.D.; Mr. M. Macken (Slane), Mr. Gerald Chaytor, Mr. C. Brindley, Mrs. Abbott, Mr. and Mrs. Pollock, Mr. James Farrell, Mr. Frank Rogers, Mr. P. J. Dunne Cullinan, Captain H. J. and Miss Cullen, Mr. Reggie Casey, Mrs. Finnegan, Mr. J. E. Smith (Duleek), Mr. P. Clarke, Mr. J. Clarke and Mrs. W. Clarke, Mr. G. Oakes, Mr. Pyper, Mrs. Gore, Lady Athlumney, Captain Murphy, Mr. J. Flanagan, Dr. Branigan and Dr. E. Branigan, Miss Cameron, Mr. R. H. Fowler, Dr. Lowry, Father White, Father Hughes, Mr. Geoffrey Gilpin, Mrs. and Miss Gilpin, Mrs. and Miss Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. Currell, Miss McCarroll, Miss Lennon, etc.

Why mention of the meet in the town was made earlier on was because of the number of riders who joined in at the bridge over the Boyne, and the still larger number who were awaiting hounds at Ardsallagh Gate. It was only at this period that the full dimensions of the field on the opening day could be appreciated, and the season opened with a find at Ardsallagh, which was the first draw.

Hounds were quickly away across the avenue to the old covert, thence over the Cannistown road and, very fast, into Bective, where they killed him, and then killed another fox almost immediately after. Two foxes from Rathnally got to ground at once, and then came a good twenty minutes from Carrollstown. This fox went away over the river, by Eskeroon and Mr. Kealy's farm into Meadstown, and right through Stonestown to Kilbride, where he was lost after a merry gallop. Meadstown "Sticks" held a brace, but the selected one was lost at Tullaghanstown when pointing for Allenstown Bog. Meadstown gorse, which hounds had run through earlier, was drawn blank.

THE GALWAY BLAZERS.

OPENING MEET.

With foxes stated to be plentiful, a very successful season is predicted for the County Galway Hunt (the "Blazers"), who held their opening meet at Athenry yesterday in favourable weather and enjoyed two fine runs. There was a large attendance, which included the Joint Masters, Lord Altamont and Mr. Bowes Daly, and Mrs. Daly; Miss Gregory, Mr. and Miss Browne, Mr. E. Concanon, Miss Grey, Rev. Thomas Fahy, Mr. T. McD. Kelly, Mr. J. Young, Mr. C. J. Kerin, Mr. Raftery, Mr. James McDonnell, Mr. C. T. O'Rorke and Miss O'Rorke, Captain and Mrs. D'Arcy, Mr. Higgins, Major Eames, Captain Gough, Mr. C. Costello, Mr. R. Kenny, Miss Kenny, Mr. Sean Broderick, Mr. Potter, Mr. C. Broderick, the Rev. Father Lavan, etc. The hunt first moved off to Mount Brown, where a fox was soon found.

KILKENNY HOUNDS.

OPENING MEET.

The opening meet of the season of the Kilkenny Hounds was held yesterday at Kilkenny Castle, by kind permission of the Earl and Countess of Ossory. The meet at Kilkenny Castle marked a change from the old order of things, for probably since the establishment of the Hunt, over a century and a quarter ago, the opening meet has been held at the Club House Hotel in Patrick street. The cub-hunting season has been a remarkably successful one; there is a plentiful supply of foxes, and all indications justify the prediction that an excellent season's sport is in store.

Amongst those present, mounted and on foot, were:—Major Dermot McCalmont, M.C., M.F.H.; Lady Helen McCalmont, the Hon. Lady McCalmont, Newbridge; Mrs. Marshall, the Earl and Countess of Ossory, Mr. Henry Vom Berg, Mr. Percy Blair, Mr. Roderick Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. J. Alexander, Milford, Carlow; Captain K. Alexander, ditto; Lord and Lady Teignmouth, Sir Hercules and Lady Langrishe, Captain and Mrs. Fox, Captain and Mrs. Stopford, Major and the Misses Loftus, Dr. B. W. and Mrs. Farrell, Captain and Mrs. St. George, Captain T. and Mrs. McCheane, Miss Doreen Goff, Dr. C. S. Purdon, Lodge Park; Captain Purdon, ditto; Mr. Purdon, ditto; Sir Otway and Lady Wheeler Cuffe, Miss Langrishe, Mrs. Price, Colonel and Mrs. Hervey, Lady Hodson, Major W. E. Grogan, Carlow; Mrs. Hall, ditto; Major Lindesay Knox and Miss Knox, Mrs. and Miss Wandesforde, Colonel Fowler, Miss Power, Kilfane; Dr. C. E. Drennan, Mrs. Galian, Castlecomer; the Misses McCreery, Newpark; Mr. and Mrs. Scott Dove, ditto; Chief Superintendent Murphy, Mr. A. G. Davis, the Misses H. and S. Poe, Very Rev. Dean Phair, Mrs. and Miss Phair, Miss De Montmorency, Miss Hewat, the Misses Graham, Summerhill, Thomastown; Mrs. White, Ballyragget; the Misses Butler, Maiden Hall; Mr. R. J. NORTH KILDARE HARRIERS.

OPENING MEET.

Under glorious weather conditions, the North Kildare Harriers held their opening meet at Lady Chapel yesterday. The Master, Mrs. A. H. Connell, has twenty-four couples of hounds at St. Catherine's Park, Leixlip. There was a big attendance of followers, both mounted and on foot, amongst those out being: Mrs. Connell, M.H.; Captain J. Hume Dudgeon, Mrs. Dudgeon, Master Dudgeon, Captain Sir Francis Brooke, M.F.H.; Lady Brooke, Miss Alma Brooke, Captain Hubert de Burgh, Miss White, Mr. A. and Mrs. Kinahan, Mr. J. W. Shackleton, Mr. George Shackleton, Mr. E. A. Coonan, Mr. P. Coonan, Mr. T. Gilpin, Mr. N. Galway Greer, Mrs. Greer, Captain Tuthill, the Rev. Father O'Neill, Mrs. Kaiser, Mrs. Hall Dare, Major E. M. Conolly, Mr. R. Clements, Miss K. Clements, Miss Clarke, Mrs. Hone, Miss Hone, Colonel and Mrs. Robinson, Miss Joan Manley, Mr. Brady, Major Dease, Mr. L. F. Ball, Miss Ball, Mr. G. McKenna, Miss Barrington Jellett, Miss E. White, Mr. R. Dunne, Mr. K. Carew, Mr. L. T. Byrne, Miss Tennant, Commander Weld and Mrs. Weld, Mrs. Brady, the Misses Brady, Mr. Frazer, the Rev. Lionel Fletcher, Mr. T. Jeffreys (a visitor from the Argentine), Mr. Fanshawe, etc.

Captain Hume Dudgeon was hunting thirteen couples. There is plenty of game in the Lady Chapel district, and immediately on entering Mr. Dunne's land the pack got on to the line of a hare, and hunted her for about ten minutes on a circling course, when, owing to the presence of other hares, the original quarry was lost. Mr. Brady's land was next gone through, and hounds again gave tongue, but in consequence of the very poor scent nothing came of it. Hounds were then brought on to Cowanstown to finish the day.

LADIES' MATCHES.

NOTES ON LEAGUE AND OTHER GAMES.

BY A LADY CORRESPONDENT.

An important feature of Saturday's Hockey programme was the visit of a strong Galway side to play Dublin University at Trinity Hall. The game was evenly contested from the start, but, despite fine defensive work by Misses Gowman and Braut, Trinity won by 2 goals (4-2). Prominent on the 'Varsity side were Misses Robinson (back), McDonagh (half back), and Thompson and Hassard (forwards).

The League fixture list was a heavy one, eight senior matches and over thirty junior being decided. Two of the senior games resulted in large scoring wins—Optimists netting 10 goals against Old Bertrand, and Pembroke Wanderers registering a 7 nil win over Alexandra College. Other results were:—Old College-U.C.D., 4-0; Muckross-Antiquity, 6-1; Maids-Newcomes, 4-0; Bray-Old Wesley, 3-1; Monkstown-Civil-Service, 2-2; Optimists II.-Trefoil, 3-3.

In the Muckross v. Antiquity match the play was not really one-sided. The Antiquity forwards put in some very strong work. Miss Richards (right inner) being the most prominent. Miss Kane (goal) showing fine accuracy in stopping and getting good length into her clearances. Muckross, although one short for the best part of the match, played with greater finish, this being particularly noticeable in the circle. Miss Muldoon was in splendid scoring form. The remaining scores fell to Miss Sheridan, whose quick following in brought two of them. Although she did not score Miss Harrington played a large part in all forward movements, and is a decided acquisition. The back division all played soundly.

The meeting of Pembroke Wanderers and Alexandra College produced a splendid game, and even the Wanderers' score was well earned. Misses Barry (2), Starkie (3), and Agnes Dowling (2) accounted for the goals. The Wanderers' side are in splendid form this season, and a good match is anticipated next Saturday, when they meet Maids of the Mountain at Foxrock.

Miss Cummins, the international centre-half, registered the only goals scored by Monkstown, when they drew with Civil Service at Bellevue avenue (2-2). Misses Quigley and Rogan got the Service scores.

A fast and even match between Bray and Old Wesley resulted in a 2-1 win for Bray. Both sides played a keen, hard-hitting game, and it was only in the last minute that Mrs. Hull secured the winning goal. Miss S. O'Neill scored the first Bray goal, Miss O'Reilly netting for Old Wesley.

Old Bertrand suffered a heavy defeat in their first senior game, going down 10-nil to Optimists. The scorers were Mrs. Gossett (4), Misses Brindley (3), Mooney (2), and Phelan.

In a mid-week match Dublin University scored a 12-nil win over Old College. The latter fielded a strong side, Miss Morton being the only absentee. It is hoped that Trinity will continue at this rate, and not slacken off after the Christmas holidays. Unfortunately, Trinity rarely do so well later in the season. Perhaps this year will be an exception.

CRICKET.

SEVEN WICKETS VICTORY FOR QUEENSLAND.

BRISBANE, Monday.

The weakness in South Australia's batting was again apparent in their Sheffield Shield match with Queensland here to-day, for, after scoring 180 for three wickets in their second innings on Saturday, they were all out for 304, the remaining seven wickets adding only 124. Lee, who carried out his bat for 37, made a vigorous effort to hit the bowlers off their length, but could get nobody to stay with him. He hit two sixes and five fours. Oxenham took three for 60, and Gilbert two for 76.

Queensland required only 38 to win when they started on their second innings, and these they obtained for the loss of three wickets. Biggs again played well to score 47. The Queensland batsmen were very eager to get the runs, which resulted in two of them being run out.

Next Friday South Australia will meet New South Wales in the second match of the competition.

Chapman, in an interview, said he had a strong side, particularly in bowling. This afternoon the team will be given a civic luncheon jointly with Miss Peggy Duncan, who recently swam the Channel. The team will then probably indulge in some practice to loosen their muscles.

FINE LEINSTER VICTORY.

AMATEUR CONTEST IN BELFAST.

ULSTER BEATEN 11-5.

FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.
BELFAST, Monday night.

The Ulster Hall was packed last night on the occasion of the first amateur inter-provincial contest between Ulster and Leinster. The programme, which opened at 7.30, was made up of eighteen fights in all, two of which were special international contests.

The first fight staged was in the bantam division, between Gallagher (Leinster) and Lance-Corporal Graham (Ulster). Gallagher, who deputised for P. Traynor, fought one of the best fights of his short career, and, after three fairly even rounds, during which he was the more aggressive, he got the verdict.

The light-weights—J. Cullen (Leinster) and Lance-Corporal French (Ulster)—next took the ring. They were a well-matched pair for the first two rounds, with French generally showing the more pace. The third round decided the fight; for in this French did all the attacking and scored heavily.

M. Byrne, the Leinster fly-weight representative, opposed Leading Seaman J. Salmond, of H.M.S. Caroline, champion of the Mediterranean Fleet, who represented Ulster. Neither displayed much ringcraft, and a moderate fight went to Byrne.

Next into the ring came the light-weights—Private Quinn (A.A.A.), Irish champion, 1930, and Private Wilson, York and Lancaster Regiment, Ulster champion, 1929-1930. The fighting was very even throughout the three rounds, and Wilson probably just deserved the award, which he was given. Thus, with four contests decided, the honours were even, each province having won two.

CHASE'S DEFEAT.

The middle-weight contest, between Garda J. Chase, the Irish champion, and Sergeant Jamison, Gordon Highlanders, was a lively affair. In previous fights between the pair the contests were of longer duration, and the three two-minute rounds which now ruled were against Chase, who was well behind on points in the first two rounds. He forced the fighting in the third and scored heavily, but the award was given to Jamison.

The best fight so far was that between J. Hickey, Phœnix, and R. McClenaghan, Queen's University. McClenaghan did all the leading, but did not get home as often as Hickey, who was declared the winner.

Garda Forde met Corporal M. Brown, Ulster Champion, 1930, in a light heavy-weight contest. It was a very even affair, in which Forde lasted out the better, and piled up points in the last round, which got him the verdict.

Garda Henley and Sergt. Warr, of the Inniskilling Fusiliers, two middle-weights, fought well; but Henley was much the faster, and had a winning balance of points in all three rounds.

In a feather-weight contest Private O'Reilly, of Leinster, always had the better of the fighting with J. Burns, Ulster. E. Smith, the Irish juvenile champion, fought cleverly against J. McConnell, the Ulster Fly-Weight Champion, and his win gave Leinster a lead of seven contests to three in the first ten fights.

P. Byrne (St. Andrew's) beat Lce.-Corpl. Nann (Royal Inniskilling Fusiliers) in a feather-weight contest, and when Garda J. Hearns defeated Private Campbell, of the Gordon Highlanders, the inter-provincial contest was decided, Leinster now having won nine fights to three.

W. Wright, who deputised for Ivan Millar, put up another score for Leinster by beating Rifleman West, Ulster won the next fight, Constable James Magill winning a hard punching affair with Garda W. Blackwell. A heavy-weight contest, which aroused considerable interest, was that between Garda Flanagan (Leinster) and Garda Sharkey (Ulster). Both men fought cleverly, but Flanagan was a clear winner.

The concluding match in the inter-provincial was between P. Hughes (Leinster) and Lance-Corporal Cupples (Royal Ulster Rifles), which was won by Cupples. Leinster won the competition by eleven contests to five.

THE RESULTS.

GUARD MURPHY'S VICTORY.

The international light heavy-weight contest between Garda J. Murphy and Gunner Steele, of Scotland, looked like ending in the first round, Steele being twice on the floor. He recovered splendidly, and at the end of this round landed a heavy right on Murphy's face, which staggered the latter. It took Murphy two rounds to recover, but fighting cleverly from this on he eventually knocked his man out in the fifth round.

The fly international contest between D. White (Scotland) and M. Rogers (Ireland) was won by White.

NEW ENGLISH HEAVY-WEIGHT'S SUCCESS.

Jack Pettifer, the English "Carnera," engaged in his second fight as a professional when, at the Stadium Club, London, last night, he met Roy Webb, of Hammersmith, over ten rounds. Pettifer's opponent originally was Jack Taylor, of Birmingham, but the latter was unable to box, and Webb was called upon as substitute.

Pettifer was altogether too good for Webb, who was so severely punished that the referee stopped the fight in the third round.

CARNERA'S NEXT FIGHT.

TO MEET PAOLINO AT BARCELONA THIS MONTH.

MILAN, Monday.

Jeff Dickson has arrived here on his way to Venice, where he will see Carnera about the latter's fight with Paolino in Barcelona on November 23rd. Mr. Dickson said that the proposed Carnera-Griselle fight has been postponed until after Carnera has fought Paolino. This latter event has taken Barcelona by storm, and already 15,000 applications for ringside tickets have been received. The Montjuich Stadium accommodates 85,000 people, and its capacity will be tested to the utmost.

Carnera arrives in Barcelona on November 16th, and will have seven days' final training before meeting the Basque woodcutter.

Meanwhile Carnera, who was at Rome yesterday, and was presented to Mussolini's son and other distinguished people, is busy putting his boxing affairs in order. He was interviewed by the President of the Italian Boxing Federation, and was duly licensed to appear as a boxer under the International Boxing Union Rules. Carnera afterwards left for Spilimbergo, his native town, where he is to give boxing exhibitions in aid of Fascist funds. Apart from these bouts, he hopes to obtain a rest until it is time for him to leave for Barcelona.

STANLEY'S OPPONENT.

RUSSIAN RUGBY PLAYER WITH SPEED AND A PUNCH.

PARIS, Monday.

A Russian, who, before taking up boxing at the age of 30 years, played Rugger" with much distinction for the Association Sportive Francaise, who were French championship finalists in 1927, will be Jack Stanley's opponent in London on December 1st next. This is Herzowitz, or, as he is known in Paris, "Herzo."

Herzowitz would have been a "Rugger" international if he had not been of Russian nationality. He was born at Stamboul in 1899, and has been a devotee of physical culture since his earliest youth. He is a man of tremendous strength, and is regarded as a coming champion. Last week he knocked out a burly Basque named Bardos here in 60 seconds. His footwork is neat and quick, and his punch is terrific. He weighs 16st. 10lb.

BERT KIRBY'S EASY WIN.

Bert Kirby, Birmingham, the British fly-weight champion, defeated Martin Gallagher, Rochdale, in a 15 rounds' contest at Coventry yesterday, the referee intervening in the tenth round and awarding the fight to Kirby.

Tom Mix, the film actor, is lying in hospital at Los Angeles as the result of a recurrence of his old spinal trouble, the outcome of a fall from his horse some years ago. He is stated to be in a serious condition and suffering great pain.—(Reuter.)

MOTOR CYCLING.

WORLD'S SPEED RECORD.

WRIGHT'S ATTEMPT AT CORK.

140 MILES PER HOUR NECESSARY.

The attempt on the world's motor cycle speed record, to be made at Cork, has been fixed provisionally for Wednesday. The difficulties which arose about securing the use of the splendid stretch of road, which is dead level and straight for four miles outside Cork, have been bridged successfully by the necessary £200 having been lodged with the Cork County Council to pay for any damage which may be done to fences on the roadside.

Mr. J. S. Wright, who will make the attempt on an O.E.C. J.A.P.-engined machine, is expected to arrive in Cork before Wednesday. With him will come timing experts and skilled mechanics, and everything will be set in readiness for the trial, in which Mr. Wright will have to put up the extraordinary speed of 140 miles per hour to win back the title for England.

The record is held at present by a German rider, Herr Henn. The road is stated by experts to be ideally suited for such speeds. It is made of concrete, with tiny corrugations, which will hold the machine to the surface in a better manner than, for instance, would a road with a flat surface made with tar macadam. It is necessary, in order to attain a great speed that the attempt should be made on a perfectly dry surface, and thus, if the road is over-moist on Wednesday, the effort will be postponed from day to day. There would also be less risk of the £200 indemnity being drawn on to pay for damage to fences to Mr. Corcoran, the objecting landowner, if the attempt could be made in the early hours of the morning, when few people would be about; but this would not be possible, since the morning dew must have evaporated, leaving the surface safe and free from any possibility of skidding.

The attempt will be made probably between the hours of 11 o'clock and 2 o'clock, and only persons holding passes will be allowed on the course, as those responsible for the event are taking every precaution that nothing untoward will happen to prevent the holding of future trials of this nature, and so make Cork well known as a motor cycling centre.

The British Autocycle Union has looked with great approval on the road, and representatives of that body who are coming to Cork are filled with optimism concerning the result of Mr. Wright's attempt.

RUGBY FOOTBALL.

"CLEANING UP" THE GAME IN FRANCE.

INTERNATIONALS AFFECTED BY THE LATEST DISPUTE.

PARIS, Monday.

No less than 22 internationals are included in the 12 clubs which have broken away from the French Rugby Federation, but there is little likelihood of their being kept out of this season's international matches, as the quarrel is likely to be settled at an early date. It had been threatening for years, and it is thought that the recent exposures of so-called amateurs have brought it to a head. The clubs concerned are very jealous of their amateur status, and they are also very anxious to "clean up" French Rugby and make it more like the game of British tradition. The pretext of the quarrel—that of the clashing of certain fixtures—hides many other grievances, but these will all be smoothed over.

TWO BELVEDERE TEAMS VISIT ROSCREA.

MT. ST. JOSEPH'S 2nd 0 BELVEDERE 2nd.. 0

In accordance with the annual custom, Belvedere College sent two teams to oppose Mount St. Joseph's College, Roscrea, on Sunday. The morning was very wet, but the rain cleared off in time for play, and both matches took place, though the pitches were so soaked that safe handling was out of the question.

The game between the senior teams resulted in a scoreless draw, which was a fair result, each side having the better of matters during the periods that they had the strong wind behind them. The Roscrea forwards are fast and weighty. Ryan stood out, and Burke and O'Connor were also good, while the best of the backs were Moloney and O'Meara. Gleeson's hooking for Belvedere was a feature of the match. Riordan was a clever winger, Quinn brilliant at out-half, and Murphy, on the wing, showed up well, while, in spite of the greasy ball, Hughes gave a fine display at full back.

The match between the second fifteens produced a hard forward struggle, Roscrea scoring three tries against Belvedere's two tries. Mr. W. E. Crawford, the international full back, refereed the senior match, and subsequently gave a short lecture on Rugby football.

The dead woman is Mrs. Esther Curran (81), and her sister, Miss Elizabeth Coates (77), is at present in the Royal Victoria Hospital suffering from gas poisoning.

A NEGLECTED GARDEN.
Because he had not tilled his garden, in compliance with the law, the Dublin County Board of Health at DUNDRUM District Court yesterday sought an ejectment order against John Coleman, one of the Council's Kilternan tenants. It was alleged that the garden was in a disgraceful condition, being neglected and full of weeds. District Justice Reddin made an order that the garden should be properly tilled, and adjourned the case for three months.

T.D.'S AND IRISH LANGUAGE.
At the County WEXFORD Gaelic League Convention, which was held in Enniscorthy, a resolution was brought forward by the Ferns branch of the League complaining of the apathy of the T.D.'s in Wexford to the Irish language. Mr. Hennessy, county organiser, said that it was not fair to single out the Wexford T.D.'s, seeing that the majority of the T.D.'s in the Dail did not speak Irish. No action was taken on the resolution.

FIRE BRIGADE REHEARSALS.
At ENNISKILLEN Urban Council meeting yesterday the suggestion was made by the Finance Committee that the rehearsals of the fire brigade be discontinued on the ground of expense. It was pointed out that at the recent fire the brigade did not put in an appearance, and the Town Hall keeper was the only fireman who turned up with the emergency outfit. Mr. Egbert Trimble said that the present rehearsals were a farce. The brigade marched each time to the one selected spot, over the same road way, and, except in bad weather, the rehearsal was more of a picnic. The Borough Surveyor protested. Until they had a proper form of informing the men that they were required, such a rehearsal should not be held. It was necided to consider the matter at the next meeting.

MILLING TRADE CONFERENCE.
At the LIMERICK Harbour Board meeting yesterday, Mr. F. Cleeve presiding, the invitation of the Mayor of Limerick inviting delegates from the Board to wait on the Free State Government to consider the serious condition of the flour milling trade was read. Mr. Bourke proposed that the invitation be accepted, and that the members of the Board—at least some of them who had first-hand knowledge of the flour milling industry—should attend. Alderman McInerney seconded. Mr. Bourke suggested that Mr. J. E. Goodbody should attend. They would like to have his views on the matter. Mr. Goodbody said that he should decline to attend, as he disagreed with the Conference. He did not know how the Mayor of Limerick considered that the flour milling trade of Limerick was in a serious condition. Mr. Bourke—We may be of the one mind on that, but you may be able to throw a flood of light on the matter. Mr. Goodbody—It is a question of interference with other people's business by persons who do not know anything about it. Eventually it was decided that the Harbour Board should be represented by Messrs. Moore and T. Loughrey.

DUNGANNON ESTIMATES.
DUNGANNON Board of Guardians adopted a total estimate of £12,529, a decrease of £88. The Rural Council estimate, for all purposes, totalled £16,307, an increase of £1,797, chiefly due to housing loans.

TRALEE PIG FAIR.
There were 1,000 pigs and 800 bonhams at the fortnightly pig fair at TRALEE. Prices for pigs showed a fall of 5s. per cwt. as compared with the previous fair, the top price being 65s. per cwt., dead-weight, compared with 70s. at the previous fair. Bonhams sold at from 30s. to 40s. each.

VOCATIONAL EDUCATION COMMITTEES
At the first meeting of the COUNTY KILKENNY Vocational Education Committee, which was held yesterday, the Most Rev. Dr. Collier, Roman Catholic Bishop of Ossory, was appointed Chairman, and Alderman John Magennis Vice-Chairman. Mr. T. Dennehy, who had been Chairman of the TRALEE Technical Committee for years, was unanimously elected Chairman of the Vocational Education Committee at the first meeting of that body held in Tralee.

ENNISKILLEN URBAN COUNCIL.
Mr. J. P. Gillin, for close on twenty years the leader of the Nationalist Party in ENNISKILLEN, and who represented the town on the County Council, and for a number of years was Chairman of the Urban Council, has lost his seat on the present Urban Council through non-attendance. At the last meeting of the Council it was decided to ask Mr. Gillin for an explanation for his non-attendance. No reply was received by the Council yesterday, and the seat was declared vacant.

WEXFORD FEIS.
At the annual Convention of the Gaelic League for County Wexford held in Enniscorthy, the Rev. J. Butler, C.C., Wexford, presiding, a report was submitted by Mr. Seán O'Hennessy, Co. Organiser of the Irish scheme under the County Committee of Agricultural and Technical Instruction, that during the session 1929-30 there were 92 Irish classes in the county, attended by 1,565 students. They had 15 teachers engaged. Since the opening of the present session they had 1,142 pupils. The report was considered very satisfactory, and adopted. The Convention decided to abolish district Feiseanna in the county, and to concentrate on Wexford Feis, the annual county Feis. It also was decided to organise a hurling tournament in connection with the county Feis, instead of a football challenge match, as in former years. The Chairman and other members expressed the appreciation of the Gaelic League for the co-operation of the G.A.A.

BILLIARDS.

LINDRUM V. DAVIS.

Lindrum scored little more than half as many as Davis in yesterday afternoon's session at Thurston's, London, the Englishman totalling 1,242 and averaging 177, against Lindrum's 658 and 109. Davis's 709 (full) was his best break of the match so far. Lindrum had the first of three flukes of the session in a run of 358, but Davis more than countered that effort with 422. Later Lindrum played out time with 70, unfinished. Interval scores—Lindrum (in play), 16,138; Davis (rec. 7,000), 15,568.

Lindrum recorded his twelfth thousand break when, in the evening session, he converted his unfinished 72 into 1,129, the innings occupying 38 minutes. Included in it were runs of 117, 106, 119 and 41 cannons, and it ended when Lindrum missed a difficult masse cannon. Subsequently Lindrum made 502 and 55 unfinished. His total for the session was 1,662, and Davis scored 710, with 576 as his principal break. Lindrum averaged 332. Closing scores:—Lindrum (in play), 17,800; Davis, 16,278.

NEWMAN V. McCONACHY.

Scoring 1,087 points at the opening session yesterday against McConachy at Bradford, Newman held an advantage of nearly 4,000 when the interval was reached. The New Zealander's breaks were 344 (full) and 413, while Newman made 494 and 496, unfinished. Newman averaged 643 and McConachy 187. Interval scores:—Newman (rec. 7,000) (in play), 18,305; McConachy (rec. 7,000), 14,510.

Newman went further ahead at night, when he scored 765, against 659. He had breaks of 326 (full), 184, 156, and 226, and McConachy 462 and 55 (unfinished). Closing scores:—Newman, 19,070; McConachy (in play), 15,169.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND NOTES

TONE AND COMMENT.

DUBLIN FIRM.

FREE STATE FUNDS STRONG.

The fortnightly carry-over was easily arranged yesterday, as business during the past account had not been heavy and prices in some sections had risen substantially. Dealings for new account were far from brisk, and the big industrials, with the exception of Guinness units, were very uncertain.

There was no doubt about the market in Free State Funds. Here everything in the garden is beautiful. Third Loan was particularly strong and Land Bonds were within a fraction of 99. There is no reason why they should not touch par during the present account. Agricultural Credit Bonds, which were ex-dividend on October 1st, were bid for at 101. A buyer at this price will be able to fill all his requirements on Wednesday, when the new issue comes out at the same figure. It is worth noting that these Bonds, like First and Second Loan, have their dividends paid without deduction of tax at the source.

British Funds, especially the long-dated issues, are moving past the 4½ per cent. value, especially Funding Loan and Conversion Loan 3½ per cent., which marked 82⅜. The 5 per cent. War Loan is now marking time, awaiting Mr. Snowden's conversion or redemption decision.

Guinness units made the usual upward movement, and the Prefs. touched 12¼, a price not recorded for a couple of years. They return to a purchaser about the safest 5 per cent. in the list. Railway issues are very irregular, especially Great Southerns, in which the bulk of the business is done. The Debentures were freely bought yesterday and the Guaranteed improved. Among the popular Industrials price changes were small and mixed, and the outlook is somewhat obscure. Shells fell sharply, no doubt owing to the gloomy oil prospect.

This week the most interesting financial event, locally, will undoubtedly be the opening of the lists for the new issue of Agricultural Credit Corporation Bonds. Yesterday the dividends were paid on Second National Loan, Compensation Stock, and the first issue of Agricultural Credit Bonds.

LONDON GOOD IN TENDENCY.

BRITISH FUNDS BUOYANT.

Although the volume of dealings transacted in the London Stock Markets yesterday remained on a somewhat small scale, a decidedly brighter tendency was noticeable, and substantially higher values were returned at the close in numerous instances. British Funds provided the outstanding feature, and values were pushed forward in no uncertain manner, the long-dated issues especially enjoying a strong business in anticipation of an early conversion offer to War Loan holders. Consols 4 per Cent. again attracted big buying, and at the close a further advance of ⅝ was registered to 93¼. The 2½ per Cent. appreciated to 58½, or ½ firmer, and Funding Loan and the 3½ per Cent. Conversion Loan each put on ⅜. Victory Bonds and Local Loans were other firm markets, while Irish Free State Land Bonds at 99 were a full point to the good. War Loan Fives exceptionally weakened on sales for re-investment purposes. Among Colonial Government issues Australians suffered a fresh marking down in values. Foreign Government Stocks, as a whole, remained quiet. Brazilians and Chinese, however, presented a firm front, and Peruvian Corporations strengthened the turn. Little of interest transpired in Home Rails, and for the most part the week-end levels were repeated. A feature in this section was the commencement of dealings in North-Eastern New Debentures. At the opening a premium of ¾ was marked, and later the price rose further. It is understood that the issue of £3,000,000 was subscribed roughly four times over. Apart from "Can Pacs," which were marked back, Colonial and Foreign Rails showed little alteration. The industrial sections, as a whole, displayed a firmer front, and some appreciable improvements were scored.

INDUSTRIAL MARKET.

STEADY GENERAL TENDENCY.

CABLES AND WIRELESS RISE.

Yesterday's carry-over in the Industrial Markets disclosed a reduced "bear" position, more especially in Imperial Chemicals. The rate on these varied between 1 and 5 per cent., and late givers had to pay the higher figure. The general charge was 4 to 5½ per cent., but "Imps." were arranged at 1 to 3 per cent., "Bats" and British Celanese, even to 2 per cent., Carreras at 3 to 4 per cent., Molasses at 2 to 4 per cent., "Graphs" at 3½ to 4½ per cent., Courtaulds at 3 to 4 per cent., and Dunlops at 4 to 5 per cent. Trading for new account was on a moderate scale, with the general tone firm.

Irregular movements were witnessed among trans-Atlantics. Nickels finished around 18⅛, after 18¾; Brazilian Traction Common at 27⅛, after 26⅝, and Radio Corporations at 20¼, after 20⅞. Columbia Graphophones had buyers after hours on the "street" at 2 5/16, as compared with 2⅜ during the morning. Gramophones (H.M.V.) hardened to 2 11/16.

Cables and Wireless stocks gathered fresh strength. The Preference put on 1½ to 71½, the "A" Ordinary 2 to 25½, and the "B" Ordinary a point to 13½. Canadian Marconis ruled dull around 12s. 6d.

Electric Supply shares continued to attract attention, buyers being in evidence for Atlas, Bournemouth and Poole. Among the Equipments, a fair inquiry was received for Callendars and Siemens, with General Electric new Debentures changing hands over 4 premium.

Iron, Coal, and Steel descriptions seemed rather undecided.

Provincial buying was reported for the leading Textile and Rayon issues. Bleachers hardened to 19s., Bradford Dyers to 22s., J. and P. Coats to 60s., and Slubbers to 4s. In the Rayon section, Courtaulds changed hands at 44s. 4½d., closing at 2 3/16, with the Pref. buyers around 20s. Canadian Celanese Common hardened to 2⅜, and British Celanese Ord. to 9s. 9d.; but Snia Viscosa reacted 9d. to 8s. 6d. Waring and Gillows came in for attention, following the developments outlined in Saturday's issue. The Ords. put on 1s. to 5s. 9d., while the Pref. changed hands above 12s., and left off 1s. 3d. to the good at 11s. 6d.

Unilevers strengthened to 2¼, while the new Ords. moved within narrow limits around 28s. There was rather more doing in Unilever N.V., which also hardened fractionally to 2 5/16.

A renewed inquiry was received for some of the Brewery issues, noticably Guinness, which gained 1s. 6d. at 104s. 6d. Tobaccos gave a mixed display. Insurance descriptions enjoyed further support, and trading in the leading issues continued on a good scale, while Banks were higher where changed.

Apart from Cunards, little interest was taken in the Shipping group. The former dipped below 17s. at one time, but were eventually unaltered at 17s. 3d.

United Molasses proved a steady market throughout in the neighbourhood of 21s., and eventually finished at that level with a gain of a few pence, and Dunlops added a few pence to 11s. 10½d., while Imperial Chemicals found purchasers and gained the turn at 20s. 1½d., although the Defd. sagged to 5s. 9d. Wall Paper Defd. recovered a few pence to 39s. 9d.

OIL SHARES IRREGULAR.

An unpromising start was made for the new account in the Oil share market. Hardly any business had accumulated over the week-end, and although the prices of American oil shares were quoted higher in the majority of cases on Saturday last, the market here was influenced to a great extent by the further decline in the price of Pennsylvania crude. While there was no pronounced selling pressure locally, fears existed that sales might be encountered from Paris, and there was a lowering of prices of international counters, while the more speculative issues also weakened. As a matter of fact, Paris did come in a seller, and while the shares on offer were well taken on this side, they were only absorbed at the expense of lower prices. In the afternoon, the market took a turn for the better, and shares such as Shells and Royal Dutch recovered. Anglo-Persians and Burmahs, although finishing above the worst, still showed small losses. Trinidad issues were on offer, Leaseholds being the chief sufferers. On the other hand, interest in Attocks revived, and the price moved up smartly.

RUBBER SHARES IDLE.

There was no increase in the volume of trading in the Rubber share market, and in view of the lower values ruling in the raw material section share values displayed an easier trend. Actual price movements were not numerous, but those recorded were adverse to holders. In the commodity section, spot and November sold from 4¼d. to 4 3/16d. per pound, and January to March from 4 7/16d. to 4⅜d. per pound. As anticipated, the London stocks of the raw material showed a heavy reduction, the figure being 4,738 tons lower. Liverpool stocks were 596 tons higher.

DEALINGS IN LONDON MARKET.

The following dealings among active Stocks and Shares were "marked" in London yesterday:—

LONDON "STREET" MARKET.

Business was dull in the Anglo-American market in Shorters' Court, and prices closed mainly lower. Brazilian Tractions declined ⅛ to 27⅛, Nickels finished ⅛ off, at 18⅛. Steel common sagged to 150. Radios lost ⅛ to 20⅛, but Colographs at 2 5/16 were that fraction better. H.M.V.'s rose a fraction to 2 11/16. Among mines, Chartered had buyers at 29s.

TIN OUTPUT.

Southern Perak Dredging, 29¾ tons.

At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Dublin Trades Union Council a resolution of sympathy with Mr. John Farren and his brothers, Senator Thomas Farren, Henry and James, on the death of their brother, Richard Farren, was passed. The deceased was well known to the members of the Council, and, though a young man, was an old member of the Irish National Union of Stonecutters.

MINING SHARE MARKET INACTIVE.

INTERNATIONAL COUNTERS WEAK.

In the Mining Share Market dealings for new time were on a modest scale, for the week-end brought no accumulation of public orders, and, apart from a few specialities, professionals were disinclined to take the lead.

With regard to Kaffirs, until the recommendations of the Low Grade Mines Commission are made known, some uncertainty exists, particularly as to the native labour question, and this exercises a restraining influence on Cape operations. About midday weakness developed in international counters, thus Central Mining and Goldfields were weak spots, and Rand Mines and Union Corporation were easier.

Far Easterns generally were well maintained, and Sub Nigel, Springs Mines, Modder East and Witpoort registered improvements, but East Rand were a trifle lower.

Chartered were freely offered, and, although closing above the worst, were still substantially below the previous level. Tanks were easier and some of the gold shares were marked down. The Northern issues lacked support, and were in fact very idle, but the shrinkages recorded were not individually important.

The price of tin relapsed to £113 5s. per ton, and this, despite the fact that the statistics were regarded as not unfavourable. There is, however, still an excess of stocks, and consumption is not improving to any material extent. The share market, however, kept very firm.

The price of copper fell back, and Rio Tinto were affected by Paris advices, but the decline in the quotation did not amount to much. Tharsis receded, but Mount Lyell moved up in sympathy with Barriers. In the Miscellaneous section Panama, on fresh buying and some bear covering, went ahead sharply. Closing prices:—

FINANCIAL PARAGRAPHS.

FIVE PER CENT. STATE-GUARANTEED MORTGAGE BONDS.

The Agricultural Credit Corporation, Ltd., will issue a prospectus to-morrow inviting subscriptions to the issue of a second series of 5 per cent. State-Guaranteed Montgage Bonds, to the amount of £250,000. The Bonds are guaranteed both as to principal and interest by the Government of the Irish Free State, and are a Trustee security in the Free State. The Bonds will rank in the Dublin Stock Exchange as "Government Funds." At the issue price of 101, the Bonds constitute the cheapest Trustee security of this type obtainable anywhere to-day. Interest on the bonds will be paid without deduction of income tax. The previous issue, for a like amount, was made in April, 1929, at par, and the Bonds have recently been freely purchased in the Dublin Stock Exchange at a premium. Since the previous issue was made the subscribed capital of the Agricultural Credit Corporation, Ltd., has been raised from £500,000 to £1,000,000, and the paid-up capital increased from £250,000 to £500,000. The First and Second 5 per cent. National Loans have recently been dealt in on the Dublin Stock Exchange at a price higher in each case than the price of the British 5 per cent. War Loan. The security behind these Bonds is in no way inferior to that behind the National Loans.

LONDON ASSURANCE ACQUIRES GUILDHALL COMPANY.

An arrangement has been made whereby the London Assurance are acquiring the share capital of the Guildhall Insurance Company, Ltd., which latter company will continue to carry on its business separately as heretofore. Sir Edward Iliffe, chairman of the Guildahll Insurance Company, Ltd., will join the court of directors of the London Assurance.

RISE IN FLOUR.

The price of London straight run flour has been advanced 6d. to 28s. 6d. per sack for country delivery, and 27s. 6d. for delivery in the London area.

VILLAGE DEEP.

The Board of Village Deep proposes to effect a further reduction of capital as soon as possible after 6th May, 1931, on which date is due the final payment by Robinson Deep. As from 30th April last the nominal value of the shares was reduced from £1 to 14s., a repayment being made of 6s. a share.

KLEINFONTEIN ESTATES.

Shareholders of Kleinfontein Estates and Township, registered on August 30, are advised that they may surrender their share certificates at 208-224 Salisbury House, Finsbury, London, E.C.2, on or after November 19, in order that they may be marked with particulars regarding the reduction of their shares from 10s. to 7s. 6d., after which the scrip will be returned, together with a cheque for the refund of 2s. 6d. per share.

CRUDE OIL CUT.

Following the cut of 15 cents per barrel in Pennsylvania crude oil on October 22, the price was reduced a further 15 cents on Saturday.

GOLD FROM SPAIN.

Referring to conflicting newspaper reports concerning the amount of the first shipment of gold from Spain to London, an official of the Spanish Embassy stated on Saturday that the actual value was £1,000,000.

BENGAL IRON: CLOSING OF BLAST FURNACES.

In a circular to shareholders the directors of Bengal Iron, Ltd., state that in order to economise, arrangements have been made to concentrate the manufacture of pig iron in the works of the associated company, the Indian Iron and Steel Company. The company's own works will concentrate on the output of pipes, sleepers and general castings. The cost of closing the blast furnaces will fall on this year's revenue, but the company's coke ovens will be kept in operation, and the mine will supply part of the requirements of the Indian Iron Company.

DUBIOUS TIN FIGURES.

The tin returns issued over the week-end make a rather better showing than had been anticipated some time back, although some allowance must be made for the rather artificial character of the delivery returns, particularly for the United States. There was actually a decrease in the visible supply during October of 968 tons, to 39,169 tons, which compares with 25,506 tons a year ago. The Straits shipments were 7,349 tons for all destinations, as against 5,208 tons for September, and including contributions of Banca and standard tin, this makes the total for the month 9,644 tons, as against 7,455 tons for September. An unsatisfactory feature is that in spite of the considerably larger shipments from the Straits, the carry-over there was increased by 1,590 tons, to 5,596 tons. This would indicate that the smelter output last month increased again considerably after a partial shut-down of two months at the mines.

COMING DIVIDENDS.

Announcements of interest to a wide variety of shareholders will be made during the present month. The list includes:—Finlay Tea Group interims, Royal Bank of Scotland dividend, Guest Keen interim, Johnson and Phillips interim, Mount Lyell final dividend, Shell Transport interim, Zinc Corporation interim, Consolidated Goldfields report. The Shell Transport interim is not expected till late in the month, last year's declaration having been made on November 18. The Goldfields report will probably be issued in the last week of the month.

ACCOUNT CHARGES.

Yesterday's Stock Exchange making-up prices give a much brighter picture of market movements than was the case some time ago. In Brazilian and San Paulo Bonds, for example, a recovery is shown as ranging from a point or two up to 6 or 7. Chinese Bonds have also appreciated very considerably, as a result of buying induced by more encouraging political news, and there has been a fair recovery in German Loans, particularly the 5½ per cent., which made up 2½ points higher. Even Home Railways show a general recovery, amounting to as much as 1½ in London, Midland and Scottish, Southern Deferred, and Great Western, and of 1 in London and North-Eastern Preferred, while in the Argentine group the chief movement is a rise of 10½ points in Cordoba Central 5 per cent. Second Debenture. Brazilian Railways have folowed the movement in the Government Bonds, while hopes of something being done in regard to Cuban sugar account for an advance of 3 points in United Railways of Havana Ord.

A good many improvements are also shown in Industrial Ord. shares. There has been a mild revival in Textiles. The leading Tobacco shares also moved up. The big Gramaphone shares improved, while a better market was witnessed for shares of the Grocery Merger Group. Changes in Breweries were invariably favourable, Guinness advancing 2s. 6d., and Watney Combe Def. 3s. Changes in trans-Atlantic issues were irregular. Brazilian Traction, Nickels, and British Columbia Power improved, but Hydro-Electric and Radio Corporation went the other way.

UNITED OF HAVANA.

In July last the United Railways of the Havana found it necessary to propose a scheme of arrangement, consequent upon the company's inability to pay debenture interest, apart from that on the 4 per cent. issues, which are partly secured by certain shares. The report for the year to June 30th last again refers to the general depression in trade resulting from the low price of sugar, but the result of working is rather less unsatisfactory than might have been expected. The gross receipts show a decrease of £595,821, but there was some reduction in the expenditure, so that the surplus at £350,356 was £517,200 less than before. After allowing for interest on investments there is a debit balance of £294,993. The company still has a reserve account of £1,199,617, a depreciation reserve of £50,000, and an insurance account of £80,000. The Ordinary stock, which not long ago touched 3½, against the year's highest of 26¼, has lately rallied to 8, owing to hopes of a successful issue of negotiations for effecting an improvement of the Cuban sugar industry.

OCTOBER CAPITAL ISSUES.

Those who have followed the course of stock markets during the month just ended will not need to be told that one of the few features of interest was the revival in the demand for new capital. The preceding four months, and particularly August and September, have been very idle in this respect, but following on the Treasury Bond offer there came a number of important issues, including Debentures by the London Underground system, the London and North-Eastern Railway, and two of the leading Argentine lines. To these have to be added the £12,000,000 loan for India and offers of stock by the Ayr Corporation, the Gas, Light and Coke Company, and a number of other concerns. In aggregate these issues, excluding the Treasury Bonds, are estimated by the Midland Bank to have called for almost £30,500,000, which is the highest monthly figure since May, and compares with only some £11,500,000 in October, 1929. Of this total some £12,750,000 went to satisfy the demands of concerns operating in England, while, as already stated, £12,000,000 was for India, and some £4,250,000 for Argentina. The balance of rather under £1,500,000 went to other parts of the Empire.

TWO SISTERS KILLED IN 'PLANE CRASH.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT. TORONTO, Monday.

Mr. Harry Taggert, the pilot of an aeroplane, and two passengers, Miss Jean and Miss Kathleen McColl, were killed here yesterday when the aeroplane in which Mr. Taggert was "stunting" at a height of only two hundred feet, crashed to the ground and burst into flames. Bystanders, who were without fire extinguishers, watched helplessly the cremation of the three occupants.

THE MONEY MARKET.

LOAN RATES STIFFER.

In the absence of any Treasury bill maturities yesterday loans were in fair demand, the big disbursements of Saturday apparently having had very little effect on supplies. Borrowers usually paid 1½ to 1¾ per cent. for advances over the night, and occasionally 2 per cent. was charged. Old day-to-day money was renewed at 1¼ to 2 per cent., and weekly fixtures were continued at 2 per cent.

The tendency of discount rates remained weak, owing to the scarcity of bills. Fine three months' commercial paper was in demand at 2 1/16 to 2 3/32 per cent., and there were buyers of the "hot" Treasuries at 2 per cent. January bills were in demand on Continental account at 2 per cent.

Silver rose 1/16d. for spot and ⅛d. for forward delivery to 16⅜d. and 16 7/16d. per oz. respectively on Indian and China buying. Gold was quoted ¼d. higher at 85s. 0¼d. per oz. fine.

At the Bank of England £5,142 in bar gold was sold and £16,000 in sovereigns exported.

Somewhat irregular conditions prevailed in the Foreign Exchange market yesterday. The New York rate fell to 4.85 45-64, as against the previous close of 4.85 25/32, and Canadian dollars appreciated 1/16c. to 4.85 1/16. Among the Continental currencies, France weakened ⅛c. to 123.76½, but Swiss francs improved by ⅛c. to 25.02¾. Reichsmarks cheapened ½pf. to 20.39, and florins 1/16c. to 12.06 11/16. Pesetas finished a farther 0.32½ dearer at 43.45, Belgas appreciated ½c. to 34.84½, and the Milan rate fell 1c. to 92.79. Swedish kronor improved to 18.10½. In the South-American group, Argentina dollars rose ⅛d. to 38⅞d., but the Brazilian milreis eased 1/32d. to 4 11/16.

DIVIDENDS AND REPORTS.

BRISTOL UNITED BREWERIES.—Final dividend of 2/- per share, and a bonus of 1½ per cent. per share, making 16½ per cent. for the year. (Same.)

CROSSES AND WINKWORTH CONSOLIDATED MILLS.—The directors have announced that the dividend on the 6 per cent. Non-Cum. Pref. shares due December 1 will not be paid. For the year to March 31, 1930, these shares received only an interim dividend in June last.

GEORGE M. CALLENDER AND CO.—Total dividend on Pref. shares of 12 per cent., and of 25 per cent. on Ord. shares.

LEEDS FIRECLAY CO.—Final dividend of 6½ per cent., less tax, on the Ord. shares, making 10½ per cent. for the year. (Same.)

LAND AND HOUSE PROPERTY CORPORATION.—Final dividend on Ord. shares of 6/8 per share, making 11/9½ (against 11/6) for the year, less tax.

NEW HAYOEP RUBBER ESTATES.—The accounts for the year ended June 30 last show a loss of £581, which is deducted from the balance of £3,759 brought in, leaving a credit balance of £3,178, which the directors recommend be carried forward. (In the preceding year the profit was £10,648; £1,400 was transferred to Dutch income tax account, £5,000 to reserve, and a dividend of 5 per cent. was paid.)

S. AND W. BERISFORD (MANCHESTER).—Ord. dividend of 5 per cent. actual, making 10 per cent. (Same.)

THAMES AND MERSEY MARINE INSURANCE.—Interim dividend of 6/6 per share, less tax.

TYRRELL AND GREEN.—In view of the general depression, and in order to conserve financial resources, directors have decided not to pay interim dividend on Ord. (Last year 2 p.c.)

UNITED CATERERS.—An increase of £3,089 in trading profits recorded in the annual report of the United Caterers, formed in 1927 to acquire bakery, restaurant and confectionery firms. Depreciation reserve has been raised by £6,000 to £10,000, and £1,500 added to income tax account. The net result is a small profit of £274 for the year to 28th June last, as against a loss of £290, after deducting expenses and interest charges. Certain minor establishments have been closed, and the leases disposed of or premises sublet at a profit rental. The manufacture of goods for all branches south of the Thames has now been concentrated at Clapham. It is believed that this will result in substantial economies. Various leases have been sold, and the net result of these transactions will be a reduction of the debenture debt by over £20,000 during the current year. The issued capital is £250,000, of which £150,000 is in 8 per cent. Cum. Pref., the dividend on which has been paid up to 30th November, 1927.

MEMBER OF CHINESE CONSULATE STAFF ARRESTED.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT. JOHANNESBURG, Monday.

Following the arrest of a member of the staff of the Chinese Consulate, the Chinese Consul-General has lodged a strong protest with the Union Department for Foreign Affairs demanding the punishment of the officials concerned, and also an apology. Under the South African Diplomatic Immunity Act anybody serving any legal process on a member of the staff of any Consulate is liable to a fine of £500, or three years' imprisonment, or both. The member of the staff of the Chinese Consulate concerned was arrested, it is alleged, on a charge of not being in possession of his registration certificate. He was later released.

U.S. MARKETS.

STOCKS CLOSE STEADY

Reuter's Telegram.

NEW YORK, Monday.

The principal United States markets will be closed to-morrow for the elections. The New Orleans Cotton Exchange and the markets at Winnipeg and Montreal will be open.

After opening irregularly prices drifted uncertainly, as traders appeared to be content to accept to-morrow's elections as an excuse for marking time. A few issues early rallied rather briskly, apparently indicating the closing out of short contracts before to-morrow's holiday. In the early afternoon the list eased, and most pivotal shares showed small losses, while initial advances of from 1 to 3 points in Dupont, Allied Chemicals, Union Pacific and some Tobaccos, Utilities and specialities were whittled down. Week-end business reports were mostly colourless. Wall street is becoming reconciled to the prospect of quiet and irregular markets for some little time. The market at the close was steady, with pivotal shares showing extremely narrow changes. Western Union Telegraph, Westinghouse Electric, Standard Gas, Columbia Carbon, American Tobacco "B," Allied Chemical and International Business Machine advanced from 1 to 3 points, while Erie Railroad, Burroughs Adding Machine and Simmons Co. declined from 1 to 3 points. Government Bonds quiet; Railroad Bonds quiet. The day's sales totalled 1,250,000 shares.

Money on call closed steady at 2 per cent. bid and 2¼ per cent. asked. All business during the day was concluded at 2 per cent. Sterling exchange easier. Silver ⅜c. up at 36⅛.

AUSTRALIAN WOOL SALES.

At the wool sale held at Brisbane yesterday the offerings amounted to 10,698 bales. The selection showed considerable improvement on that at the September sale, there being a good percentage of fine wools. Competition was animated, particularly from France, Germany, Bradford, and Italy. Compared with the September rates all fine descriptions were very firm; well-grown fleece wool and skirtings and medium sorts were on a par, and other descriptions were irregular and in buyers' favour. Well-treated scoureds were very firm, and other scoureds irregular.

MODERN METHODS OF TRANSPORT.

DEVELOPMENT ON LAND AND SEA.

HARBOUR CLEARANCE VITAL TO SPEED.

The rapid development of marine and land transport in modern times was dealt with by Mr. Joseph Mallagh, B.A., B.E., in his Presidential address to the Institution of Civil Engineers of Ireland at a general meeting of the members held at 35 Dawson street, Dublin, last night. The President also referred to the report of the Free State Ports and Harbours Tribunal.

Mr. Mallagh said that the session on which the Institution was entering held large and important developments for the profession, and it might see the culmination of the efforts which the Council had made for many years to obtain a legal status for engineers.

KNOWLEDGE AND EXPERIENCE.

The possession of certain qualities of mind were, he said, as essential to the successful engineer as those stores of scientific knowledge and practical experience which constituted the main foundation of engineering skill. The absence of that quality known as inertia was as essential as the possession of the twin qualities of imagination and memory. An imaginative grasp of the relations between facts was, he added, often more important to engineers than were the facts themselves. In recent years the most striking developments in engineering had been in methods of transport. As far as marine engineering proper was concerned, new ideas were producing ever-increasing efficiency.

TRANSPORT IN DUBLIN.

All efforts to design faster and better ships, however, would be wasted unless the Harbour Engineer could provide proper accommodation and facilities for rapid clearance. It was apparent that any failure to provide proper facilities at the Port of Dublin must involve loss to the whole country. Of equal importance to the sea approaches were the land approaches, and the provision of good and wide roads in the port area was necessary. With the steadily increasing traffic on the roads there seemed to be a distinct need for the fuller utilisation of inland waterway transport, which of late had been somewhat neglected in this country.

NEED FOR AIR PORT.

Another provision that would soon have to be made in connection with every sea port of importance was the installation and maintenance of an air port. Mr. Mallagh then referred to the Ports and Harbours' Report as an invaluable work, but said that, as the harbour authority with which he was associated was included in the Tribunal's terms of reference, he refrained from expressing opinion on the general recommendations made. The recommendation, however, that for certain harbours controlled by Commissioners engineering advice should be supplied by the State (Board of Works) was extremely objectionable. The assumption underlying the recommendation seemed to be based on the idea that consulting engineers had charged unreasonable fees for their services. That assumption was unfounded. The Institution had adopted a scale of charges which compared favourably with the fees of other professional men, and which had the unofficial approval of at least one Government department.

HARBOUR CONTROL.

In regard to harbours to be placed in the control of County Councils, the idea in some Government circles that county surveyors should undertake all engineering work within their spheres, had spread to the Tribunal. He was satisfied that few, if any, county surveyors but would agree that these harbours required the skill and experience of a specialist in marine engineering. The recommendation referring to the preservation of engineering records, and regarding absence of any State provision for the surveying of harbours and coasts and the preparation of charts, had the warmest approval of the Institution.

THE PROPOSED FREE PORT.

Referring to the question of the establishment of a free port at Dublin, the speaker said that the existence of a free port did not imply interference with the normal trade and working of an existing port. The underlying principle had, in effect, lent itself abroad to the development of local trade and the creation of consignment markets. A suitable area for such an enterprise existed on the North side of the Liffey, and it was to be hoped that they would see there the solution of some of the many problems encountered in dock and harbour engineering.

A vote of thanks was passed on the motion of Mr. J. Buckley, seconded by Mr. A. D. Delap.

The Mullins Medal was presented to Mr. H. Nicholls for his paper on "The Construction of a Tunnel Under the River Liffey."

It was announced that a paper on "Coast Erosion" would be read by Mr. M. Du-Plat-Taylor on Monday, 1st December.

CLOSING OF BUTT BRIDGE.

BIG DUBLIN TRAFFIC PROBLEM.

Some time near the end of this month the Butt Bridge will be closed to traffic, and the re-construction of the new bridge will be begun. One of the biggest traffic problems that has yet arisen in Dublin will then have to be dealt with by the traffic department of the Civic Guard.

At present all the heavy traffic from the north and the south sides of Dublin converge on this narrow neck. All through the day a constant stream of slow-moving traffic converges on this point. In addition, the port traffic from the quays on either side of the river seeks an outlet here.

The traffic department of the Civic Guard, of which General W. R. E. Murphy is the head, is at present at work seeking a solution and drawing up regulations for the control of this traffic when Butt Bridge finally closes.

All the heavy traffic that now goes over that bridge will, naturally, have to be diverted over O'Connell Bridge, and the problem is how to do it in such a manner that the least inconvenience and delay to ordinary traffic over O'Connell Bridge will occur.

THE FIRST STEP.

The first step towards solution was taken when the alternation of the tram lines on O'Connell Bridge was begun, and on its completion much greater space will be given for traffic. On the eastern side this is particularly so: for with the removal of the two old sets of lines there will be sufficient space for the passage of more than four cars abreast.

It is understood that the Civic Guard are considering running a two-way system of traffic over this eastern side of the bridge, as being the most feasible manner in which to cope with the diverted heavy traffic. Even so, there is a very great difficulty to be met as regards the best way of getting rid of the heavy traffic once it has been led to the bridge on either side.

It is understood that new regulations to deal with this traffic problem will shortly be issued.

FARMERS' PROTECTION ASSOCIATION.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR COMING CONVENTION.

A meeting of the Provisional Committee of the Farmers' Protection Association was held yesterday at 3 St. Stephen's Green, Dublin, Mr. T. MacKeogh in the chair. The organisers reported a large increase of membership throughout the county. Arrangements were made for the forthcoming convention to be held in the Mansion House, on November 12th, which will be opened by the Right Hon. the Lord Mayor. It was agreed that the convention should discuss the question of (1) requesting immediate protection against all imported goods that can be economically produced in the Free State; (2) requesting the Government to grant a moratorium of one year for payment of agricultural rents, annuities and interest in lieu of rent on agricultural land; (3) demanding immediate de-rating of agricultural land; (4) requesting the introduction of legislation to ensure that interest in lieu of rent—pending vesting—should be fixed at the statutory rate of interest or the statutory purchase price, viz.—4½ per cent.

An emergency committee was appointed, and it was decided that the next meeting of the Provisional Committee would be held on Monday next at 3 o'clock, and that the secretaries of the various agricultural organisations in the Free State counties should be invited to send list of delegates on or before that day.

'BUS ON FIRE IN GARAGE.

A fourteen-seater 'bus, the property of Mr. C. Moore, Dublin, was destroyed by fire in a garage, 5 New street, Dublin, yesterday evening. Sections of the Fire Brigade from Tara street and Thomas street, under Stationmasters Rogers and Dowling, were called at 7.20 p.m., and on arrival laid on two lines of first-aid hose, confining the flames to the vehicle, which was destroyed. Glass in the wooden roof of the garage was destroyed by the heat, but the damage to the premises was small. The members of the brigade were engaged for about half an hour.

RAID FOR UNIFORM.

Four young men, stated to have been armed with revolvers, entered the residence of Patrick Hogan, New road, TIPPERARY, last Sunday night, and said that they wanted the "King's uniform," worn by his son, George, of the Irish Guards. George Hogan was absent at the time, and the raiders, after a search, found the uniform in a press in a bedroom, and took it away with them. A report was subsequently made to the Civic Guards, who are making inquiries. George Hogan, who is aged twenty-five, has been on leave during the past week, and on several occasions wore the uniform of the Irish Guards in the streets.

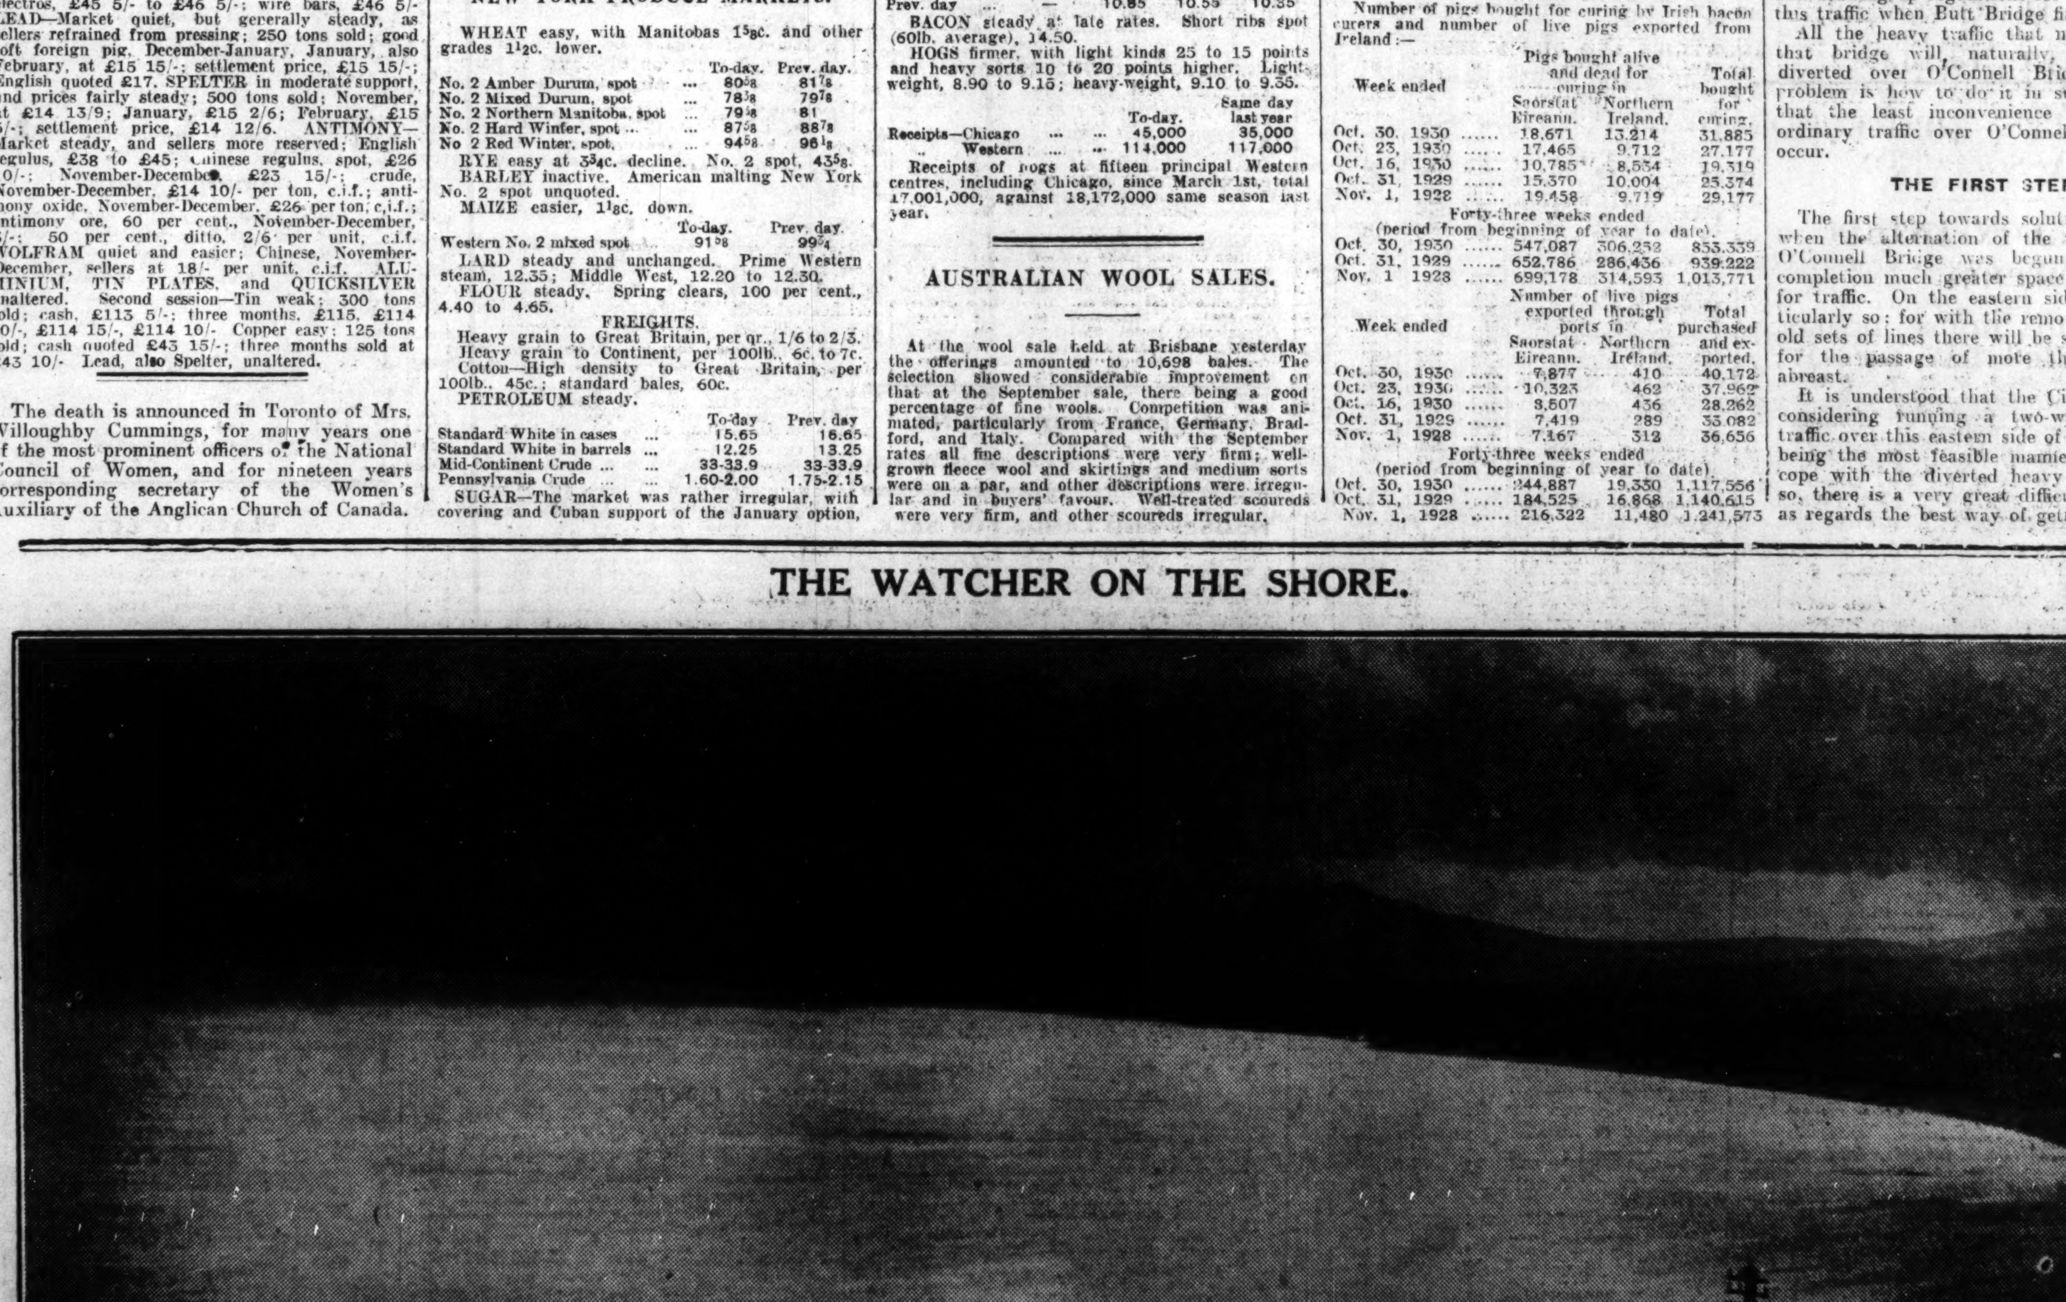

DRUNK IN CHARGE OF MOTOR LORRY.

At OMAGH Petty Sessions yesterday, George Price, Garvagh, Clanahagan, a public carrier, who already had a conviction against him for dangerous driving, was fined £10, and £1 costs, for drunkenness in charge of a motor lorry, and for dangerous and reckless driving on the same occasion his licence was suspended for twelve months. Captain Gosselin, R.M., said that he had previously given the defendant a chance, which he had not taken.

POWER HOUSE COLLAPSES.

It was reported at the meeting of OMAGH Urban Council yesterday, Dr. J. A. Cunningham (Chairman) presiding, that the roof of the new electricity power station had collapsed. The Finance Committee recommended that it should be replaced by a corrugated iron roof. Mr. Robert Rodgers said that the Council had adopted a scheme for the supply of electricity at a cost of almost £10,000, and at the very outset they had been made a laughing stock through the power-house collapsing. Mr. Thomas Johnston, J.P., urged that whoever was responsible for the blunder should bear the cost, and not have it put on the ratepayers. Mr. J. T. Hamilton, C.E., Town Surveyor, who acted as architect of the building, said that he acted on Mr. P. A. Spalding's instructions in having the timber ing removed. Mr. Spalding, the Council's consulting engineer, declined to accept responsibility, and stated that the removal of the timber was not the primary cause of the roof falling. Mr. D. A. Clements, J.P., moved that a committee be appointed to investigate the matter, and place the responsibility. Mr. A. E. Donnelly, M.P., seconded the motion, which was passed.

THE LEAF HARVEST.

Writing on this subject in the Weekly Irish Times, the Garden Correspondent says:—

Now dead leaves are swirling down, advantage should be taken to secure a supply of nature's own beneficent fertiliser. If this is done annually one always has a supply in various stages of decay and fitness for one's purpose. This is invariably done in large gardens, and might oftener be done in the small garden or plot of the allotment holder. Any quiet, unobtrusive corner of the garden where a little pit can be excavated is all that is wanted, in which clean leaves can be packed, and bide their time for natural decay, hastened by an occasional turning, and water sprinkling if necessary, and, although it may be not until the second, or even third, year until we get our leaf-mould in that most valuable of all stages, semi-decayed, the yearly harvest maintains the precious supply. We say clear leaves—that is, the dead leaves free of twiggy matter—and Beech Mast, as the nuts are called, are the best fertilisers. Oak leaves are probably the most valuable, but all leaves, if clean as indicated, are good, as well known to some of our country cottage folk, who may now be seen out with sacks gathering in the precious harvest.
